Cantata "HarvestHall" at Cochrane*St. Lecture Room

The members of the Mission Circle of Cochrane Street Church produced a most successful Cantata, entitled "Harvest Hall," in thanksgiving for the harvest of the year. There was a large audience in attendance, and the Lecture Room, where the affair was held, was fittingly decorated. The stage settings were pretty and showed quantities of all kind of crops grown during the past summer. The performers were quite at home in their parts and each character was faithfully portrayed. The following was the cast:—

Goddesses:

Grain—Miss W. Grimes.

Fruits—Miss E. Grimes.

Father Time—Geo. Whiteley.

Mother Earth—Miss M. Mews.

Grandfather—George Hynes.

Grandmother—Miss G. Young.

Father—Ross Young.

Mother—Miss Julia Hopkins.

Boy—Lily Barrett.

Girl—Harold Drover.

Mr. W. A. Mews was musical director.

Candy and ice cream were sold during the performance and at the close the vegetables used in decoration were auctioned and realized a nice sum. This affair was very enjoyable and the Mission Circle ladies are justly proud of their efforts.

Come and have your tea at the Congregational Ladies' Aid Sale, Nov. 25. You will be sure to enjoy yourself.—nov19:2f

A Hotel Broadcaster

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—I understand the management of the new Hotel intend installing a powerful broadcasting apparatus. I think it is quite time that Newfoundland was heard on the air, and feel sure it would prove an excellent entertainment.

I would also suggest that a temporary aerial be erected now, so that the station may be in operation all winter, and by the time the Hotel is completed, I venture to say that many thousands of people in Canada, U.S.A. and elsewhere will have learned where Newfoundland is and something of the attractions she has to offer to visitors.

Or, instead of having the station at Mount Pearl dismantled, could it not be secured by the management (or Government), and programmes broadcast direct from studio at the Hotel, using remote control.

Yours truly,

RADIO.

New Soviet War Chief Appointed

Command of the Soviet army has been entrusted to Clement Voroshilov, a former metal worker who was selected recently to succeed the late Michael V. Frunse as war Commissar. Voroshilov is 44 years old and is the third of the Red army commanders, the first having been Leon Trotsky, who created the Communist war machine before his deposition from power by the Bolshevik leaders on a charge of having flouted the party creed.

During the civil war period Voroshilov commanded the tenth army operating on the southeastern front against General Denikin. He is a staunch adherent of the dominating group of the central committee. Voroshilov relinquishes the command of the Moscow garrison to assume his new duties. He is a member of the Revolutionary War Council.

Middle-Aged Book-keeper Sails Around World

HAS MANY ADVENTURES IN 34-FOOT YAWL BUILT BY HIMSELF.

Los Angeles, Nov. 13.—When a pale, 50-year old book-keeper spends all his spare time reading about clipper ships, unknown coasts and the blue reaches of the South Seas, and takes to studying navigation at night in his bedroom—watch out for him.

Such a man is in a fair way to cut loose and find out if perhaps he can't make some of his dreams of the sea come true. And then he'll be ruined for book-keeping.

Harry Pidgeon, six years ago, was just such a man. He went to the library daily and immersed himself in books about ships and the sea. His horizon extended far beyond the dusty confines of his office.

BUILDS OWN BOAT.

So at last he went on the loose. He built a 34-foot yawl, mastered the art of sailing it and charting a course, and then sailed out of the harbour one day, all alone.

That was on Nov. 18, 1921. The other day he came sailing back. He was no longer a pale, stooped book-keeper, but a sturdy, bronzed navigator—and he and his 34-foot yawl had been "round the world!"

"I never had a bit of trouble but once during the entire trip," said Pidgeon. "Last April, while crossing the South Atlantic, I was nearly run down by a British tanker. I was asleep in the cabin, sailing under reefed mizzen and jib with a half gale abeam."

"Something bumping the side awakened me and when I went out on deck to see what it was, that big tanker was right alongside. A big roller came along and lifted the islander higher than the tanker's deck. As she went down into the trough, her bowsprit was wrecked. I rode out the gale and then repaired the broken rigging."

"Aside from that, I never even parted a rope. That little boat can weather any kind of storm. Why, I would be willing to start out again to-morrow with her just as she is. I did go ashore just off Cape Town, Africa, but we were soon off again and the Islander wasn't even scratched."

FRIENDLY SAVAGES.

"When I started out, I went directly to the Marquesas Islands and then bent about the South Sea Islands for a while. All the savages I met were friendly. I don't believe there are any wild ones any more."

"Then I headed for Torres Straits, across the Indian Ocean and then went down the coast of Africa to Cape Town. It seemed as if I were almost home then. All I had to do was sail across the Atlantic, through the Panama Canal and up the coast home."

You have to watch out when a fifty-year-old book-keeper starts dreaming about distant shores and untravelling seas.

He's apt to take his dream seriously. Pidgeon will never be a good book-keeper any more.
