Come into the garden. Maud,
For the white cat winter has fled;
An' you got ter hustle around
And spade the garden bed.
The horse-reddish down by the walk
Hes sprouted; the rhubub, too;
An the fennel an' sparrergrass
Is callin', Maud for you. Come into the garden, Maud,

Come into the garden, Maud; Bring the rake, the hoe, an' the spade, An' the lettis an' inyun seeds; It is time that the beds waz made. An'I will look over the wall,
Whi e the robin sings you a song,
And the bumblebee buzzes around To see how you'r gittin' along.

For there isn't a soul but you, As your ma has the rhe amatiz,
To work in the garden. Maud;
So you buckle right down to biz.
For me an' the hired man An' the boys has plenty to do, With plowin', plantin', an' sich, An' pushin' the farm work through,

Go shet the pianner up,
An' your woostered dogs lay by:
Teke the rings from off of your hands;

It'll do no good to ery.
An' into the garden, Maud,
Like a dutiful, clever young lass,
Yeu hustle this minute, now, Or there'll be no garden sass.

The buttercups bloomed in her heir, The roses bloomed on her cheek. She could 'ras le the township down,
When she'd worked in the garden a week.

Pine-Malt is All the Talk Hereabout. "What shall I take to break up this bad cold?" Answer-Pine-Malt. "But it has gone down to my lungs and hangs on!" Then get a bottle of Pine-Malt and Hypophosphites instead. I advise this from personal and family experience. Pine-Malt acts like a charm, allaying cough, curing hoarseness and other symptoms with surprising quickness. It is a great family medicine, safe and pleasant. My faith in Pine-Malt is unbounded. The new medicine is all the talk hereabout. J. G. CAL-DER, pastor, Brooke Bartist Church, Lambton, Ont., Jan. 30, 1895.

Wheat and barley are a toot high, the hills and valleys are covered with grass and flowers, mocking birds are singing, bees humming, and horned toads running in the hot sand. The lowest temperature at Riverside this winter was 28° above zero, and that lasted only a few minutes. They look for the good old times again in California, says Mr. Beamer, and the opportunities for profitable investment are abundant.

W. Ward in London West yesterday, charged with stealing 30 plugs of chewing tobacco from George Underhay. Mr. Underhay is an elderly man, and keeps a grocery store at the corner of Oxford street and the Wharncliffe road. On Tuesday, while he was absent for a time, the store was entered and the tobacco taken. Armstrong, when placed under arrest near his home on John street denied the theft, but afterwards confessed and said that he hid the tobacco under the house. A younger brother handed the goods over to the con-stable, and David was remanded until Saturday by Squire Lacey. Only fourteen plugs of tobacco were recovered.

-In "The Amazons," by A. W. Pinero, which comes to the Grand tonight, the author begins at once without prologue or introduction. Those who intend seeing this charming comedy will do well to bear this in mind and be in their seats before the rise of the curtain. The Toronto Mail says: "Mr. Charles Frohman's excellent comedy company brought back Pinero's farcical romance, "The Amazons," to the Grand Opera House last night and played to a large and delighted audience. The company, it will be remembered, first presented the piece in Toronto last November. It may be repeated that this so-called "farcical romance" is a charming production which most felicitously blends romance with satire. The satire is, however, so good natured that it is altogether stingless, even though it may have its point. Miss Maude Or-

SUFFRAGE AND STREET CARS.

"A Constant Reader" of the Boston Globe predicts that chivalry will disappear when women obtain suffrage, and says he is so disgusted by the spread of suffrage sentiment among women that nowadays he never offers his seat in a street car to young women, but only to old ones. As it is an article of faith with the opponents of equal rights that all the women who want to vote are very old and exceedingly ugly, this looks as if "A Constant Reader" were illogical, or else as if he had more latent chivalry than he is himself aware of, and gave his seat to ladies, not according to their progressive or conservative views on the suffrage question, but according to their greater or less ability to stand

The offering of seats in street cars has nothing to do with suffrage. A young man of chivalrous disposition gives his seat to a woman because she is presumably not so well able to stand as he is. On the same principle he gives his seat to an old man, though the old man is a voter as well as himself; and he never thinks of offering a seat to a sturdy boy of 18, although the boy cannot vote any more than the woman. It would be better for woman to have justice than chivalry, if they could not have both. A working girl put the whole case in a nutshell when she said she would willingly stand for twenty minutes in the street car going home if she could receive the same pay that a Hill Street Methodist Church last night was man would have had for doing her day's But there is no incompatibility between justice and chivalry. The proof of this is that there is no country where women have so near an approach to
