Lemon Pie

(From the Emporia Gazette)

Lemon pie is the one form of human food which has no justification. It does not cheer nor inebriate; it furnishes neither nutriment nor digestive assistance. It has not enough acid to produce a well defined tummy ache nor starch enough to produce indigestion. The person who discovered lemon pie turned into a culinary blind alley from which there is no escape. The miserable pie casts a blight upon American cookery, puts a blot on the scutcheon of the pie industry, and because it is introduced into the bills of fare of many misguided households it descends from bleeding sire to son and from daughter to daughter shedding its baneful influence upon generation after generation.

Some day the race will rise above lemon pie. Some day, perhaps a reformer will come who will swat it with a paralyzing swat. But about all an honest man can do in these degenerate days is to turn his scorn upon lemon pie and hope for the dawn of a better day.

The real hero of many a novel is the man who undertakes to publish it.

FATE OF THE RESOLUTE.

British Economy and the End of Franklin's Exploring Ship.

The story of how the brave little exploring ship the Resolute was found by an American vessel in Davis strait after a thousand mile cruise from Melville island without a soul on board is easily the most captivating in the history of arctic exploration. The Resolute, locked in the ice, was abandoned on May 15, 1854, sorely against the will of her captain by advice of the leader of the Belcher-Franklin expedition. The reappearance of the vessel on Sept. 17 caused a great sensation, and the United States brought the vessel with great ceremony to Cowes in order to present it to the queen of England.

The queen, the prince consort and others of the royal family then at Osborne House inspected the vessel, which had been carefully repaired and all the original furniture retained in position down to the smallest trinkets. The American skipper traced before her majesty the thousand mile course of the vessel and expressed his belief that Sir John Franklin was still alive, living among the Eskimos.

After many banquets the actual transfer of the vessel took place on Dec. 30, 1854, when the American flag was replaced by the British. And now comes the tragedy. The admiralty had no sooner come into the possession of the vessel than it proceeded to break it up on the good old principle of public economy—London Chronicle.

A TRAP FOR MARINERS.

Salmadina Bank, Off Colombia's Coast, Is a Perilous Shoal.

One of the most dangerous places for navigation is the Salmadina bank, which lies just outside the harbor of Cartagena, Colombia. Many vessels have come to grief on the treacherous sands of Salmadina in the past, and because of the impossibility of keeping buoys on it the shoal is a constant menace to ships plying those waters.

This dangerous bank is about four miles long and two miles wide. There is scarcely more than twelve feet of water over it at any time. The sea is usually smooth in that part of the Caribbean, and unless there is ground swell enough to cause waves to break on the reef there is nothing to warn the navigator that he is approaching this shallow spot. He may have his lead going and get plenty of water one minute and be bang up on the shoal the next.

The lighthouse people will probably never be able to put buoys on Salmadina that will stay there. They are invariably carried away in the terrific hurricanes that periodically sweep these waters. So it seems as if Salmadina was a bad spot put there for the permanent worry of shipmasters.—New York Sun.

Penalties For Sabbath Breaking.

Sabbath breaking in Dundee was an expensive business in former times, to judge by the table of fines, etc., drawn up by the local Guild of Bonnetmakers in 1605. For travelling or drinking in a tavern on Sunday the fine was fixed at 40 shillings for each offense. For "hanging out bonnets, clothing or fish to dry—penalty for bonnets, 6s. 8d.; for clothes, 4 shillings; for fish, 3 shillings. Carrying water from the well or washing meat thereat in time of sermon, penalty, 8 shillings; gathering kail in time of sermon, penalty, 5 shillings; going to neighbors' houses in time of sermon without lawful excuse, such as sickness, penalty for first fault, 12 shillings, and for second twice as much, with rebuke before the craft, and for the third, summons before the kirk session."—London Chronicle.

China's Millions.

Any figures for the population of China must necessarily be more or less unreliable, inasmuch as the census man is not much in evidence in the land of the Celestials. The estimate, which is probably somewhere near correct, is 402,700,000. As to whether the millions of China will ever become thoroughly modernized in the sense that the Japanese are remains to be seen. The Chinaman possesses plenty of good sense and there seems to be no valid reason why he should not some time "catch on" to things and forge ahead with the rest of the folks.—New York Journal.

AVERTED THE DUEL.

Valor Vanished With the Choice of Weapons and Conditions.

Representative Borland of Missouri gives an account of the challenge to a duel which occurred in Louisiana, supposedly among the last challenges of that environment in the state. The affair was between a gentleman who belonged to one of the oldest families there and a sturdy blacksmith of Georgia, who had become a man of political influence.

The gentleman took offense at some remarks of the Georgian and sent him a challenge. The powerful blacksmith was nonplused.

"I know nothing about this dueling business," said he, "and I positively will not fight."

"You must," urged his friend. "No gentleman can refuse."

"I am not a gentleman," replied the honest citizen of Georgia. "I'm only a blacksmith."

"But you will be ruined if you do not fight," continued his friends. "You will have the choice of weapons, and you can choose so as to give yourself an equal chance with your adversary."

"The giant requested time in which to consider the matter and ended by accepting. He sent the following reply to the Louisiana gentleman:

"I accept, and, in the exercise of my privilege, I stipulate that the duel shall take place in Lake Pontchartrain in six feet of water, sledgehammers to be used as weapons."

"As his adversary was about five feet eight inches in height and the blacksmith was seven feet, the conceit of the latter so pleased the Louisiana gentleman that he declared himself satisfied, as he was one who could appreciate a joke as well as perpetrate one, and he declared the duel off."—Exchange.

HIS DREAM MATERIALIZED.

Curious Incident in the Career of Novelist S. R. Crockett.

One morning the postman brought to S. R. Crockett, the novelist, a letter from the editor of the St. James' Gazette containing a small check as payment for a contribution. Mr. Crockett knew that nothing was due to him, that he had been paid for all articles, and—remarkable man—he did the check up in an explanatory note and returned it to the editor.

The next day back came the check from the editor—remarkable man—with a note saying it was due. The St. James' Gazette had published an article from the pen of Mr. Crockett which had not been paid for, hence the check. Again Mr. Crockett—remarkable man—returned the check, and still the remarkable editor reforwarded it, this time with the article cut out of the columns of the St. James' Gazette.

Now comes the curious feature of the incident. When Mr. Crockett clapped his eyes on the article he was astonished to find it one of his dreams materialized. One night, going to bed extra tired, he dreamed that a good idea for a St. James' Gazette column had occurred to him, that he then and there sat down, wrote it and posted it. Next morning he remembered his dream and made up his mind some day to write the article exactly as he dreamed he had written it, when, to his astonishment, came article and check from the newspaper. Few writers earn checks while asleep.—London Standard.

East Africa's Big Game.

Big game of British East Africa, outside of the three preserves of the colony, is rapidly vanishing and, according to W. T. Hornaday, "is absolutely certain to disappear in about one-fourth the time that it took South Africa to accomplish the same result." Mr. Hornaday points out that the present legal bag limit is ruinously extravagant. For $250 any man may buy the right to kill 300 head of hoofed and horned animals of forty-four species, not counting carnivorous animals that may also be killed. Thus the richest big game fauna of any one spot in the world, which nature has been several million years in developing and placing there, seems likely to be wiped out by man within the next fifteen years.—Chicago News.

Just an Oversight.

It was 9 o'clock in the morning in an English town, and the roads were blocked with snow. The maid, who had been given a week's notice, was facing the last day of her sojourn in the house. She handed the usual cup of tea to her mistress in bed and then said sweetly, "Oh, ma'am, when ye asked me yesterday if we had everything in for tonight's party I forgot to tell ye we are out of coal and the furnace is goin' out."

This Earthly Stage.

"The sun," remarked the kindly citizen, "shines for all."
"And that's what worries some people," averred the caustic citizen. "They seem to think the sun ought to be handled as a spot light."—Louisville

It does restore the sufferer to normal bodily trim and mental happiness.

A Gotham man who insisted on monopolizing the talk at a women's meeting, was collared and ejected by a stalwart feminist. A man with no more sense than to attempt to do all the talking in an assemblage of women, ought to be sent to a feeble-minded asylum for the rest of his natural life.

Some people do not believe that a rooster can live without a head, but such is not the case. About 35 years ago a man exhibited a headless rooster in an Ontario town, and others wishing to go on the road with a cock of this kind for exhibition purposes began experimenting, and discovered that about one bird out of a dozen would live without its head. The government finally stopped the destruction of birds in this way, upon the grounds of cruelty to animals.

A farmer spilled some whiskey on his barn floor, so that a little stream of it ran out. A certain mouse sallied forth from his hole and being thirsty took a sip. It tasted strange and he went back in his hole and thought and then he came out and took another sip and went back again and thought. Then he came out and took a big drink. Then he jumped up on the edge of the soap box and stood up on his hind legs, bristled up his whisker and exclaimed, "Now bring out that damned cat!"

It is a Liver Pill.—Many of the ailments that man has to contend with have their origin in a disordered liver, which is a delicate organ, peculiarly susceptible to the disturbances that come from irregular habits or lack of care in eating and drinking. This accounts for the great many liver regulators now pressed on the attention of sufferers. Of these there is none superior to Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Their operation though gentle is effective, and the most delicate can use them.
