

quantities of them. These facts must be taken into account in any consideration of the potential use of toxins and bioregulators as warfare agents, especially if physical or mental incapacitation, not only lethality, were considered to be among the range of sought-after effects.