

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
 BY
 CHARLES A. BEAUPRE
 VOL. I.

The first part of the history of the United States is the history of the colonies. The colonies were founded by Englishmen who had come to America in search of a better life. They were at first dependent on England for their supplies and their protection. But as they grew in number and in power, they began to assert their independence. They demanded that they should be treated as equals with the British people. They refused to pay taxes that were imposed on them without their consent. They insisted that they should have the right to elect their own representatives to make laws for them. They fought the Revolutionary War to win their independence. They declared that they were now a free and sovereign nation. They adopted a constitution and elected a president. They have since that time been a great and powerful nation.

The second part of the history of the United States is the history of the expansion of the country. The United States has always been a nation of frontiers. The frontiers have always been the source of new life and new energy. The pioneers have always been the men who have made the country what it is today. They have explored the unknown, they have discovered new lands, and they have made the country a great and powerful nation. The United States has always been a nation of frontiers. The frontiers have always been the source of new life and new energy. The pioneers have always been the men who have made the country what it is today. They have explored the unknown, they have discovered new lands, and they have made the country a great and powerful nation.

The third part of the history of the United States is the history of the development of the country. The United States has always been a nation of progress. The pioneers have always been the men who have made the country what it is today. They have explored the unknown, they have discovered new lands, and they have made the country a great and powerful nation. The United States has always been a nation of progress. The pioneers have always been the men who have made the country what it is today. They have explored the unknown, they have discovered new lands, and they have made the country a great and powerful nation.

The fourth part of the history of the United States is the history of the present. The United States has always been a nation of progress. The pioneers have always been the men who have made the country what it is today. They have explored the unknown, they have discovered new lands, and they have made the country a great and powerful nation. The United States has always been a nation of progress. The pioneers have always been the men who have made the country what it is today. They have explored the unknown, they have discovered new lands, and they have made the country a great and powerful nation.