Mr. CLANCY. Will the hon, gentleman pardon me? I have not insisted that he should read it, but have been disposed to spare him the trouble, especially as I understood him to say that he was somewhat fatigued. If there is anything of a private or confidential nature in the statement he has under his hand, let him have a statement of the changes prepared, which can be given another time. I simply took the hon. gentleman at his word about his willingness to give the information; and 'f he does not object, we do not object, to consider it read.

Mr. PATERSON. There is a large number of names, and it is not quite regular to put in 'Hansard' anything of this kind that has not been read. Perhaps I could, with the consent of the committee, lay it on the table-

Mr. INGRAM. If the consent of the House is obtained, this document can be put in 'Hansard' without reading. There is only one copy laid on the Table, but if it is published in the 'Hansard' we can all have a copy.

Mr. PATERSON. I have no objections to putting it into the 'Hansard' if the Chairman is willing. With the permission of the committee I will hand it to the reporter to be taken as read.
