Dear Mr. Brault,

I have your letter of October 25th, in which you ask me to support in a financial way the commendable effort you are making to establish the Canadian Opera Company.

From the beginning I have told you that I was sympathetic to this idea but I never considered the time opportune to launch the project. There are too many people like myself who are really unable to take on any more financial obligations. I am truly sorry that circumstances are such that I cannot subscribe.

Ever yours faithfully,
