

TO MAKE HENS LAY IN WINTER.

Keep them warm, keep corn constantly by them, but do not feed it to them. Feed them with meat scraps, when lard or tallow has been tried; or fresh meat. Some people chop green peppers fine, or feed cayenne pepper mixed with corn meal. Let the hens have a frequent taste of green food, a little gravel and lime or clam shells.

OYSTER SOUP.

Take one quart of water, one teacupful of butter, one pint of milk, two teaspoonfuls of salt, four crackers rolled fine, and a teaspoonful of pepper. Bring to full boiling heat as soon as possible, then add one quart of oysters. Let the whole come to a boiling heat quickly, and remove from the fire.

RIPE TOMATO PICKLES.

To seven pounds of ripe tomatoes add three pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar: boil them together fifteen minutes, skim out the tomatoes and boil the syrup a few minutes longer. Spice to suit the taste with cloves and cinnamon.

SPLENDID OMELET.

Six eggs, whites and yolks beaten separately; half pint of milk; six teaspoonfuls of corn starch; one teaspoonful of baking powder, and a little salt; add the whites, beaten to a stiff froth, last; cook in a little butter.
