Of Interest

One of the most brilliant functions of the year was the benefit bridge of eighty-four tables, given yesterday afternoon in Pythian Castle Hall for the Free Kindergarten Association work. The guests were received by Mrs. Allan G. McAvity, president of the Association, who wore a handsome New York crepe gown of cocoa color with smart brown picture like white touches of gold. Mrs. D. C. Dearden, vice-president of the Association, assisted in receiving, wearing a very stylish draped black and gold frock with chic hat of the same effect. The guests were in great variety of new afternoon gowns of fashionable design and beautiful colors. Mrs. G. Fred Fisher, wife of the Mayor of the city, Mrs. Heber Vroom, Mrs. G. Wilford Campbell and Mrs. William C. Clark presided at the tea table, which was centred with daffodils and pink roses. Yellow candles in silver candlesticks shed a pretty light over the well-appointed table, with its silver urns and cut glass and silver accessories. There was an abundance of good things to eat suitable for afternoon tea and the arrangements for serving were so well conducted by Mrs. Kenneth I. Campbell that there was no confusion after the game was finished. Mrs. S. E. Elkin was convener of the bridge tables and was assisted by Mrs. W. A. Lockhart, Mrs. Laurence MacLaren and Miss Dorothy Jack. Mrs. W. A. Nicholas and Mrs. George Polly had charge of the tickets. Mrs. K. I. Campbell was assisted in the dining-room by Mrs. Esther Miller, Mrs. H. O. Evans and Mrs. Fred T. Barbour. Those who assisted in replenishing were Mrs. Cyrus Shumway, Mrs. E. T. Barbour, Mrs. George Polly and Miss Knight, secretary of the Free Kindergarten Association. The young ladies who served were Mrs. Ronald Miller, Mrs. G. E. C. Gandy, Mrs. Thomas McAvity, Mrs. Kenneth I. Campbell, Mrs. L. L. Cranman, Mrs. John R. Gale, Mrs. Sidney Jones, Miss Marion Bell, Mrs. Frances Grinnam, Mrs. Daniel Mullin, Mrs. Frank B. White, Mrs. John Winters, Mrs. George F. Smith, Mrs. H. F. Puddington, Mrs. T. E. G. Armstrong, Mrs. E. H. H. Cumby, Mrs. George H. Ellis, Mrs. G. Ernest Barbour, Mrs. Pauline Baird, Mrs. Frank B. Ellis, Mrs. Margaret Lawrence, Miss Gladys Hagan, Mrs. Thomas McAvity, Mrs. A. K. Harvie, Mrs. A. W. Murray, Mrs. L. deV. Chapman, Mrs. E. Henry, Mrs. A. C. Currie, Miss Amelia Haley, Mrs. A. J. Mulcahy, Mrs. A. C. D. Wilson, Mrs. Marion Hogan, Mrs. George Scarborough, Miss Mortense Maher, Miss Constance White, Miss D. McAvity, Miss Allen Branscombe, Mrs. J. Branscombe, Mrs. Guy L. Frink, Mrs. William McAvity, Mrs. James Jack, Mrs. Fred McLean, Mrs. James H. Doody, Mrs. Nora Doody, Mrs. J. H. Doody, Mrs. Ernest Fleming, Mrs. R. Ernest Smith, Miss Helen Smith, Mrs. H. B. Peck, Mrs. T. H. Russell, Mrs. George Murray, Mrs. W. E. Scully, Mrs. C. B. Allan, Mrs. R. Macdonald, Miss A. E. Tingey, Mrs. John F. Driscoll, Miss Louise Driscoll, Mrs. Frank L. Peters, Mrs. J. Roy Campbell, Miss John Nixon, Mrs. E. Norman Hornbrook, Mrs. Norman Gregory, Mrs. F. W. Daniel, Mrs. D. W. Splane, Mrs. J. M. Barry, Mrs. John Travis, Mrs. H. O. Clark, Mrs. Louise Coman, Mrs. George W. Miller, Mrs. John C. Earle, Mrs. Walter Gilbert and others. Each party of ladies brought their own table covers and nice fresh packs of cards. There were tables on the platform and in every available space in the large assembly room. Everyone enjoyed thoroughly the afternoon, which was pronounced the most successful of the kind held this season.

SOCIETY WOMAN GOES INTO BUSINESS

Exclusive Shops in New York's "Upper Fifties" Managed by Members of Social Four Hundred

By MARIAN HALE.

New York—The social register and the classified business directory no longer have separate clientele so far as feminine entries are concerned. The society girl and the working girl no longer revolve in different spheres. There is a class of business women today who call their motors and go to work in sables or silver foxes, if they feel like it, just as there is another class that sponges up the blue serge suit and saves out the nickel for car fare.

It's fashionable, among the 400 of New York, to have your own business and to conduct it for profit just as father does. The society girl of today is more apt to be found at her office or shops during the day than she is at the Ritz or Sherry's in the evening. And it is being demonstrated daily that society women develop into excellent business women.

Interior Decorators.

There was a time when it was considered revolutionary for Elsie De Wolfe, the actress, to open an interior decorating shop—so long as she didn't need to. But today there are more than a score of social register women in this business.

Mrs. Emmott Bud, for instance, who has an indisputed social position, has a decorating shop and she ransacks the collections of this country and Europe to find unique treasures for it. She has also done stage settings for a number of Broadway successes.

from cellar to garret, as well as dance and serve tea at Palm Beach and Southampton, are Marion Hall and Diane Tate.

Shortly after the former Mrs. Gouverneur Morris opened her beauty shop in the exclusive Fifties, where she serves regular hours daily, Mrs. Charles de Loosy Orléans opened a perfume business close by, and she is if anything more devoted to her shop than to society.

Mary A. King, another society girl, after completing service as a nurse in France, went to Scotland and learned all about wool. Today she has an importing business of her own in New York.

Mrs. Hiram E. Dewing has time to run a smart shop for sport clothing and be a decorator, as well as play the social game.

Helen Jenkins, one of the most popular members of the younger set, has an agency for an imported automobile. Marjorie Cleveland, another belle, is in the advertising business. Besides she furnishes editors with interesting news of the 400.

And there are many others.

BLACK MAGIC!

Once More Ancient Superstition Is Pitted Against Modern Science in Poison Murder Mystery

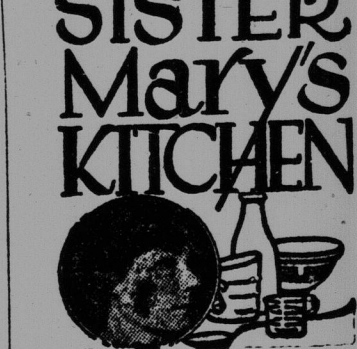

MRS. FANNIE COSTANZA (LEFT) AND MRS. EMMA COLAVITO, CHARGED WITH MURDER IN CLEVELAND'S SECOND POISONING CASE TO GROW OUT OF BELIEF IN POTENCY OF "BLACK MAGIC."

Cleveland, O.—Black magic and sorcery are again to figure in a Cleveland murder trial.

And hundreds of superstitious believers in sorcery eagerly waiting to see if Emma Colavito is again enabled to stand trial for murder and go to the gallows.

Her "black magic," they insist, resulted in the woman escaping conviction in the death of Dan Kaber, wealthy Cleveland publisher. And the same powers, they intimate, will bring her safely through trial on charge of poisoning Marino Costanza—if it doesn't prevent her arrest.

"Black magic," which the authorities contend was a virulent poison—caused the death of Costanza, police say. They charge his wife, Mrs. Fannie Costanza, hired the Colavito woman to rid her-

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons.)

BEANS.

Dried beans mean much to the woman who would serve nourishing muscle-building foods to her family. All legumes contain protein, making them valuable meat stretchers. But they are also rich in starch, taking the place of a starchy vegetable.

So a dish of beans combined with meat is a full meal in itself except for the mineral salts so necessary in the winter diet.

Beans are lacking in fat which can be provided in the meat or the salad. There are many varieties of dried beans. Their chief difference is in richness of flavor rather than nourishment.

Bean combinations are not quickly digested but persons who are healthy and vigorous may enjoy them to their hearts' content during the cold weather.

Chili con carne can be made with the red kidney or dried lima beans if Mexican beans are not procurable. The chili used in the dish can be prepared from dried chili peppers or chili powder can be used.

A green salad, made of cabbage or lettuce, and a fruit dessert served with cream could be served with chili con carne to round out the meal.

Chili Con Carne.

One pound round steak, 1 pod red chili pepper, 6 onions, 3 cups tomatoes (canned), 1 cup dried beans, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt.

Remove and discard seeds from pepper, soak in warm water to cover until soft. Scrape pulp from skins into the water and discard skins. Use pulp and water. There should be about one cup.

Cut steak into small pieces or put through the coarsest of meat grinder. Melt one or two tablespoons bacon fat in a frying pan, add onions cut in thin slices and fry a pale straw color. Add meat and brown quickly. Sift over flour and stir until well blended and brown. Add chili water and pulp, tomatoes and beans which have been soaked over night and parboiled in soda water. Simmer about two hours and add salt. Serve very hot. The mixture should be fairly thick when done. The beans are sometimes cooked separately and after draining cooked in two tablespoons bacon fat until fat is absorbed. They are then used to form a border for the meat mixture.

Baked Lima Beans with Pork.

One and one-half cups dried lima beans, 1/4 pound salt pork, 1 teaspoon mustard, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 onion.

Wash beans well through several waters. Let stand over night in cold water to more than cover. Rinse and drain and put on to cook in cold water with 1-4 teaspoon soda. Bring slowly to the boiling point. Drain and rinse in cold water. Put in kettle with two quarts of boiling water and boil one hour, adding water as necessary. Scrape and wash pork and boil one hour.

Drain beans and pork. Put half the beans in the bottom of a baking dish. Add pork which has been deeply scored on the rind and cover with beans. Mix molasses, mustard, pepper and tomatoes, bring to the boiling point and pour over beans. Cover and bake two hours in a slow oven. Remove cover, pull pork to the top of the dish, increase heat and bake half an hour longer to brown the pork.

Chorus Members Entertained

The Guild of St. Monica of the Mission church, St. John Baptist, last night entertained the chorus members at a very pleasant supper gathering. Twenty-five of the men and women members of the choir enjoyed the function. The choir had been doing splendid work for the church and the get-together for its members was a mark of appreciation. Rev. J. V. Young, priest-in-charge, and Victor Lee, organist, both gave short addresses. Miss H. R. Jack, president of the Guild, was the convener for the entertainment.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads—that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dirt and dust simply secreted that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxide powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Spring Things Seen in Winter Stores

New York, Jan. 22.—(United Press.)—A long, thin, wisp of chiffon veiling flutters from many a spring straw hat, and half the hat is buried under folds of the same chiffon. Usually this arrangement is held in fixed position by a brilliant metal ornament or a cluster of rhinestones.

I saw the first "piped" shoes the other day and must admit they are extremely clever. They seem to call for dark hose, however, which will be a novelty on New York streets, where the light-colored stockings have been having its heyday for over a year, and stubbornly refuses to be shelved.

Where are the bells of yesteryear? Not on a single dress this spring. Sometimes the waistline is indicated by little perpendicular tucks, sometimes by a button, catching up a draped gore, sometimes by a half-belt across the back with the front loose, or across the front with the back loose—for not all of us are built for the stove-pipe style, sad to say.

Shoes, like the American girl under Ziegfeld's management, have had their "glorification" and are still having it. Gloves are only beginning their New gloves have turn-back cuffs of a contrasting color, or a short, flaring gauntlet effect, violently striped on outside or inside.

The craze to have things "match" was never more virulent than it bids fair to be this spring.

Hats and handbags are being bought in pairs, now—made of the self-same material. One "set" I saw in a Fifth Avenue window consisted of a hat of dull blue straw with a contrasting flowered material.

With a plain blue tailored suit of the kind that is always good but this spring happens also to be the height of fashion, such a "set" ought to be exceedingly smart.

Chins are permissible, but noses are "out."

That is to say, noses are discreetly covered by the spring veils but chins and earlobes (flavored, as well as reddened, this spring) are plainly visible.

For the chubby-faced, such a style, of course, will simply be passed by.

with a longing sigh. Only the slender-faced patrician can affect such a fashion and not suffer for style's sake. But for the "moon-faced," there is the wisp side-veil, falling straight down, which has a lengthening effect.
