

THIS MORNING AT T. & L. CONGRESS

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 14.—A resolution presented by the Brotherhood of Painters and Decorators of Ottawa, advocating the entry of labor into the political field, was adversely reported by the committee on resolutions and provoked warm discussion at yesterday's session of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress. The language of the resolution, which invites the congress to cease the "hegemony, cap-in-hand function" of annually approaching parliament for enactment of certain legislation, was considered by some officials insulting to the congress. Action was deferred. Consideration of the report of the committee on resolutions occupied the attention of the delegates this morning. Resolutions already concurred in urge the dominion government to give Canadian printers better protection under the copyright act; support Canadian newspapers in their efforts to secure an adequate supply of newsprint although delegates from the latter carriers objected to part of the resolution which intimated that a flat rate of fifty per cent in the postal rate for newspapers and periodicals was sufficient, and demand that better wages and working conditions should prevail on the new Welland ship canal. The delegates also approved of the request from Montreal painters that the government should prohibit the use of spraying machines in applying paint. A resolution from Toronto railway employees asking that the government be petitioned to enact old age pensions legislation was also concurred in. Debate was resumed on the resolution of painters and decorators local No. 200 of Ottawa, favoring the entry of the congress into the political arena which the resolutions committee suggested be deleted from the report.
