GUS' SATISFACTION.

We'll skip it, reader; for it would look uessemily to begin a story with an oath like that Gus Gurley swore, standing over his wife's dressing table that morn-ing. And Gus wasn't a swearing man

How came he, then, to commit such a breach of etiquette and ethics? Well, may be you wouldn't have done it; but don't be too sure till you've heard enough to be able to 'put yourself in his place.' Imagine a young husband of six months' standing, ardent, fond and trusting, casually entering his wife's dressing-room in her absence, and stumbling on a mischievious-looking, rose-colored note, freshly opened, a cupid in every crease, and a lurking lock of another's hair—red—peeping stealthily from its folds!

hair—red—peeping stealthly from its folds!

The very paper blushed guiltily as Gus caught it up. Eagerly and wildly his eyes ran over the contents. For a moment he stood amazed and metionless, and then broke out—: But we've promised to skip that, Perhaps any other man would have given utterance to as much. reading such a missive as this, addressed to his wife:

"APFINITY, Aug.—th, 18—, "DEAREST KATE:—How could you go and marry that great hulky fellow behind my back, and without a word of notice?"

"Though P've returned too late to forbid the bans, I'm still in time to give that lord and master of yours a hint—which I mean to do—that an older love than his won't quietly suffer another to monopolize its rights.

"Expect me by Monday, and keep a kiss for "Your ever affectionate SAN SMITH."

Smith! Smith! Sam Smith! Faugh!
What a name! Had it been Brown, Jones or Robinson, there might have been some bearing it. But Smith! And red-headed, too! "Frailty, thy name is woman!" Yet it might be that Smith was some presuming puppy, whose vile was some presuming puppy, whose vile epistle was the sheer result of his own impudence. But no; the wife that could receive such a communication and conceal it from her husband could not could receive such a communication and conceal it from her husband could not be else than false.

Smith's heart's blood was the very least atonement the case admitted of. Had Gns been more collected, he might probably have bided his time and taken his peace-destroyer unawares and then "tripped him," trusting to an intelligent jury and proof of a mental alibit to bring him out all right. But he was not sufficiently rational for that, and so adopted the foolish plan of summoning Smith to mortal combat.

Gus had a friend, Captain Borax, a retired quartermaster, thoroughly versed in points of henor. The captain was just the man for the emergency; but, as ill luck would have it, he was out of town for the day.

That no time might be the Gustaffer at the caption of Smith's note, and fixing a time and place at which his friend, Captain Borax, would be prepared to confer with any friend of Smith's. At the same time a brief message to Mrs. Gurley explained that important business necessitated her husband's absence for the next few days. Meanwhile, Gus took up quarters at an obscure country ina, leaving everything to the management of the captain, whom he had succeeded in finding at last, and who, proud to be sought for such a service, promptly repaired to the appointed rendezvous, where he was punctually met by a friend of Smith's. The preliminaries were speedily settled, and a meeting was arranged for the following morning.

As the time drew near, Gus zerw nermeeting was arranged for the following morning.

As the time drew near, Gus grew nervous. The fact is, Smith's alacrity had taken him a little aback. He had felt quite confident that that miscreant would shrink from encountering the man whose honor he had outraged. But instead, without turning the word, Smith's second had chosen pistols, and named ten paces as the distance! It was plain the wretch was as bloodthirsty as unscrupulous. Besides, Gus was no shot, which Smith, judging from his choice of weapons, no doubt was. How much better, Gus began to think, to have fled forever from the scene of his unhappiness, or to have invoked the benign aid of the laws of South Dakots. But it was too late now to retract.

Toom a troubled slumber, such as condemned criminals are apt to fall into in the last hours of their last night, Gus was startled by a sensation as of a bullet piercing his thorax. It was only Captain Borax poking him in the ribs, by way of reminder that his "hour had almost come!"

Almost come!"

In a brief space—how very brief it seemed—they were on the fatal field.

At nearly the same instant a close carriage drove up, containing the enemy's Smith's second sprang out, closing the door behind him. He took Captain Borax aside, and the two held a hasty consultation; which over, the ground measured, pistols loaded, positions allotted, and everything in readiness, it only remained to place the men and give the word The combatants were to stand back to

The combatants were to stand back to back, and, at a signal, to wheel and fire. Gus had already taken his place, and was struggling, manfully but doubtfully, against an inclination, will-nigh irresistible, to leap over an adjacent hedge, and run as fast and far as his legs could carry him, when an exclamation from the captain caused him to turn his head.

"In Heaven's name, who's that?" said 'In/Heaven's name, who's that?" said

"In/Heaven's name, who's that?" said Captain Borax, accosting the fellow-second, in the act of conducting a young and beautiful lady to the very spot destined for Smith.

"My principal, gentlemen, Miss Samantha Smith—'Sam Smith,' as she's called for short.' the other answered.

Gus saw it all. Flinging down the pistol, he rushed forward, and would certainly have hugged and kissed "Sam Smith,' without ceremony, if her second—no other than her affianced lover—hadn't looked like a chap that would stand no nonsense. As it was, no man was ever equally pleased by the discovery that he had made an ass of himself.

self.

The lock of hair was the only puzzle unexplained, and "Sam" soon cleared that up. It was one of Guy's own, given long before to Kate as a souvenir. "Sam" had stolen it, to tease her friend, and had taken the method we have seen of returning it. Of course it wasn't red, but auburn.

"Sam" and her friend went home with Gus, first solemnly promising, as did the captain to keep the secret, and, above all not to let Kate know; but, bless you, such things always do get out. He Had It Bad.

THE CREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

AND Stomach&Liver Cure No charge for Testing the Sight. The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar. It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk. This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indicestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year. IT IS A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF

Nervous Prostration Nervous Headache. Female Weakness. Paralysis, Nervous Paroxysms and Nervous Choking, Hot Flashes, Palpitation of the Heart, Mental Despondency, St. Vitus' Dance. Vervousness of Females. Nervousness of Old Age, Summer Complaint of Infants.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Disecses, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is here are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the ly running Equipment equal to right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement,

To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done many appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tone and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and powerful nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITAS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE. IND., June 22, 1887.

Ly daughter, cleven years old, was severely a tieted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of with American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

State of Indiana, State of Indiana,
Montgomery County, \} 88:

Subscribed and sworn to before me this June 22, 1887. INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA. The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the stomach, because the experience and textimose and tex perience and testimony of many go to prove that this is the one and only one great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the Worderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

Harre E. Hall, of Waynetowh, Ind., says:

"I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for froemonths from the effects of an exhusted stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration, and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was abjecto walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely.
I believe it is the best medicine in the worl. I can not recommend it too highly."

No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a wondrous cure for the Nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a cure for all forms of falling health. It never falls to cure Indigestion and Dyspopsia. It never falls to cure Chorea or St. Vitus Dance. Its powers to duid up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon;
if you do, you may neglect the only remedy while will restore you to health. South American
