

GIRL RESCUED FROM WRECK OF VOLTURNO IS A BRIDE

Two Elopers Aboard the Fire Ship were Saved, but Separated Temporarily—Little Jewish Girl not at all Alarmed Over Safety of Family.

New York, Oct. 20.—Echoes of the Volturno disaster were heard in Henry street and East Broadway yesterday when mothers met their children and other survivors were reunited with their relatives. Men and women were kept busy attending to the needs of the survivors, and a great throng of curious persons gathered outside the Hebrew shelter, No. 229 East Broadway.

One of the happiest of the survivors of the disaster was Chaja Baitak, 20 years old, a pretty young woman, who came from Rostenrofska, Russia, to be married to Abraham Saretzky, 22 years old, of No. 229 East 19th street. He has been in this country for two years. The couple were married by Alderman James Smith almost before the ink was dry on their marriage license.

The bride explained that she was sorry she had no trousseau. She declared that she had spent two years in getting her marriage trousseau together and everything had been lost aboard the Volturno. She said Saretzky had determined to come to this country to seek his fortune two years ago and since that time she had been looking forward to becoming his bride.

"Isn't this awful to be married in such a dress?" she said. "But, all my pretty clothes have been lost aboard the Volturno. I have only a few things left. My mother, Mrs. Charez Welsch, was rescued by the Minnie spoils, of the Atlantic Transport line, and her brother, three years old, by the Touraine, of the French line. Blume came to this country aboard the Seydlitz of the Northern Lloyd line. Her father is believed to be with her brother on board the Touraine.

Child Talks of Her Rescue. Blume hailed from Vinohra, Russia. Dressed in a little pink frock, her hair falling on her shoulders, the pale girl presented a pretty picture. She is intelligent, but for some reason she cannot account for the great excitement caused by the loss of the Volturno.

As she talked to me through an interpreter in the hallway of the Jewish home she punctuated her remarks by bouncing a rubber ball, a relic of the wreck, which she had kept in her hand at the time her mother placed her in the arms of a sailor to go with the Tepper family in the Seydlitz. Blume said that she and her husband had eloped away from a small town in Northern Russia, and after they bought their tickets for a passage to this country aboard the Volturno, they got married. It developed that the Red Cross and other organizations were seeking the husband under Mrs. Seidenberg's maiden name. Now they have discovered that her husband was in the United States, and she is now in the hands of the police.

Mrs. Marie Yurkofsky, her husband and two of their children were rescued by the Seydlitz. Three other children belonging to Mrs. Marie Yurkofsky are missing, and the girl stricken with grief refused to believe the news, declaring that the captain of the Seydlitz told her that they had been picked up by the Kroomland.

DOWNPOUR STOPS BIG SHAM BATTLE

Thanksgiving Day Feature in Toronto Called off on Account of Rain—One Regiment Out.

Toronto, Oct. 20.—The usual sham battle which takes place on Thanksgiving Day did not come off today. The military authorities of Toronto did not wish to have any brave defenders of the city run the risk of contracting colds, so when the day broke with a drizzling rain falling they decided that the light would not be carried out.

Unfortunately, the Queen's Own Rifles, which had been selected to attack the city, did not know about this arrangement. They marched forth early in the day to begin the invasion, but the other local regiments remained at the armories. A great deal of fun is being made locally of the regiments who would not defend the city in a rainstorm.

STOCK CO. IN REVISION OF GOOD COMEDY

"Father and the Boys" by Thompson-Woods Co. Drew Crowded Houses at Opera House, Yesterday.

The theatre goers of St. John have come to regard the Thompson-Woods Stock Company at the Opera House as peculiarly their own, and at both performances yesterday when the theatre was filled by large and delighted crowds, the various members were greeted by many friends as they came upon the stage of the theatre.

The bill chosen for this week, "Father and the Boys," is a rollicking clean comedy, which shows the favorite of the company in new roles. Mr. Meharry, who hitherto has entertained with delineations of sharp drawn types, has a character comedy part which he handles with rare skill and with a dry, cynical humoristic style, reminiscent of Ed. Ellis, well known here in other days. As the sporty old business man who was determined to "go over the jumps for once in his life" he convulsed the audience. Mr. Woyler did excellent character work as the rascal track tout, his work in the third act being especially brilliant. Frank W. Fay, who played the Western mine owner, and the other gentlemen of the cast also did well.

Of the leading ladies, Miss Frances Brandt was as sweet and winsome as ever in the comedy lead. She had the part of a western belle in a former production, and she did it well, and she did it well. In the third act she was especially good in the race track scene, and she was paid for the laurels she had already won here, as a charming actress.

Miss Winona Bridges was cast as a society matron of the highest type and handled the role with a nice appreciation of its requirements. Miss Davis was dainty in the ingenue role, while new members of the company, Miss Bishop, Miss Derby and Miss Pauline Baird made favorable impressions. Miss Baird, who is a local girl and particularly well known as a character actress of ability, had but a small part, but what there was of it, she was well done, and she was warmly welcomed when she came on the stage. Miss Bishop, who will play heavy business with the company during their engagement here, is a striking blonde of splendid stage appearance. Her part yesterday did not tax her to any extent, but there is no doubt that her work will be watched with keen interest in the other bills.

The play which will not usually be seen here, All the scenes were well done, special mounting being given each, while the costumes were of the best. The necessary touch of color, it was altogether a most enjoyable offering and served as an excellent contrast to the heavier work of the week, which the company appeared last week.

It is the policy of the Thompson-Woods Company to present good stock productions of the leading plays in the best possible fashion. Expense and effort will not be spared to give the city a really good stock company and theatre-goers, by their enthusiasm during the past two weeks, and yesterday, have shown that they appreciate a clean, bright comedy which has been as large as the capability of the company merits, for there is no doubt that it is one of the best seen here. There is also a tendency to improvement in this direction and if yesterday can be taken as all as a criterion, St. John is in for a season of most enjoyable and successful productions.

"Father and the Boys" will be repeated all this week and theatre-goers who appreciate a clean, bright comedy should see it. Next week's attraction will be the great Zangwill play, "Merry Mary Ann."

PLUCK HITS OFF WOMEN AT THE PIER

Ten Aigrettes Seized as Passengers Quit Cincinnati—One Claimed Officer Tried to Cut Plumage.

Boston, Oct. 20.—Indignant women, alleged to be attempting to import the forbidden aigrettes into the United States, created stormy scenes on the pier at the Custom House yesterday, when they were warned by an officer to quit the aigrettes from her hat while she was wearing it. Another woman claims an officer tried to cut feathers from a hat found in her trunk. To do so would have ruined it. She told him to confiscate the whole hat. Ten aigrettes were taken from the women. The names given by the women are Freida Glauser, Elise Coman, Ida Wiedrecht, Flora Hall and Pauline Finn. The seizures were made as the result of the recent enactment by congress of a law forbidding the importation of aigrettes, which are made from the feathers of the mother bird, which can only be obtained while the bird is nesting and bringing up her young.

The customs inspectors were headstrongly opposed to the seizure. They would be attempted by passengers on the Cincinnati and instructing him to strictly enforce the law. As Mrs. Ida Wiedrecht stepped on the wharf it is alleged an inspector stepped up to her, armed with a pair of shears, and attempted to snip an offending aigrette from the hat she was said to be wearing. The woman became so argumentative that the officer was forced to desist and compromised by taking the hat, which he promised to return to her after the feathers had been removed.

In a trunk belonging to Mrs. Pauline Finn, it is alleged, a hat was found so completely made of the forbidden material that it could not be cut up without destroying it. When the officer attempted to remove the feathers it is said the owner told him to take the whole hat.

BIG RADIIUM DEPOSIT

DISCOVERED HERE

Williamstown Hills May Contain Wealth Beyond Wildest Dreams of Avarice—Spring Waters Curative.

Williamstown, Mass., Oct. 20.—Radium deposits that would enrich the finders beyond the wildest dreams of avarice may lie beneath the rugged mountains that overshadow this quiet village of Williamstown.

This discovery has been made by Professor J. H. Shrader of Williams College. It happened in this way: For more than a century the legends of the country have attributed remarkable curative powers to a warm spring on the southern slope of Domet Mountain. It lies on the north trail, the Mohawk trail of the early settlers, who fought the Five Nations, as the Indians that used the forest highway were known.

War parties of marauding braves always made a night camp at the spring and drank and bathed while in the neighborhood. The water was said to be curative of the bubbling waters, which they believed had been given some mystic power by the Great Spirit.

Since 1762, when the first palefaces settled there, fresh stories of amazing cures have been related from time to time. It is declared that the water cures have been related from time to time. It is declared that the water cures have been related from time to time.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20.—"The crying need of the mining industry is a complete revision of the mining laws," declared Dr. David W. Brunton, of Denver, president of the American Mining Congress, in his annual address here today. He referred to the so-called "apex" law as the most archaic that was ever placed upon the statute books of the United States.

"In every state in which compensation laws have been passed, so far as I am able to learn," said the speaker, "the results have been extremely gratifying. The cost of the employer has been no greater than before, while the sufferers get from two to ten times as much as they did under the antiquated laws in force in most states."

Dr. Brunton declared that the mine-owners and miners of the west are being throttled by a gigantic smelting monopoly, which, he declared, not only throttles the miner but also the consumer. He pleaded for the extension of workmen's compensation acts to all states.

Another startling discovery was made today at Hooker River, where a large deposit of radium was found. The deposit was found in a brook that never freezes over in winter and is bordered by green grass in January led the investigators to the radium. The radium was found in the foothills of the Taconic Mountains.

The warm brook was found winding across the woodland farm of Arthur Rich, near Hooker River. The brook was followed up North-west Hill to its source in a warm spring littered with leaves, through which little bubbles of gas were bubbling merrily. Without apparatus, Professor Shrader would not say positively whether the gas was radium, as the radioactive emanations discovered on Domet. He is now preparing to make an exhaustive test.

Plan to Drive Shavers. Professor Shrader's discovery has electrified this quiet college town. Conservative men were discussing to-day the practicality of driving down shafts to mine the radium deposits. Some predicted this place will become a rival of the world-famous uranium mine at Joachimsthal, Bohemia.

William F. Goodell, who will be 70 next December, assured the reporter that he had never been sick a day in his life. He attributed his good health to the fact that he has always drunk water from "warm" spring.

Williams College scientists estimate that the radium deposit at Hooker River is worth approximately $100,000 worth of radium in his lifetime.

"When I was five years old," said Mr. Goodell, "Tom McNaboo drove out here one day with a woman who was dying with an awful cancer on her face. She had her face washed with the water every day for several weeks and got well. Her name was Miss Sweet."

"I remember when I was a boy all the horses around here had some kind of distemper and died by the hundred. The farmers had to go into the hills to get their oxen to haul the dead animals away. Only seven horses didn't die. They were in a pasture here and drank from the overflow of Warm spring.

WATERSPOUTS RACE

NEAR THE S.S. CEDRIC

Passengers See Big Shaft of Water Chased by Two Smaller Ones in Heavy Squall.

New York, Oct. 20.—Waterspouts seldom have as many accredited sponsors as did the one reported by officers of the Cedric, of the White Star line, when she arrived in port yesterday afternoon after a passage marked by the extremes of both good and bad weather. This waterspout was not one of the variety that only a few passengers see after long sessions in the smoking room, but it was on view for nearly half an hour last Thursday afternoon.

At that time the Cedric was running into a heavy gale. Off her starboard side, about five miles distant, a squall blew up to an accompaniment of forked lightning and heavy rains. Then the main water-spout formed and the first officer of the Cedric described it as being about 500 feet high, with both its head and base hidden in the mist and rain.

"It was like an ink mark against the dark blue squall," he said. "After the spout had been in duration for about fifteen minutes two smaller spouts formed and followed it like puppy hounds."
