CHRISTMAS TREES FROM $1.75 TO $50

New York, Dec. 11.—A large proportion of Father Knickerbocker's little ones will be deprived of the enjoyment of a Christmas tree this coming Yuletide, unless they are fortunate enough to be invited to a church or community celebration with one of the candle illuminated and present laden trees as its central feature. The number of family trees is going to be considerably reduced this year by old H. C. L. With toys, candies, goodies and Christmas decorations soaring in price over the well-to-do families will hesitate before buying a Christmas tree at the prices now being asked in the down town markets.

The Christmas trees and other greens are keeping pace in the general upward trend of values. This increase in price, according to the large dealers is due to the increase in freight rates and the shortage of freight cars. The shortage of transportation facilities has naturally resulted in a shortage of the trees in the market, so that anyone who buys must be prepared to pay a price that makes one sigh for the good old days when a very respectable tree could be had for seventy-five cents or a dollar.

The Christmas trees for the New York market come principally from Maine, but a few cars are usually received from Northern New York. The trees are cut during the summer and held in ice houses, which keep the trees in a fresh and green state. Wreaths, holly and mistletoe are shipped here from several Southern States but these are also much higher this year, as the railroads are demanding that the freight be paid or guaranteed in advance, as in the past thousands of large cases of the greens have been refused by consignees and the railroad has been out of the freight. Under the administration of Uncle Sam the roads are taking no chances this year on being out of pocket on the Christmas evergreen trade.

About the smallest tree in the market is bringing $1.75 at retail this year. From this figure the price mounts to as high as $50, and $75 for some of the giant trees desired for church and other community celebrations. Holly wreaths are bringing $2 a dozen at wholesale and the loose mistletoe is to be had at from $3 to $4 a crate.
