

Success on a Farm.

Success has a different significance to different minds. To one it represents a large account at the bank, to a second a comfortable estate, to a third a high place in society, to a fourth a title or an office, and to a fifth the trumpet-voice of fame.

Can a young man succeed in farming? The first point to be considered is, does he like it. For no one can succeed in a business for which he has a positive aversion.

Daily exercise in the open air, constant contact with the soil, a wholesome diet, the peaceful surroundings make the farmer's life a pre-eminently healthy one, and surely health is one of the most important factors in success.

We often hear it said and that, too, by farmers, that farming will not pay. No business conducted as some farmers conduct theirs will pay, and it is the best evidence of the remunerative nature of agriculture that so many are able to get a living out of it.

There would not be so much pleasure in the night's rest if it were not for the day's work. A child of four years should be fed principally on milk, well-cooked cereals, as oatmeal and wheat preparation, and whole wheat bread.

A CARD. I, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, if, after using three-fourths of contents of bottle, they do not relieve Constipation and Headache.

Good Cheer! Courage Yet! DO NOT CONSIDER YOUR CASE INCURABLE. Paine's Celery Compound Works Marvellous Cures Every Day.

Though you have reached the critical time of a hot summer as diseased and broken down in health that your case is considered incurable, we say, 'Stick brothers and sisters, be of good cheer! Have courage yet!'

Her Majesty the Queen, addressing some Bechuanas chiefs at Windsor, in 1895, said: 'I am glad to see the chiefs, and to know that they love my rule. I confirm the settlement of their case which my minister has made. I approve of the provisions excluding strong drink from their country. I feel strongly in this matter, and am glad to see that the chiefs have determined to keep so great a curse from the people.'

When I grow up, said Ethel, with a dreamy, imaginative look, 'I'm going to be a school teacher.' 'Well, I'm going to be a mamma and have six children,' said Edna. 'Oh, when they come to school to me I'm going to whip 'em, whip 'em, whip 'em!'

Jelly Making.

The whys and wherefores of jelly making are as easily mastered as those of any other method of preparing fruit, and yet clear and sparkling jelly is by no means common, and many a housewife whose perfect assurance makes casing, preserving and pickling easy work makes a bugbear of jelly making.

The choice of fruit is the difficult part of the work. One may as well expect to gather figs of thistles, as to make firm and delicate flavored jelly of half grown or overripe fruit.

As with canning so in all other methods of preparing fruit, neither the vessel nor iron spoons must be used in any of the various operations. Granulated sugar is the purest, most delicate flavored and inexpensive.

None of the small fruits require any water in cooking if a quart of the fruit is first put in the preserving kettle, mashed and slowly cooked until the juice flows freely. Then draw the kettle to the back of the range; add the remainder of the fruit by degrees, stirring occasionally; draw to the front and cook gently but steadily until soft.

While the fruit is cooking, soak the linen drip bag in hot water. As soon as the fruit is soft enough to break easily, wring the bag dry, hold over a deep earthen bowl or stoneware crock, put in the fruit, tie the top firmly and suspend, to hang free, in a warm place and away from drafts.
