Home Mission Work In The Yukon

From a letter just received by Dr. Warden from the Rev. J. Russell, Missionary of our church at Atlin, B.C., the following extracts are taken:

"Work here is of the most pleasant kind, as Mr. Pringle had left everything in good working order, and I am happy to report every department of the work as prosperous. I hold three services on Sabbath, two in Atlin and one in Discovery. There are only 200 people residing in Atlin this winter, and although there is an Episcopal Church as well as our own, our congregations range from 70 to 75. Nearly all the Presbyterians attend church, and a few Roman Catholics residing here all come on Sabbath evening. At Discovery the attendance is all that could be desired. There are only two of the Creeks working this winter, and I hold regular services at both, besides conducting weekly prayer meetings in Atlin and Discovery. As you are aware, Mr. Pringle had the congregation organized and elders ordained before he left. Since I came in, we have had a communion service in both churches, which was very satisfactory. We have also held our annual meeting.

Mr. Russell came to Canada some three or four years ago, and has done magnificent service for our church on the North shore of Lake Superior, as well as at Bennett and Atlin. He intended visiting the Old Country last fall, but at the urgent solicitation of the committee, he consented to go in to Atlin and spend the present winter there. He intends visiting Britain this spring, but has agreed to return to his work in Atlin after a brief home visit. Arrangements are being made for supplying Mr. Russell's place during his absence, and a student has been secured to work the Creeks during the ensuing summer months when there is a very large number of men, too many to be cared for by the missionary who supplies Atlin and Discovery. The two nurses at Atlin, sent out by our Church, are doing splendid service there.

A Great Work in Korea.

In Korea, says The Life of Faith, a church has grown up almost spontaneously, unorganized, pastorless, yet vital, self-supporting, and self-propagating, perhaps as near the apostolic model as the world has seen anywhere since. There are about 300 recognized Christian congregations under several bodies of foreign missionary workers, and about as many more observe some form of gathering for weekly worship.

The Bible in Japan.

One of the most cheering signs of the times in the Sunrise Kingdom is found in the rapidly increasing sales of the Scriptures. If Bibles, and Testaments, and parts are included, we have for the last three years an advance from 45,000, through 98,000, to 137,000, and 92,000 for the first six months of 1901.

French Dressing—Take as much oil as needed for the amount of lettuce, add a little salt and a dash of cayenne. Then add vinegar to taste drop by drop.

Bacon Rightly Broiled.

Broiled bacon is a dish which in few households deserves the adjective, because it is seldom broiled; the fat is fried out of it and again soaked into it by long spluttering in a spider full of grease. The only way to cook bacon—both for the matter of appearance and digestive qualities—is to broil it, not over a bed of coals (it is too fat for that), but in a very hot oven. Cut the bacon in the most delicately thin slices possible, rejecting the rind. Lay the pieces close together in a fine wire broiler. Place it over a dripping pan and set in a hot oven. It requires to be turned just once. The fat which falls into the pan makes excellent drippings for frying potatoes. Drain the bacon on brown paper. If you wish to serve cat's liver with this, sprinkle the liver with pepper and salt, roll it in flour and fry brown in the bacon drippings. Serve with a curled morsel of bacon on top of each piece of liver. Bacon as served by the average cook, well soaked in grease, is the most indigestible of food; when broiled crisp in the oven it is a dish that may be served even for a child of two with impunity. Among all the fats, delicately crisped bacon ranks next to cream in case of digestion.—Good Housekeeping.

It is said that a drop or two of camphor added to the water with which the face is washed prevents the skin from becoming shiny.

To clean a zinc-lined bath tub, mix to a smooth paste ammonia and whiting. Apply it to the zinc and let it dry. Then rub off until no dust remains.

Dusters should be made, as far as possible, of soft stuff, and should always be hemmed—which is easily done with a sewing machine—for ravelings are a nuisance.

When an oiled floor is soiled it may be cleaned by rubbing with crude petroleum or kerosene. It may also be washed with hot soapsuds. It should always be rubbed perfectly dry.

The following is a splendid liniment for chilblains: One ounce of camphor gum, four fluid ounces of olive oil. Dissolve together by a gentle heat, and apply to the afflicted parts.

One method of taking iron mold out of linen is to hold the spots over a tankard of boiling water and rub them with the juice of sorrel and salt, and then, when the cloth is thoroughly wet, to dip it quickly in lye and wash at once.

Lamb Croquettes.—Mince the cold lamb fine, and to it add about one-quarter its quantity of bread crumbs. Moisten with thickened cream or milk, add a little sweet marjoram, season with salt and pepper and mould in small cylinders. Dip first in egg, then in bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat.

Cream of Potato Soup.—Put four large potatoes on to boil in one quart of cold water. After boiling fifteen minutes, drain off all the water and cover again with fresh boiling water, to which add a bay leaf, a small piece of onion and a stalk of celery. Boil till the potatoes are done, and press through a sieve or vegetable press. Meanwhile have one quart of milk on in a farina boiler, and, when boiling, thicken with one tablespoonful of flour rubbed together. Pour this over the potatoes, stir till smooth, and serve immediately.

Fever's Victims.

THE AFTER EFFECTS OFTEN WORSE THAN THE DISEASE ITSELF.

A SUFFERER FROM THE AFTER EFFECTS OF TYPHOID TELLS OF HIS DEPLORABLE CONDITION—APPEARED TO BE IN A RAPID DECLINE.

The after effects of some troubles, such as fevers, la grippe, etc., are frequently more serious in their results than the original illness, and the patient is left an almost physical wreck. In such cases as these what is needed is a tonic medicine, to enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves, and put the system right. Mr. L. Barnhardt, a prosperous young farmer living near Welland, Ont., offers proof of the truth of these statements. Mr. Barnhardt says:—"Some years ago, while living in the United States, I was attacked by typhoid fever, the after effects of which proved more disastrous to my constitution than the fever itself, and for months I was an almost total wreck. I had no appetite, was haggard and emaciated, and apparently bloodless. I had violent and distressing headaches, and my whole appearance was suggestive of a rapid decline. I tried no less than three doctors, but they failed to benefit me. At this juncture a friend of mine mentioned my case to another physician, and he suggested that I should take a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took this advice and found it most satisfactory. Almost from the outset the pills helped me, and I continued their use until I had taken about a dozen boxes, when I felt myself fully restored to my former health, and my weight increased to 165 pounds. I have enjoyed the best of health ever since, and I will always give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the praise they so richly deserve."

These pills are a certain cure for the after effects of fever, la grippe and pneumonia. They make new, rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves from first dose to last; and in this way they cure such troubles as anaemia, neuralgia, rheumatism, heart weakness, kidney and liver ailments, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, etc. They also cure the functional ailments that make the lives of so many women a source of constant misery, and bring the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Other alleged tonic pills are mere imitations of this great medicine, and the buyer should see that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is on every box. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent postpaid at 50c. a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

However diverse the conditions of our lives may be, the choice that confronts us is the same for all,—the allurements of the world, or the call of God; the passions of the flesh or the yearnings of the Spirit; the glittering present, or the shining eternity; self-righteousness and pride, or humility and the grace of God; selfishness that promises satisfaction and gives emptiness, or love that demands surrender and gives joy. What a choice it is, and how trivial other things seem beside the issues that are settled in the depths of the soul! They are often settled so smoothly and automatically that there is no conscious jar, and yet the possibilities of the outcome are as the east and the west for distance.—Sunday School Times.
