THE BALLAD OF THE "EASTERN CROWN"

VE sailed in 'ookers plenty since first I went to sea, An' sail or steam, an' good or bed, was all alike to me; There's some 'ave tried to starve me, an' some 'ave tried to drown. . . But I never met the equal o' the "Eastern Crown." 'Er funnel's like a chimley, 'er sides is like a tub; An' pay is middlin' scanty, an' likewise so is grub; She's 'ard to beat for steerin' bad, she's 'ard to beat for grime, An' rollin' is 'er 'obby - oh, she's rollin' all the time!

Rollin' down to Singapore - rollin' up to Maine -Rollin' round to Puget Sound, and then 'ome again!
A long roll, an' a short roll, an a roll in between — An' the crew cursin' rosy when she ships it green We sailed for Philadelphia, New York, an' Montreal We knocked about a year or so 'tween Callao an' Nome. An' then to Portland, Oregon, to load wi' deals for 'ome She's met with accidents a few (which is 'er usual way);
She scraped the bowsprit off a barque in San Francisco Bay;
She's shed propellor blades an' plates wherever she 'as been
An' last she's fouled for bloomin' stress on a feature separate

Rollin in the sunshine—rollin in the rain— Rollin up the Channel—an' we're 'ome again A long roll, an' a short roll, an' a roll in between An' the crew cursin rosy when she ships it green As on the 'igh an' draughty bridge I stood my wheel one day,
"If we should sight a submarine" (I 'eard the old man say), "I'd do as Admirals retired an' other folks 'ave said, I'd run the old Red Duster up an' ring 'Full speed ahead!' I'd sink before I'd 'eave to or 'aul my colours down: By gosh, they'll catch a Tartar if they catch the 'Eastern Crown' I've thought it out both 'igh an' low, an' this seems best to me Pursoo a zig zag course" (he says) "an' see what I shall see!"

Rollin' through the Doldrums - rollin' in the foam -Rollin' by the Fastnet — an' we're nearly 'ome!

A long roll, an' a short-roll, an' a roll in between —

An' the crew cursin' rosy when she ships it green!

'E said it an' 'e meant it, an' 'e acted as 'e said,

You should 'ave 'eard' the engines grunt — you should 'ave seen She was beatin' all 'er records as they shovelled on the coal . . . . They missed 'er by a spittin' length—'er rollin' served 'er well; But it served 'er better after, as you're goin' to 'ear me tell; For she some'ow rolled 'erself atop o' the bloomin' submarine...
