FIRE INSPECTION. The chief moral to be drawn from the McDonald hotel fire yesterday is the necessity, more apparent now than ever before, of maintaining a careful system of flue inspection. Had the McDonald hotel been inspected recently and all the flues carefully examined, it is altogether probable that yesterday's disaster would not have occurred.

for a large proportion of the fires which have visited Dawson during the past four years. The peculiar conditions which exist here make the danger from that source particularly great. There are very few brick chimneys in use in Dawson, which fact makes it necessary to rely almost entirely upon ordinary flues. Added to this is the fact that an intense heat is required for a large portion of the winter by reason of the extremely low temperature which pre
