Investment News.

St. John's, July 21st, 1913.

Young Men Should Start An Investment Now

Do not think that it is necessary to have a considerable surplus before you can start investing. While this amount is accumulating unforeseen uses will develop and the desired sum is a long time being reached.

Each the better plan is to invest small sums as you save them. Thus your holdings and dividends are steadily being increased and your savings have not slipped away unaccounted for.

And Start With Maritime Nail Pref'd Stock

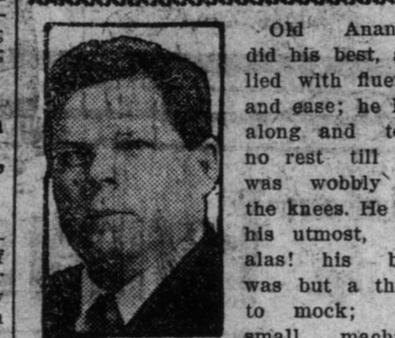

Only one-quarter of the purchase price need be paid down and the balance in three payments each two months apart. We know of no more attractive investment than this.

Dividends are 7 per cent. and Cumulative. The 50 per cent. Common Stock Bonus adds a further reason why a "start" should be made now. Ask our Halifax office for the special circular which tells how.

The Gas Meter

Old Ananias did his best, and led with fluency and ease; he led along with gusto, no rest till he was wobbly in the knees. He did his utmost, but alas! his best was but a thing to mock; the small machine that measures gas could beat the old man by a block. Munchausen lied with grace and skill, considering his handicaps; he started out the truth to kill, and mangled it a bit, perhaps, but he is dead and gone to grass, his fame's a thing of mazy and remote; the small machine that measures gas has made him look like twenty cents. And all our human liars fade, and to the wall their faces turn, contrasted with the trap that's made to measure gas the people burn. It has no conscience and no soul, it does not fear a judgment day, no hell or heaven is its goal, so recklessly it lies away. It lies when mortal liars sleep, worn out by lying in the night; it lies when human liars weep because they're no more lies by heart. All other liars tell the truth once in a while just for a change; but such a weakness is, forsooth, outside, beyond the meter's range. The human liar sometimes sighs because he's weary of the game, but tirelessly the meter lies, exulting in its deeds of shame.

They were reviewed by many citizens and their splendid bands discoursed some very fine music. At the Armoury, on Harvey Road, it was announced that the continuation of the shooting for Mr. Job's Cup would occur on Wednesday week at the residence of Lt.-Col. Rendell, North Bank, Long Pond. The lads will also camp at Topseat on the 15th August and it is expected that many of the boys will participate.

There is always a good clean show at the old reliable show shop, and the Rossley Company have always the latest and greatest satisfaction and until their company arrives, Jack Rossley will try to please his patrons. One that deserves special mention is the great fox hunt, a picture in which many of England's most notable families are presented in one of the greatest fox and hounds pictures ever witnessed. It is without a doubt, a picture exciting and interesting that has the audience worked up, to see who wins, the poor little fox, or the powerful hounds. All should see it.
