

ASHAMED OF THE PIMPLES

PIMPLES and skin eruptions always seem to come where they are the most noticeable, and consequently most embarrassing to the person so unfortunate as to have them.

The most satisfactory treatment for pimples and skin eruptions is Dr. Chase's Ointment, applied at night after bathing the skin in warm water. Instead of clogging the pores, as do powders, Dr. Chase's Ointment cleanses them and promotes the healthy action of the pores of the skin.

By its antiseptic action this ointment destroys poisonous germs, and thereby prevents the development of eczema. There are scores of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment is useful in every home.

PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS.

Miss Carrie Altwater, Bitter Lake, Alta., writes:—"I was entirely cured of pimples and blackheads some months ago by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. As I have also found this ointment a splendid treatment for sunburn and chapped hands, I would not be without it in the house. It is the best I ever used."

Sincerely yours,

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive.

Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. British Admiral Looks for Big Sea Fight.

Hibbert, Who Watched This Port Before We Entered the War, Says This Is Kaiser's Last Resort.

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 20.—Rear Admiral H. T. Hibbert of the British Navy, who was familiar to Americans when the Lusitania was sunk as Flag Captain in command of the Port of Queenstown, arrived here today on an armed merchantman and is on a special mission for the British Admiralty.

"I have watched the Capes so long from the outside," he said, "that I am mighty glad to be inside them at last." For many months Admiral Hibbert was in charge of the fleet that stood guard outside the Port of New York and off Cape Charles and Cape Henry. He was then recalled to England and later sent out on his present errand.

Although he has been in active service since the beginning of the war, he said that he had never seen a German submarine. As to the effectiveness of the submarine warfare, he said that, while the situation called for unrelaxed vigilance and was undoubtedly serious, he did not believe that it would ever be effectual.

"Personally," he added, "I believe that they have done their worst. The natural wastage is very great, and it does not seem possible that the Germans can continue to put out submarines at a rate to keep up their record."

He believes that the Germans will not end the war, however, without a great naval battle, and is of the opinion that they are holding back the navy, as a last resort. "I see by the papers," he said, "that the Kaiser recently visited the fleet at Wilhelmshaven a move in that direction."

Rumors of Naval Action

(From the New York Times.)

Of the operations of our navy in the last four months the American people know next to nothing. In a general way they have the assurance that all our warships are fully manned and in commission, that those naval officers still on hand are hourly expecting sea orders, that some of our destroyers are in European waters. They know also that Secretary Daniels is anxious that many more destroyers shall be built, that the American navy shall have more warships of this class than any other navy. This much, with the knowledge that large new dreadnoughts have recently been or are about to be launched, comprises the sum of the public knowledge of naval affairs in the fourth month of the war. But Americans have great faith in their navy, in its fitness, in the skill of its gunners, the ability of its officers, and the zeal of its men. When there is a rumor spread in Europe of an impending naval battle, it sets us all wondering whether our own ships are to be involved in the next encounter of the opposing forces on the sea. Sooner or later there must be a decisive meeting between the warships of Germany and those of the Allies against her. The announcement that the German Emperor has been publicly, and with some approach to theatrical effect, inspecting his naval defenses and the land defenses behind which his ships have been safely hidden may not mean that a new naval engagement is near at hand, but it increases for the moment the public interest in naval affairs and is the cause of much surmising.

Launch Concrete Ship Bottom Side Up.

London, Aug. 27.—A Christiania despatch says the first Norwegian iron and concrete ship has been launched at the Parsgrund Cement Works. The ship is built on an entirely new system, with the bottom upward, in which extraordinary position the launching took place on a sort of underlying sledge which glided out with the ship. When the water was reached the hull became detached from the sledge and gradually sank up to a certain point; then subsequently slowly righted itself.

This particular ship, which is of 200 tons burden, was built in three weeks but the next will only require about half that time, as the original frame will be used for each subsequent ship of the same size. It is intended to start the wholesale building of iron and concrete ships of 200, 500 and 1,000 tons.

A Maine Corn-Story.

(From the Lewiston Journal). That's probably a true story from Axford County, that a small boy, playing in the corn-field, hung his hat on the top of a corn-stalk. The corn grew so in the night that the boy couldn't reach the hat in the morning. They left it there and now his father can't reach it.

Pound of Flour.

(From the New York World.) Food Administrator Hoover asks everybody to save each week one lb. of flour in every five. The economy is made necessary by the wheat deficit in the United States and Canada of 400,000,000 bushels in the amount, required for the Allied nations and neutrals of Europe. There is an indicated surplus of corn of 470,000,000 bushels and of oats of 304,000,000 bushels in this country. What is asked of the consumer is not to reduce his allowance of cereals but to save wheat by substituting 20 per cent *of other grains. To do this ought not to involve much self-denial. Not to do it may mean distress or starvation for our allies. This, and similar official recommendations of food economy should be taken seriously and applied at home, not passed on for somebody else to do. Fighting may be done by proxy. Other persons may be relied upon to buy Liberty Bonds and make Red Cross supplies. But food conservation must be personal and all must co-operate. It will not do to make light of serious conditions and to belittle precautions for husbanding the nation's food supply which must be observed if we are to win the war.
