IN FURTHERANCE OF THE VIEWS OF THE FEMALE BENEVOLENT SOCIETY,

MR. PEMBERTON,

Gratified with the prospect of meeting his respected friends in Kingston, begs leave to call their attention

TO-MORROW EVENING,

(FRIDAY 29TH INST.) AT HALF PAST 7 O'CLOCK,

TO A COURSE OF HIS

POETICAL EXERCISES

AND

RHETORICAL ILLUSTRATIONS,

The proceeds arising therefrom to be appropriated as mentioned above.

Mr. Pemberton deems it unnecessary to make a formal appeal to the kind feelings of this community—he knows the object is sufficient to command an interest.
