THE CHILD-MARTYR.

From the Banner of the Cross. We last week gave a very interesting and affecting account of self-sacrificing devotion to truth in the case of a noble most exquisite torture, and at last died, would doubtless like to know the name of the sainted child. It was Emanuel Danon, as we have since learned by a published letter from Judge Larrabee, before whom and touching ones.

Emanuel had always been a delicate child, and those who knew him spoke of members of our Church; the father dying you neglect the only means of safety? when he was only two, and his mother when he was about four years of age. HE NEVER TOLD A LIE. Once there was a little boy, With curly hair and pleasant eye; A boy who always spoke the truth, And never, never told a lie.

And when he trotted off to school, The children all about would cry, "There goes the curly-headed boy, The boy who never tells a lie." And every body loved him so,

Because he always told the truth, That every day as he grew up,
'Twas said, "There goes the honest youth!' And when the people that stood near, Would turn to ask the reason why, The answer would be always this-

The following interesting anecdote of Queen Victoria was originally published in the Court Journal. It is probably true; and if so, is highly honourable to her :

DEATH OF GENERAL RADOWITZ. In spite of the scarcity in Germany of emient public men, the death of Radowitz will be felt there less than might have been expected, and probably less than it deserves. Clever rather than able, with many high and sterling qualities, his social talents, on which his partial biographer in the Chronicle affectionately dilates, tributed to render him at one time of his life, an overrated man. He gained a splendid position, but failed to keep it; and had singular owers of acquiring personal influence, which he freely used for political ends; but he inspir ed no general confidence, was bitterly disliked by his numerous opponents, and quitted public A noble lord, not particularly remarka- life with the character of a schemer and an intriguer, which he but half deserved. The acceptance by the Porte of the basis of negotiation laid down at Vienna is a step towards the solution of the puzzle, and leaves the Four Powers face to face with Russia. THE VOLUNTARY PRINCIPLE IN CANADA. Almost every one admits the insufficiency of he voluntary system to preserve and extend eligious teaching throughout the scattered opulation of this wide Province.—Every one nows that from the little encouragement given o Clergymen their number is inadequate to the wants of the people. To procure and support religious teachers in sparely settled districts a very difficult matter indeed. With ing but the voluntary to depend upon, no one in a very few years would be found to take upon him the useful and necessary, but laborious and unproductive offices of visiting the sick, and ourying the dead. The average salary of the Clergy in Upper Canada is not over £120 per annum—and who, on this, could live in a genteel or even decent style of life, to say nothing of the maintenance of a family. A man of an un-blemished character, who is diligent, punctual, may be 30 or 40 years at work, and, on the voluntary principle, receive less at the end than with the Board of Schools Trustees. voluntary principle, receive less at the end than when he began. Length of service, instead of being a recommendation, is sometimes quite the reverse. In other professions moderate acquirements, attended with probity and industry, are man, then, who wishes to see his Clergyman respectable and respected, and churches opened FREE, alike to poor and rich, join the Conservatives in dividing the Reserves equally amongs all denominations. Let the people not be led away by the cry of the voluntary principle,—a principle which doles out to an highly-educated nan a salary scarcely equal to that of the humblest mechanic; and when he becomes in capacitated for further service, kicks him out to lie on some miserable pittance, doled out grudgingly and of necessity," as if he were the veriest pauper in the land. - Cobourg Star.

MAIL ROBBERY. We learn from the Brantford Expositor that the stage coach from Hamilton was robbed on Satuaday night of the Brantford mail bags. The thieves who as yet remain undiscovered had recoach, and then carried it to the driving shed belonging to the Methodist church, about two miles on this side of Brantford. Here they cut the leather bag open, cooly untied the canvas contents, and tore open almost all the letters they contained. A few packages escaped their of Brantford. The package from Cobourg had evidently been destroyed, because the torn fragments of a bank cheque for £25, drawn by a gentleman of that place in favour of Mr. Greer, of the Montreal Bank, Brantford, were found together, with the fragments of the letter in which it had been enclosed. The scoundrels could make no use of the cheque, consequently they tore it to pieces, as they did almost every letser which they opened. The package for Woodstock was also destroyed, and so were those for Mount Vernon, Burford, Oakland and Simcoe, and how many more is is, at present impossible to tell. It is not known whether they obtained any money or not. The mail bags were missed on the arrival of the stage at Brantford; but as the drivers are invariably changed at the stables west of Duff's Hotel the, person who drove the coach into town did not know whether he had the mail or not the post office authorities did not know whether the mail had been despatched by stage; consequently the bags were not found until Sunday morning, when they were discovered in the corner of the shed by persons going to the Methodist Church.—Globe.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

For the Cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarse-ness, Eronchitis, whoop-ing-cough, croup, Asth ma and Consumption. A MONG the numerous discoveries Science has made in this generation to facilitate the business of life-increase its enjoyment, and even prolong the term of human existence, none can be named of more real value to mankind, than this contribution of Chemistry to the Healing Art. A vast trial of its virtues throughout this broad country, has proved without a coubt that no medicine or combination of medicines yet known, can so surely control and cure the numerous varieties of pulmonary disease which have hitherto swept from our midst thousands and thousands every year. Indeed, there is now abundant reason to believe a Remedy has at length beer found which can be relied on to cure the most dangerous affections of the lungs. Our space here will not permit us to publish any proortion of the cures affected by its use, but we The would present the following opinions of eminent en, and refer further enquiry to the circular,

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 1, 1849. MAJOR PATTISON, President of the S. C. nate, states he has used the CHERRY PEC-TORAL with wonderful success, to cure an inflammation of the lungs.

From one of the First Physicians in Maine. Saco, Me., April 26, 1849. Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell. Dear Sir: 1 am now present in his possession a small piece of iron het-work, made to fit the hand, and formed in a in my practice, and prefer it to any other medi most ingenious manner, which he found in the cine for pulmonary complaint. From observa-'man of the iron hand," we believe, is at cure coughs, colds, and diseases of the lungs, that have put to defiance all other remedies. I invariably recommend its use in case of con sumption, and consider it much the best remedy known for that disease Respectfully yours,
