

tinct from the absentive, and is easily recognized, being invariably preceded by moo (ma in future), meaning not; while the absentive case conveys the idea of existence though apart for the time.

The dative is rather a locative case, marked by the termination k, a contraction of iklook, of which the original form may be seen almost complete, in Klcebooktook, meaning in, at, or from Halifax, the Klcebookt or Uktce-bookt (great harbour) of the Micmacs; the shortened termination is found in wigwámk and kwédunk. This case when used with names of persons denotes their place of residence, as Polek, 'at Paul's place.' There is little danger of confounding the termination for the dative case with that of the nominative plural animate, for in common usage animate subjects were combined with distinguishing pronouns, and rarely duplicated by the same person; for instance, I have one weapon, one net, one kettle, one sun, one moon, etc. The Vocative termination does not differ from the nominative in the singular of nouns or combined nouns and pronouns, except in the family terms noo, my father, n'keje, my mother, n'wejeje, my sister, and ukên, my younger brother. Inanimate nouns, like neuter in Latin, retain the same form in accusative as nominative.

DECLENSION OF tcēnum, A MAN, (ANIMATE).

Singular.	Plural.
Nominative, tcēnum , a man.	tcēnumook .
Dative, tcēnumiktook , from, with or by a man.	tcenumooiktook .
Accusative, tcēnumool , a man (objective).	tcenumoo .
Vocative, tcēnum ! O man !	tcēnumootool .
Absentive, tcēnumok , an absent or dead man.	tcēnumoogwik .
Negative, moo tcēnumenook , not a man.	moo tcēnumooenook .
Terminative, tcēnumū , a man (and that ends it).	tcenumoogwoo .

DECLENSION OF wigwám, A DWELLING (INANIMATE).

Singular.	Plural.
Nom. wigwám .	wigwámel .
Dat wigwámk .	wigwameliktook .
Acc. wigwámool .	wigwámoo .
Voc. wigwám .	wigwámootool .
Abs. wigwámok .	wigwámooottjik .
Neg. moo wigwámenook .	moo wigwámooenook .
Term. wigwámū .	wigwámooogwoo .