

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS

you know—every 'Thursday morning regularly. We all go. Positively no one has bridge on 'Thursdays any more."

"Oh!" said Esmeralda.

"And then there's the diet kitchen," Mrs. DeWynt went on—"to encourage people to use corn and barley, and such things, you know."

"I'm afraid I can't cook, either," said Esmeralda.

"Why, my dear child, of course you don't have to know how to cook!" exclaimed her aunt. "We just have the things in jars—the various grains—and a model kitchen, with the newest, most economical utensils for cooking them properly."

"And we put on the most becoming aprons and take charge on alternate hours on Fridays—give out leaflets, and all that, don't you know?" Jack took up the theme excitedly. "I love the ducky little white caps! And really quite a few people come in and taste the samples that the state sends in."

"Oh," said Esmeralda again, "I sup-
