Architect J. M. Watt was present, and explained the plan of the hospital, which will meet all the needs in London for some years to come and may be added to at the rear. It is the intention that the hospital will be situated on Ottaway avenue, directly opposite Victoria Hospital and next to the new medical school. Architect J. M. Watt was tres-

The primary chapters alone have promised $11,500; the Mothers' Clubs $1,000; the Women's Institutes of Western Ontario at least $2,000; the Goderich County Council $500; the Victoria Hospital Alumnae $1,000; the London Township $1,000; the United Welfare Association $25,000, which will not be given until the hospital is commenced, making a total of $63,500 at the lowest estimate.

A small amount of money is possibly coming from a recent will, which shows that people are becoming interested in the hospital; the children of the Protestant Orphans' Home took up a collection amounting to $1.47, put it in a bag and gave it to the treasurer of the fund, Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell, who cherishes it as one of the most important donations: a letter from the local branch of the Red Cross Association to Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, the secretary, promises substantial aid to the hospital when it is in a more advanced stage, this donation possibly to take the form of an endowment to benefit returned soldiers' children.

Some discussion arose at the meeting as to who was to sign the contracts

Monty Is Stolen.

Now, as might be expected, Monty attracted a great deal of attention at the circus, so it is no wonder everyone wanted to own him. Mr. Bangs, the clown, was made many offers for his little dog, but he was so attached to Monty he would not sell him at any price, he told them and the little dog's heart was filled with joy for he had learned to love Mr. Bangs more than anyone he had ever known before, and so he should have, for the clown was very good to him and made a great deal of him.

One night after the performance, Monty went out for a run. It was a hot night, and he knew he could not sleep. He wanted most of all to hunt a rat or chase a bird, but the birds had all gone to bed and he could not sniff a rat anywhere. Suddenly Monty's back bristled all up. He knew there was an enemy somewhere near, but he did not know just where or what it was. A dog al-

In view of the fact that the building of the Memorial Hospital for fick Children will be commenced shortly here in London, and that it, will undoubtedly be completed by a year from next spring, it is interesting to note that preparations to carry on the work in this hospital are airready being made by Miss Stanley, lady superintendent of the hospital trust hopes to open two children's wards at hopes to open two children's wards and ditional space of the military hospital. Miss Stanley, with the consent of the hospital trust hopes to open two children's wards and ditional space of the military hospital, making this possible. A supervisor, to is a specialist in children's work, will be put in charge of these wards, and lecture to the Victoria nurses, thus preparing them for the taking over of the Sick Children's Hospital when it is built.

Earned By Baby Bonnets. Earned By Baby Bonnets.

Dear Cynthia Grey,—I must send in the little I have on hand for crochet bonnets, as I saw your plea for the end of this month: Only Ikey, 10 cents: Another Nuisance, 10 cents. This will be a little help, anyway. And wasn't the flower seeds a bright idea? I'm such a busy woman, but if I wasn't busy I don't know what I would do, for this awful Longwoods road is so awful lively with autos for the Western Fair. It almost makes me feel that I lived in town again. Yours forever.

CRIPPLED FINGERS.

Ans.—Thank you, dear contribution to the hospital fund. It is splendid of you to undertake to earn money for the hospital. Can quite understand the desire for travel inspired by the passing motors. Work is indeed a wonderful to do, isn't it?

THE DAY NURSERY IS OVERCROWDED, SAYS THE BOARD PRESIDENT

So greatly has a creche, or day nursery, been needed in the city of London that the King street building is now not large enough to accommodate all the children who are asking for admission. "We are turning many away." declares Mrs. J. W. Slater, president of the day nursery board. "I think that a creche should be established in each of the thickly populated districts of the city. One could easily be supported in London East. A great many mothers would then be accommodated who are unable to bring their children as far as the centre of the city."

ands of Canadian Mothers. Shoe Expense is a real problem to most Mothers—the Children seem to wear out shoes in no time. But the Mothers who buy Hurlbuts know by experience that a pair of Hurlbuts actually outlast two or three pairs of ordinary shoes.

The reason for this is based simply on the quality of materials and the class of workmanship,-just the same reason that an all-wool suit is better than a mixture.

When you are asked to pay somewhat more for Hurlbuts than for "ordinary" shoes, remember that it is just this difference of price which makes possible the outstanding QUALITY contained in every pair of Hurlbuts, and that they actually DO represent "Lowest-price-per-day'swear."
