three waltzes. An Amusing Stery of the Mon

He Made His Unfortunate Ministers do many Spontaneous Feats on Ice.

A very amusing story is told about the Shah of Persia. It appears that during the winter months the little colony of 60 or 70 English people at Teheran organize concerts for one another's amusement; there is a dance now and then at the legation, and on Christmas hight every Englishman in the place is a guest of Sir Morti-mer and Lady Durand. When the weather is cold of course there is skating. Skating is the greatest marvel of all to the Persians. A few years ago the late Shah, Nasr-i-Din, saw 20 skaters twirling and curling and spinning gracefully on the ice. He was amused; he thought it wonderful. The next day he sent to the legation and borrowed a dozen pairs of skates. These he made his Ministers put on and then attempt to skate on the lake in the palace grounds. The poor Ministers were terribly discomfited, but it was twice as much s their heads were worth to refuse. His Majesty was more amused than ever, and he nearly had an apoplectic fit from llaughing.

arch's Tendencies.

Fendalism in Hungary. Inconceivable as the anachronism may seem to the western mind, the agrarian system of Hungary has not yet issued from the feudal form. The Hungarian farmer of to-day is virtually a serf, bound to his master, the hereditary owner of the soil which the peasant tills, by the tangible tie of personal liability. The Hungarian feudal lord of to-day is entitled to 50 days' labor from the male adult who dwells on his land. The seignlor is at liberty to demand this feudal contribution at whatever time may seem best to him, with the frequent result that the tenant farmer is employed in gathering his master's harvests while his own crops are rotting after a rainfall or are being consumed by an early frost or suffer damage from one or more of the many possible causes which render destructive the slightest delay on the part of the harvester in gathering the fruits of a year's labor.—S. Easily Cured.

A correspondent thus tells how man addicted to the spitting labit was cured: "The captain of an Atlantic steamship was at a loss how to induce a passenger to desist from the filthy habit of spitting on deck. Among the passengers was a gentleman well known in Toronto40 years ago, who undertook to stop him if a quartermaster were placed at his disposal. The captain closed with the offer and the man was directed to fetch a bucket of water and mop, and to follow the offender up and down the deck. The result was completely satisfactory."

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Plowing under a crop of clover is good way of manuring the orchard. A dead limb is a source of disease. It shows also a lack of vitality in the tree. In pruning make all cuts slanting and mooth, so that they will not hold water. A tree with an open head is not so likely to be attacked by mildew as one that

Arrange in good season to save all the fruit either by marketing, canning or -vaporating. An orchard cannot be kept constantly under the plow. It is better to seed to clover than any kind of grass. Pruning when the sap is active and the tree growing rapidly promotes forming of fruit buds. Pruning when dormant promotes growth of wood. In nearly all cases it is best to thin fruit on all thickly loaded pear trees. The pears left will then grow to large size and will be worth more than if all were left on the tree. In fruitful years vigorous fruit trees are inclined to overbear, and, when so loaded, much of the fruit will be small and inferior in quality and size, besides

"My little girl had a severe attack of fever," writes Mrs. Wm. S. Vollmer, of Concord, Cabarrus Co., N. C., in a letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. "I had two physicians for her. She had a very bad cough, raised a great deal, and had wasted to a mere skeleton; only her feet and ankles were swollen. I knew what Dr. Pierce's medicines had done for us before so I commenced giving her "Golden Medical Discovery' and a 'Pellet' occasionally.

"In a few days I noticed the fever was less; her cough gradually grew better; expectoration grew less; in a few days she sat up in bed, and soon she could take a few steps. She kept on improving slowly and after a few weeks the swelling in feet and ankles went down, and she kept on step by step until she got well. This is more than two years ago.

"Last winter, Lula (my oldest daughter) had Grippe very badly. Her physician was uneasy; he told me to be very careful or she would have pneumonia. She was left with an awful cough, I gave her "Golden Medical Discovery' and it cured her cough. I will be pleased to have my letter published. If persons wishing to know more about the great benefits we have received from using Dr. Pierce's medicines will write, enclosing stamp, I will gladly answer."

AN INFANT'S DEATH. Across two thousand years of time, From the far shores of Galilee; We have the Saviour's blest command, "Let little children come to me."

Lo! We obey; we give our babe Responsive to this call of His, And we forbid her not; we know Of such the heavenly kingdom is.

We give her, but cannot withhold The tears that follow to our prayer, That He will take her to His breast And guard her with His tender care.

And we, across the shadowy stream, May see, with faith's discerning eye Our darling in the Saviour's arms, In the green fields of Paradise. Detroit, Oct. 24, 1899. W. P. F.
