Complaints

Richard Murphy of the Township of North Cayuga be sworn ~~with~~ that he ^{saw} the parties charged before the Complaints came forward; they were a short distance from each other in the midst of a crowd of people probably a party of 10 or 12 feet. When the Couleis man Daman Johnson threw a stone at Kelly which struck him on the cheek between the hair and the eye, causing him to stagger causing blood to flow immediately there after Kelly advanced and grappled in upon Johnson and threw Johnson down who at the time had got a piece of board. While down the Constable Hale and others separated the prisoners D Thoburn, I.R. Richard ^{his} Murphy Mack

John Stack of the village of Indianan sworn corroborates the testimony of Richard Murphy; did not see the stone thrown, saw the blood flowing from Kelly's face, saw the parties grapple with each other, before falling to the ground saw the Couleis man strike Kelly with the board referred by Murphy a blow on the side of the head, saw W. Harcourt the Magistrate order the Constables to part them and make ^{them} prisoners, till the case could be investigated
