ADONIS. A beautiful youth, beloved by Venus and killed by a boar.

Bores have been the death of us ever since.

---

BACCHUS. A brewer, who supplied the Gods with nectar, the beer that made Olympus famous.

---

Those desiring a drink, please ask Dickens if "Bacchus is willin'."

---

CASTOR AND POLLOX. Two clever sports and twin brothers from Greece, Castor being a horse-trainer and Pollux a pugilist, whose sister, Helen, a respectable, married woman, disgraced the family by eloping with Paris.

---

Just because a man can break a broncho or win a prize fight, it's no sign he can manage a woman.
