

HOUSE AND HOME

CONDUCTED BY HORTENSE

WHILE I AM HERE.

Save not the roses of your love for me. To place them in a garland or my bier. I shall not need them then, for death shall care...

A MERRY HEART.

Why do you wear a harassed and troubled look? Are you really in trouble, or are you allowing the little worries of a life to grind furrows in your face?

NOVELTIES IN NECK CHAINS.

A long chain made of strands of small jet beads. A jet chain with large octagonal-shaped knobs separated by delicate strands of jet.

NAIVETE.

Johnny had been a very bad boy during the day, and when his father came home it was decided that he should talk to him instead of the usual whipping.

THE HOUSE AND THE HOME.

"Lucy has a mother," said a little girl, explaining why she thought her young companion's home so much happier than her own.

wet, and having a flannel around my throat when it's sore. She never speaks quickly as Lucy's mother does sometimes, and she's always trying to do just what's right.

THE NIGHTCAP.

Madame Fashion has no use for that old axiom "Neither a borrower or a lender be," she borrows shamelessly and her latest borrowing is nothing more nor less than the mob nightcap.

Generally the crafty dame seeks to hide her lack of originality with deft touches and anyone who imagines the nightcap of the modern belle the same hideous combination of heavy muslins and stout ties that we associate with the thiefing wolf of Red Riding Hood fame has much to learn.

A girl at a loss for prizes to give at a euchre party hit upon making a variety of nightcaps which are expensive to buy and so popular that they are generally sold out.

In another set, the cap part was made of sprigged dotted swiss very sheer and fine with ruffle of two inch valenciennes lace, and quaint oblong lappets that dangled over each ear.

APPETIZING EGG DISHES.

Eggs with Pimentos.—Pimentos are sweet Spanish peppers, and come in cans. Drain off all liquid, place peppers in bowl, and let steam of cold water run. Fit peppers into cups and into each drop an egg with butter, salt, and a little pepper or paprika.

Eggs a la Svenska.—A dish that will not distress the stomach of the veriest invalid is made after this fashion: Have thin slices of bread toasted and buttered. Separate a white from a yolk, add a few grains of salt to the white and whip.

VICTORIA PUNCH.

Pour one cupful of hot tea infusion over one cupful of fine granulated sugar, and as soon as the sugar is dissolved, add three-fourths of a cupful of orange juice and one-third of a cupful of lemon juice.

CHOCOLATE AND EGG MILK-SHAKE.

Chocolate and egg milk-shakes are extremely nutritious, which makes them very desirable for children's luncheons, and the little folks are usually very fond of them.

FIT FOR NEITHER MAN NOR BEAST.

A Yorkshire squire of the good old-fashioned sort met one day the vicar of the parish, a young man who had been recently appointed to the living, and, wishing to be as hospitable to him as he had been to his predecessor, he invited him to drop in some night and "have a glass and a bit crack."

"Well, well," said the old man. "Maybe ye can tak' a draw at the pipe with me."

The reply was: "I am sorry, but I do not smoke."

"Do ye eat grass?" "Eat grass? Certainly not. I do not understand."

WOMAN'S HOME COMPANION FOR AUGUST.

"Susanna and Sue" begins in the August issue of Woman's Home Companion. The scene of the story is laid in a Shaker village, which given an opportunity for a novel plot.

Edward Everett Hale's Reminiscences are appearing exclusively in Woman's Home Companion. Now that his revered white head and kindly smile have gone forever, these reminiscences, always charming, have an added interest.

Edward Everett Hale's death is a peculiar loss to the Woman's Home Companion, to which he has contributed so constantly during the last few years. The August issue in an appreciation of Doctor Hale's life and work has some new anecdotes that are full of the charm of Doctor Hale's personality.

The mother of to-day has a problem her grandmother never knew. The modern girl, after many years at school, looks with scorn at the housekeeping which her mother knows is so important.

The matter of diet in summer is one fraught with many difficulties. In the Woman's Home Companion for August Dr. Woods Hutchinson claims that we are apt to starve ourselves in summer.

The Children's Department and the Fashion Department are both particularly good. The Embroidery pages are full of summer ideas, and Fannie Merritt Farmer supplies enough ideas for novel cool drinks to last the whole summer.

AN EGYPTIAN HAIR ORNAMENT.

The summer girl will tuck a strange decoration in her locks for Saturday night hops and other occasions where a festive hair-dressing is called for.

WHAT DRESS DOES NOT DO.

"A large proportion of girls and women have not yet grasped the fact that clothes in themselves will never make anyone into a lady."

MINT CUP—A NOVELTY.

I was but recently served to a mint cup, which suited my taste to perfection. Extract the juice from five lemons, using a glass or earthen lemon-squeezer.

For Peach Stains.—Here is a good remedy for obstinate peach stains on linen: Place a tablespoonful of sulphur on a plate, add a few drops of pure alcohol and ignite.

FIRST WOMAN GRADUATE.

The first woman to be graduated from a Jesuit university was given the degree of bachelor of science at Marquette University last week.

THE GREEK COIFFURE AGAIN.

Even as the creators of fashions abroad seem to be working overtime in developing the offspring of the sheath and Directorate styles, so are the hair-dressers both busy and on the other side exerting themselves to evolve new coifs that may be worn with a degree of consistency with the more or less classic modes in gowns.

Most of the appropriate hair ornaments for the summer are either suggestions of the Greek fillet, or are frank variations of it. They are made mostly on a foundation or ribbon, wire covered with ribbon or satin, or any material one may choose.

In another arrangement, partaking of the Greek, to be sure, yet relieved sufficiently so that it could be worn with success above a piquant tulle as well as one whose features approach the classic in outline, the hair, slightly waved, is built out at the back in closely placed puffs.

The waved pompadour of the moment is made larger and wider on the left side of the head. Some say that this quirk originated because some of the late spring hats turned up on that side.

The revival of the bolero is evident. It is curious to think how long we have been without this ever-becoming form of coat.

is stamped on every cake of Surprise Soap. It's there so you can't be deceived. There is only one Surprise. See to it that your soap bears that word—

THE CRETONNE CRAZE.

Shop window decorators seem to acquire cretonne fever in the spring. It may be that there are women who fancy being overwhelmed in their resting hours with roses rampant not only on ceilings, window curtains, cushions and bed coverings, but also on the furniture around them.

NOT AN INFALLIBLE METHOD.

"I diagnose all my cases from the patient's eyes," said a doctor emphatically. "Now, your right eye tells me that your liver is affected."

What is Worn in Paris.

White Embroidered Dresses Latest Novelty.—The Bolero Again in Vogue. Black and White Still a Favorite.

There is no doubt that the couturiers of Paris are struggling to bring in, especially in the making up of foulards and muslins, a more flowing style, and to give a waist once more, still no violent change will take place.

After all, it takes a considerable dress allowance to keep pace with the repeated changes in fashions. Moreover, when we and our dress-makers became really good friends with the Directorate mode, there is no pressing necessity for change.

One model, hailing from a well-known modiste, was in palest green faced cloth embroidery and was fastened up the side with some peau de sole buttons.

A thrilling race with death was ridden and won by Father McKimmon, of Nelson, B.C., a few days ago when Aimes Amicon, an employe of the Trail smelter, fell into a vat of acid, receiving such injuries that immediate death was inevitable.

Priest Fulfill Mission Despite Injury.

Here the horse ran away, the priest hanging on until thrown, within a few hundred yards from Trail Hospital. He sustained a broken rib and many bruises, but paid no attention to them until he had comforted the dying man and administered the sacraments.
