London, July 7. About twenty enemy airplanes bombarded London today, according to an official statement by the war office. The raiders were attacked by artillery and a large number of British airplanes. The results were unknown at noon.

The raid occurred at about 9.30 o'clock this morning. Thousands of persons crowded the streets, many of them women and children. The police and soldiers had difficulty in holding back the people. Many persons were seen at windows. Anti-aircraft guns throughout the city and British airplanes immediately engaged the hostile craft and for a time the sound of exploding bombs and the vicious reply of guns was deafening. Straight over the city flew the squadron of raiders, pursued by bursting shrapnel.

The sun was shining brightly, but the sky was overcast with a haze such as is so favorable to raiders.

Notwithstanding the haze, however, the Germans were visible plainly to the people in the streets.

The raiders appeared most suddenly and few persons realized that a raid was in progress until the sound of bombs began to be heard. The Germans were travelling at tremendous speed. They appeared to be at a lower altitude than in the last raid when they exacted such a heavy toll of life in London.

Official Statement. The following official account of the raid was given out:
"Lord French reports that at about 9.30 o'clock this morning hostile aircraft in considerable numbers, probably in two parties, appeared over the Isle of Thanet and the west coast of Essex. After dropping some bombs in Thanet the raiders proceeded in the direction of London. Moving roughly parallel to the north bank of the Thames, they approached London from the northeast. Then changing their course they proceeded north and west and crossed London from the northwest to the southeast. Bombs were dropped in various places in the Metropolitan area. The number of raiding airplanes is at present uncertain, but was probably about 20. They were attacked by artillery and by large numbers of our own airplanes, but reports as to the results of the engagements and as to damage and casualties have not been received."

London, July 1.—Damage was done in the heart of London by the raid, which was one of the greatest, if not the greatest, ever attempted by the Germans over the Metropolis.

Petrograd, July 7 .- Violent fighting has begun on the Russian front west of Pinsk. The city of Pinsk is in flames, according to an announcement to-day by the semi-official news agency.

The Russian artillery, the announcement says, is levelling all obstacles.

The opening of the battle of Pinsk, marks the second effort of the Russians, after the long period of quiet which followed the revolution. The point select-ed for this attack is about 150 miles north of the sector in East Galicia, along which the Russ-ians made their first onslaught, resulting in the capture of about 18,000 men in two days. Pinsk is at the middle of the Russo-Calician battle line.

There has been no heavy fighting in this region since the con-clusion of the great Austro-German drive, which began in the spring of 1915. During the summer the Russians were driv-en out of western Galicia, Poen out of western Galicia, Po-land and most of the Baltic provinces. Pinsk was captured by the Germans on September 15, at the high tide of the Aus-tro-German invasion. Subse-quently the Russians held up the Germans on the Riga front, and since that time the heaviest, battles have been fought on the northern end of the line or in Galicia.
