In the Cleveland, Ohlo, court on Monday the Magowans' attorneys filed a demurrer to the indictment for child-stealing on the ground that under the laws of Ohlo a mother could not be guilty of stealing her own child. Judge Dissette said from the bench that if Mrs. Magowan were there, and would testify that she is the mother of the child, that would end the case.

Helen Faucit's Modesty.

Helen Faucit was once asked by Tallis, the publisher, to send her portrait for publication in his magazine. In courte-busly declining she said, "The public should know neither our features nor our fortunes, save in the exercise of our art. The Bohemian. The Bohemian.

Who is the ideal Bohemian? An authority on men's clothing gives the "palm" to Mr. Alma-Tadema, although his hair may occasionally be a trifle too long and his collar too low. Mr. Orchardson is pronounced irreproachable, while Sir Edward Poynter is pushed aside as "too precise" in favor of Sir John Rigby, whose baggy trousers, immense boots and coats that overlap arouse the critic's enthusiasm. Several members of the United States Several members of the United States engineer corps were interested witnesses of a feat of insect engineering near the road on which they were working. One of their number found a blue ground wasp dragging along the ground a dead swamp spider one-quarter the size of a full grown tarantula. Whether the wasp killed the spider or found it dead is a question beyond solution. He was having a hard time dragging his prey along, and presently left it to go prospecting for his abode. The discoverer of the wasp called his companions, and one of them coming stepped upon the wasp's ground hole, crushing down some blades of dried grass across it. This caused no little trouble to the inseets, This caused no little trouble to the insect who, upon locating the hole, nipped away mandibles until he had cleared a passage Then he went back and sized up th

Then he went back and sized up the spider, walking around the big body and surveying it from all sides.

"He's reckoning that the hole isn't big enough," said one of the engineers.

"That's all right. He'll fix it," said another as the insect went back and cemmenced vigorously widening the entrance to his domicile.

Again he returned to the spider, seized it and dragged it to within a foot of the orifice. To the spectators it was evident that more work would have to be done before the spider could be dragged in. This struck the wasp, too, for again he ran around the body, examining it carefully, and returned to the hole to take measurements. He went to diggling a second time. Having dug for two minutes, he ments. He went to digging a second time. Having dug for two minutes, he brought his prey up to the edge of the hole, nipped out a piece of dirt here, cut away a grass stem there, and after 15 minutes of hard and skillful labor disap-peared underground, dragging the spider after him. The engineers then resumed their work, exchanging comments of ad-miration.
