THE KING'S STATE LANDAU.

Handsome Carriage Designed for His Majesty's Coronation.

Some particulars will be interesting as to the new state carriage which King Edward is having built for the coronation. It will be what is known as "a state landau," but a state landau on a grand scale. It will be unusually high, very massive in build, with carved decorations, and altogether a uniquely handsome carriage. The King's idea, as is understood, is to use it when he drives through London the day after the coronation. In going to Westminster Abbey he will use the old state coach, but for the parade through London it would be unsuitable in that it cannot be opened. The new carriage will be open, although it can on occasion be closed, and so the crowds in the streets will see the King and Queen well. It will be drawn by eight of the famous cream colored horses which belong to the royal stables.

The statement that the carriage will be "lined with pink" is not likely to prove accurate, although that question has not yet been reached. The King has seen and approved a sketch of what the carriage will be like, but for the rest it is only in the making. The change, however, that it will be lined with dark crimson to match the old state coach. Claret and vermilion are the royal colors for carriage decoration, and this one will be so painted, with bands and devices of gold in relief. Some, at least, of the metal work will be gold plated, but even so the landau will not cost anything like the $40,000 which the historic state coach is believed to have cost.

Telegraphic Abbreviation.

Abbreviations make up one of the most important elements in the telegrapher's work. The telegraph operator, abbreviated despatches are often sent in five minutes that would require half an hour's work if transmitted in full. But there is an operator in Pittsburgh whose originality in inventing substitutes for good English surprises even his workmates. When the death of young James S. Ayres was first sent over the wires and the name of Mrs. Bonine was first mentioned, one of the local operators received a query from the Pittsburgh man, "What sort of a looking woman is Mrs. Bonine?" The Washington operators thought steadily for a moment and then sent back, "Who do you mean?" "Mrs. B-O-9." When the significance of the phrase burst upon him, the local operator announced the abbreviation to his associates, and the name has been sent all over the country as "B-O-9" ever since.—Washington Post.

Electric Soap.

A child detests soap. How it would amuse a child to behold a number of matches rushing away from soap! Place some matches in a basin of water in the shape of a star. Take a piece of soap, cut into a point, insert it in the water in the middle of the matches, and, lo! they will fly from it in every direction as if in horror. If you wish to have the matches steady together again, you will treat them as you would children—with a lump of sugar. Dip the sugar in water and little bits of wood will come swimming to it as though they yearned for a sip of its sweetness.

Fishes Live to a Great Age.

Crows are commonly said to live for a hundred years, and turtles are reported to have even longer life, but if the late Professor Baird be right the greatest amount of longevity is possessed by fishes. Professor Baird once said that in a fish life no maturity there is nothing to prevent it from living indefinitely and growing continually. He cited in proof a pike in Russia whose age is known to date back to the fifth century. In the Royal aquarium at St. Petersburg there are hundreds of fish that were put in over 150 years ago.

Widow's Offers of Marriage.

In a mining centre some eighty miles from Coolgardie, in Western Australia, a carpenter died, and his widow had offers of marriage from the doctor who attended the deceased, the undertaker, the clergyman, who read the burial service, the local apothecary who made up the medicines and prescribed for the departed, and the custodian of the cemetery where he was interred. Likewise from about a score of mine managers and miners. She did not accept one of the suitors, and departed for her home in Melbourne.

How to Cement China.

Take a solution of gum arabic and stir in enough plaster of Paris to make a soft paste. This is quite colorless and holds china excellently. For very delicate china some people tie the pieces carefully together in place with tapes, stand in a saucepan of cold milk and very slowly heat to boiling point and then remove the saucepan back from the fire and let the china stay in for about five minutes, after which it is carefully lifted out and placed on a shelf till dry.

Rivers Under the Ocean.

In investigating the cause of injuries to ocean telegraph cables, it has been discovered, according to La Nature, that there are in the depths of the ocean fresh water rivers, which have sunk out of sight on land to come to the surface again only under the ocean.

An Optical Illusion.

"An optical illusion," explained the teacher, "is something which you believe you see, but which you really do not see at all."

"Yes, I know," exclaimed Johnny, "when he didn't see snakes."

Sidney: Is it a good match?

Rodney: Oh, yes! She's pretty and stupid, and he's stupid and rich.

THE SPIRIT OF WINTER.
The Spirit of Winter is with us, making its presence known in many different ways—sometimes by cheery sunshine and glistening snows, and sometimes by driving winds and blinding storms. To many people it seems to take a delight in making bad things worse for rheumatism twists harder, twinges sharper, catarrh becomes more annoying, and the many symptoms of sore throats are developed and aggravated. There is not much poetry in this, but there is truth, and it is a wonder that more people don't get rid of these ailments. The medicine that cures them—Flood's Sarsaparilla—is easily obtained and there is abundant proof that its cures are radical and permanent.

LONG AND FAVORABLY KNOWN.
The West Shore Railroad has been so long and favorably known, that any words of commendation would be superfluous, but many travelers are constantly cropping up and, last they have not read as they ran, this is to tell them that when they choose the Wabash-West Shore they do wisely.
