OPELESS, HELPLLSS, AND GIVEN UP AS "ONE WHO MUST SOON GO,"—AN IN-TERESTING STORY AS INVESIGAT-ED BY A REPORTER.

A few months ago all Canada was as-man again if I only could succeed in obtaining some of this medicine. I sent A few months ago all Canada was as tounded by a remarkable cure reported from the city of Hamilton, Ont., and vouch ed for by the press and many of the leading residents of that city. In the Hamilton case the man (a Mr Marshall) had been pronounced incurable, and after been pronounced incurable and after been pronounced incur ance paid him the $1,000 members of that order are entitled to when pronounced totally incapacitated from labor. that order are entitled to when pro-nounced totally incapacitated from labor-The remarkable narrative of Mr Marshall's cure and the remedy to which he owed his recovery was given wide publicity by the press throughout the Dominion, and naturally it brought a ray of hope to others who were similarly suffering. Among the homes to which it thus brought hope was that of Mr. Laranh a year are not available with an acte of 50 st. brought hope was that of Mr Joseph Jerritt, of North West Arm, C. B., and Mr Jerritt's recovery may be regarded as even more marvellous than that of local transfer and complete the cure. Dead legs for a year are not usually made perfectly strong again but," here Mr Jerritt threw both legs high into the air, "this and Canker Mc Rand, druggist. Mr Marshall, and many others whose cures have recently been recorded. One thing, however, is certain, and that is that never before in the history of Cape Breton has medicine wrought such an all-prot mirroully and the protection of the protection most miraculous cure. In the year 1879
Mr Jerritt received a fall from a truck waggon, the wheel of which passed over the small of his back. Those with him aucroseded in restraint before the small of his back. For six months he was unable to perform any work and even after a I shall be a healthier man than ever. No lapse of a year was troubled with severe pains and weakness of the limbs. He pains and weakness of the limbs. He was able, however, to do light work about the farm, and about a year later shipped on a vessel bound for Charleston, S. C. While on this trip Mr Jernit was engaged in furling a sail, when he overreached himself, and felt something start, as though something had burst in his left side. He became almost helpless, and on the arrival of the vessel at Charleston, he was taken to the hospital for medical treatment. Here he remained for over two months under the most skilful physicians. His side became strong again, but his limbs grew weak and freagain, but his limbs grew weak and freagain. again, but his limbs grow weak and frequently the pains were intense. MrJerritt then returned home, he continued to grow worse and the pains never left him. After the interview with MrJerrit, the reporter called on a number of his neighbors, all of whom endorsed his statement to work but had to give it up, and said they considered his cure ments, and said they considered his cure flock and herd. gradually became worse and worse until one of the most wonderful things that had gradually became worse and worse until at last he was entirely helpless and was looked upon by his friends as one who not only could not recover, but whose time on earth was short. It was in this naturally enthusiastic in speaking of condition, depressed in mind, helpless, them. and continually suffering intense pain, that at last a ray of hope came to him. One day he read in the Halifax Herald of Mr Marshall's remarkable cure. The proprieters of Dr Williams' Pink time to say good bye to each other, I've medicine, but a scientific preparation the result of years of careful study on the result of years of year already expended hundreds of dollars in patent medicines and medicine and medical treatment, without receiving any benefit, he determined to try the remedy that had restored Mr Marshall to health. The result is that he is again restored to health and strength. Hearing from various sources of Mr Jarritite area. that he is again restored to health and strength. Hearing from various sources of Mr Jerritt's remarkable recovery the local reporter determined to investigate the matter, and gives his story as told to him. "In my early days," said Mr Jerritt, "I was one of the strongest young men in our village. Until I received the fall in 1879 I did not know anything about 1 to him the strongest young men in our village.
