FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.
—It is suggested that one owner of farms do not pay their owners in that the farm does not owe them anything.

—Eight cents per pound is the price of choice cuts of "horse steak" in some of the markets of France and Germany.

—Thousands of dead robins were found on the hillsides near Marshfield, Oregon, having perished in the recent snow-storm.

—The Mark Lane Express, in its review of the British grain trade for the past week, says the outlook for the wheat crop is very good.

—A sheep epidemic prevails in LaFayette County, Province of Quebec, which entirely deprives the sheep of wool and renders its meat unfit for food.

—Mr. Judge, of Leinshall, England, has sold three Hereford cows to an American breeder for $3,400, which is the highest price ever yet paid for such stock.

—The agricultural outlook is improving in England, the acreage under wheat is a claim for the province, another immediately rises and says that the claim is good but that the last speaker is urging the claim "for the purpose of making political capital out of it, or for some selfish purpose."

—The Atlanta Constitution boasts that the King of Italy seasons his salad with olive oil made from Georgia cotton seed. He in return sends to Georgia seed cotton that is caught off of the main.

—A contract was lately concluded by the Mexican Government with Mr. Oscar Dreege, to plant 2,000,000 trees in the Valley of Mexico within four years. The trees specified are chiefly ash, poplar, acacia, and mountain cedar.

—Buffalo gnats are terribly destructive to stock in the overland districts along the Lower Mississippi. A despatch from Memphis says over 1,000 cattle, horses and mules have been killed by them between that city and Vicksburg.

—Don't suppose that you can jam the roots of fruit trees into small holes of poor soil, and have them do well. Unless you are willing to do the work thoroughly, and to give them a fertile soil, better not plant fruit trees at all.

—No Norwegian girl is permitted to have a beard until she can bake bread, and the consequence is that she is an adept in this culinary art long before she masters the art of dancing, painting, or playing on the piano.

—Thousands of pounds of what would otherwise be immaculate butter are totally ruined before the milk is drawn from the cow, by bad air, unwholesome food, and dirt. You cannot be too careful with your cows eat and drink, remembering that from polluted fountains pure streams never flow.

—The Nebraska Mennonites are saving. A family of seven spends fifty cents a week for groceries. They use no sugar, nor tea, nor baking powder, nor anything of that kind. They make their butter, and use brown barley or coffee. They go to bed soon after sundown to save oil, and never buy any coal, but burn cornstalks.

—To warm water for stock a Vermont farmer slogged strips of tin on a can 30 inches deep and 8 inches in diameter, letting them project far enough to nail to the bottom of the tub in the barnyard. Each morning during cold weather he makes it a little fire of coals and chips; this burns slowly some time and keeps the drink above freezing the whole day.

—A combination which Mr. T. F. Baker, of New Jersey, has made, and used for two years with good results, is 25 bushels of fine manure, dry and sifted fine, to 400 pounds of cotton-seed meal, 400 pounds of plaster, 400 pounds of fine bone-meal, 400 pounds of sulphate of potash, and 10 bushels of marsh mud or meek, which, when completed, will make about 15 tons at a cost of $17 per ton. This combination has given him as good returns, side by side, as bone-meal, night-soil and different brands of fertilizers, and he considers it a saving of fully $20 per ton.

—If you hear a man berating farming as the meanest business on earth, and as being degrading and paying only a meagre or no profit, you may safely set him down as a man who has an awfully poor farm; who doesn't know how to run a farm; is too stingy to buy manure, or the stock to make it; is too lazy to work, or spends more time at the corners, talking politics and looking after a little petty popularity or an office, than he does in his fields studying the character of the soil, and putting himself in his business and caring for the farm.

—One Experience from Many.
I had been sick and miserable so long and had caused my husband so much trouble and expense, no one seemed to know what ailed me, that I was completely disheartened and discouraged. In this frame of mind I got a bottle of Hop Bitters and used them up to my family. I soon began to improve and gained so fast that my husband and family thought it strange and unnatural, but when I told them what had helped me, they said, "Hop Bitters for Hop Bitters!" long as my paper, for they have made mother well and a happy. —The Mother.

OTTAWA LETTER.
From our Correspondent.
The Prince Edward Island members are

A QUEER FOLK.
They are agreed on two things; that the province must have better terms; and that political capital must be made against each other.

Davis is determined to score as many points as he can against the Government. Brooker and Hackett are determined to score points against Davis. Prince Edward Island wants a lot of Fishery Award money. It is cheeky request, surely, since that province has never shown any hesitation in using up her part of the four and a half millions that Canada received, to ask that her whole share shall be given to her in another way.

But Prince Edward Island will never lose anything from a deficit of cheek on the part of her representatives. The difficulty with them, however, is like that of the British Columbia men, the members are in a chronic state of quarrel among themselves. If one of them puts in a claim for the province, another immediately rises and says that the claim is good but that the last speaker is urging the claim "for the purpose of making political capital out of it, or for some selfish purpose."

The fishery claim was presented well enough, and was endorsed by all the Island men, but several took the opportunity of stating that Davis only wanted to gain votes for himself and his party. That he had not done anything with his own party was in power to get a recognition of the claim and that he should have had the matter arranged at the time of the Commission. A few days before Davis had made an emphatic complaint that the Prince Edward Island branch of the I. C. R. did not pay its employees well. He sailed for Sir Charles somewhat vigorously, accusing him of ill-treating these people and of making invidious distinctions against the little Province.

Sir Charles acknowledged that the pay on the Island branch was lower than on the main line, but contended that he paid his men higher wages than they could get elsewhere and that he had no right to ask the country to raise still higher the salaries of a road which did not pay much more than half its running expenses. Hackett maintained that those employees were not as well paid as they should be, but, as for Davis, he said that he knew what was the matter with him. That gentleman's honored father was one of the employees in question. He was an estimable old gentleman and had perhaps been justified in wishing an increase of salary. It had not been granted and so the son had his on the expedient of making a raise all round, knowing that his father would come in for a share. In Hackett's estimation it was an exhibition of filial affection which reflected credit on Mr. Davis, and the worthy old man had great reason to be proud of his son. When Hackett had spoken there was no more to be said. Davis did not reply in the words used by Max Schuster, when accused of leaving his music classes and running off to see his folks in Germany, "I have yet to learn that filial affection is a crime."

There is some feeling over TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION. It will be remembered that Robertson, of Shelburne, had charge of an amendment to the Scott Act, intended to set right the law in cases where no licenses had been issued before the Act was voted upon. The senate is known to have a congenial and constitutional dislike to the Canada Temperance Act, and it is known to be more ready to send any amendment to that body, seeing that they stood ready to tack on other alleged amendments enough to ruin the whole business. Sir James may not be a strong temperance man, but he is a man of good sense, and he saw that the Act as it stood was absurd and anomalous. He said it was not creditable to the country that there should be a law prohibiting the sale of wine, which was brought in force in the counties which were most favorable to prohibition. Well, the upshot of it was that Sir John took charge of the bill and sent it up to the Senate by the hand of his Minister of the Interior. It was introduced and MET A WARM RECEPTION.

The Senate went to the length of holding evening sessions over it. Two nights and two days were spent in the fight, and that worthy body elicited a few weeks had been in session less than forty hours, spent some thirteen hours over that temperance bill, and did it all in two days. The bands of party were to throw for those good old men to drag out the John's bill, and it was put through without a vote, but the Nova Scotia contingent swept down with their additional amendments. Dickey wanted a three-fold vote to put the act in force. He was supported by MacFurlan and Dotsford, so that your three nearest neighbors may be said to be weak on the Scott Act. Kaulback came down with his thunder and elicited a few trembling "hear, hear's" from the weak-voiced fraternity around him, as he declaimed against the waste that was taking place in "the valuable time of this honorable House" with such frivolous bills as these. Everybody counted the honorableness of the Senate, but the reference to the value of its time was new and original. The time of the upper House is not inexpensive—it costs the country several thousands of dollars per hour, much more than the other House which is three times as large—but that the time spent in that chamber has any intrinsic value is a discovery that could never have been made outside the Senate Chamber. However the good old man slipped up a fair sized note of approval, and the gifted Lunenburg proceeded. MacFurlan believed in temperance and asked for the amendment in the interest of temperance. Dickey did not believe in a few people detaching to the rest what they should eat and drink. Plumb was somewhat down on summary legislation. Odell said THE SCOTT ACT HAD PLAYED THE MISCHIEF in his constituency—meaning Fredericton, which he visits once a year—and had made it impossible for women to walk the streets in safety. He had experienced that himself, he said. This last was a clear admission that the term "old women" is not resented by all the senators on the bench. On the other hand, a few people detaching to the rest what they should eat and drink. By Universal Accord, AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS are the best of all purgatives for family use. They are the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, and their extensive use, by physicians in all countries, proves them to be the best and most effectual purgative pill that medical science can devise. Being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use, and being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take. In intrinsic value and curative powers no other pills can be compared with them; and every person, knowing their virtues, will employ them, when needed. They keep the system in perfect order, and maintain in healthy action the whole machinery of life. Mild, searching and effectual, they are especially adapted to the needs of the digestive apparatus, derangements of which they prevent and cure, if timely taken. They are the best and safest physic to employ for children and weakened constitutions, where a mild but effectual cathartic is required. For sale by all druggists.

Danger Signals.
Reader, if you are troubled with pain, weakness, weariness and a dragging feeling in the small of the back, with thick, high colored—bilious trim, then you have alarming signals of danger, and should resort to Ayer's Cathartic Pills, the grand kidney regulator and blood and liver cleansing tonic.

A Bad Case of Starvation.
To starve the lungs by a lack of vital food contained in pure air. If the lungs are obstructed by colds, remove the accumulated phlegm with that safe and pleasant Bristle and Lung Remedy, Hagar's Pectoral Balsam.

One day last week several persons while walking on the ice towards the open water in search of wild fowl fell through and narrowly escaped drowning.

On the night of the 11th inst., while Mr. McKay and others were engaged in selling some matters in one of the rooms of the "Albion House," the door was suddenly opened by a "rough," named Robert Jones, who immediately extinguished the light, and seated himself on the floor, and another of the same stamp, who closely followed him, assaulted Mr. McKay in a violent manner. These two "worthies" on complaint were arrested and brought before Mr. Justice Silliker on Tuesday last, who (the accused parties having consented to be summarily tried) after hearing the evidence, imposed a fine on each of them, which, together with the costs, he adjudged to be paid forthwith, or 20 days in "Tait's Hotel, Dorchester."

Not liking much the idea of boarding in that particular locality of the "Devil's Half Acre," they left the Court room "sadder if not wiser men."

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RESTORER is a scientific combination of some of the most powerful restorative agents in the vegetable kingdom. It restores gray hair to its original color. It makes the scalp white and clean. It cures dandruff and humors, and restores the natural growth of the hair. It is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft, and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dressing. It is recommended by all the leading medical men, and officially endorsed by the State Assayer of Massachusetts. The popularity of Hall's Hair Restorer has increased with the test of many years, and it is now known and used in all the civilized countries of the world.

For sale by all druggists.

ITCHING PILLS—Symptoms and Cure.
The symptoms are moisture, like perspiration, itching, particularly at night, as if pinworms were crawling in and about the rectum; the private parts are sometimes inflamed; the bowels are constipated, and the patient is generally in a state of nervous debility. It is a pleasant, safe, and effective remedy for itching, hemorrhoids, piles, and all the diseases of the rectum. Address: Dr. J. W. Wells, 101 South Street, Boston, Mass.

It is natural for some people to be bilious, being often a result of peculiar habits, increased weight, high living, too greasy food, indigestion from inactive liver, is the frequent cause. The remedy, above all others, is Ayer's Cathartic Pills. It is a gentle, but powerful purgative for all bilious complaints, and far better than physic for inactive conditions of the bowels.

A Run for the Doctor
Is generally the first thing in case of an injury, but a doctor cannot respond to the call. If you have Hagar's Yellow Oil at hand, you have a reliable remedy for all wounds, injuries, and pain. It has saved life when even doctors had abandoned hope. Keep it ready for use.

Don't be Giddy.
Many people are troubled with giddiness or dizziness, which is generally a sign of disordered digestion or unequal circulation. Burdock Blood Bitters restores the digestive powers, promotes a healthy circulation of the vital fluids, always nervous irritation, thus curing headache and giddiness.

A Handy Surgeon.
As a dressing for all manner of flesh wounds there is nothing better than Hagar's Yellow Oil. It cleanses, allays pain, subdues inflammation and heals without a scar or stiffness of the parts injured. It is equally valuable as a pain remedy for internal use.

Lager beer, which thirty years ago was practically unknown in the United States, is now made by 1,500 establishments in that country, and the value of the production each year, is said to be over $300,000,000.

McLAUCHLIN'S
Waterproof LEATHER Preserver
WILL keep out snow-water and keep your feet perfectly dry. It preserves the leather, and will make your shoes wear twice as long as they otherwise would. Give it a trial and be convinced.
If your stock-keeper does not keep it, tell him to get it from any respectable wholesaler or from the proprietors,
