The police did not learn of the crime until this morning. Police Magistrate Smith said as would not order the boy's arrest until yler the inquest to-morrow.

Young Kane recently attended a moving picture exhibition, where he viewed a portrayal of so-called "Wild West" scenes. What was supposed to depict a hold-up was shown, and the boy resolved to become a "road agent."

Yesterday afternoon his parents were away from home. Joseph discovered a thorgun which his father kept behind a door in the kitchen. Starting out with the weapon he proceeded to terrorize the children of the neighborhood.

Most of the youngsters whom he mesomplied with the order, "Throw up your lands." Among these were Thomas Ocas, Il years old, and his brother, John, 5 years old. These two Joseph induced to join him in playing "highwayman."

Finally the tameness of having the victims accede to their demands to surrender palled upon the youthful "bandius." Just then little Frances Lord ame into sight.

"Here comes Frances." he cried. "I am going to shoot her."
He stepped toward the baby and raised the gun to his shoulder.
"Look out, Frances." yelled the boy, I'm going to shoot you."
There was a flash from the weapon and the little girl fell to the ground, bleod streaming from wounds in her head. Her mother screamed and swoon-

Mr. Lord ran to the child and car-ried her into the house and summoned a doctor, but the child died a few minutes later.

Rielly, a well-known crook, who has served several long terms in Hamilton and Toronto, made a daring attempt to escape from Constable Smith in the police station this morning. Hielly is a huge man, about six feet five inches tall, and while being brought from the cells he threw himself on Smith and with a terrific blow on the face knocked him to the ground. He had to go down the corridor to escape and while doing so other officers captured him.

Rielly was arrested last night at the G. T. R. station on a charge of stealing the property of David Grant, a Chicago traveller. He was about to get aboard a train for Toronto, and was wearing Grant's coat, which would not begin to button around him, and which left about a foot and half of his arms showing. He had taken the coat and other property from the poolroom and by means of the coat the police had no trouble in locating him. He was committed for trial this morning at the next sessions on a charge of stealing, and will appear in a week for examination on the charge of assaulting P. C. Smith.
