An apparently well man went to a Louis-

Carrie Fenn, a young woman of New Haven, recovered from a spinal disease some time ago, is unable to recall the names of familiar objects or to play the simplest music, though she had been a skilful organist. Having still her love for the music, she has been relearning the notes, and practising the scales. Suddenly, the other afternoon, while drumming clumsily at the piano, like any beginner, he musical memory returned, and she astonished and delighted her family by playing her most difficult pieces.

The only variation in quality which will ever be found in "Myrtle Navy" to acco is in the degree of moisture which it contains. Tobacco is a very ready absorbent of moisure, and in unusual states of the weather may become a little too moist or a little too dry to suit the taste of some. This is a mino matter, however, as the essential quality o the tobacco is not changed. Its combustion is a little slower or a little faster according o the degree of moisture, that is all. The darker the plug the greater the moisture, and many prefer the dark. In each caddy, how-ever, the preference for either can be met. The French scientific journal Les Mondes states that a discovery has been made in Germany, which is at present kept a profound secret, but which promises to revolutionize the present systems of constructing ordnance The new cannon consists of a steel tube. ound which fine silk is wound in a spiral di ection, whereby the strength of the steel i mensely increased, the whole being coated externally with some waterproof material. What value may be attached to the tube we do not profess to say. In the days of old "Brown Bess," the tensile resistance of silk -that is of silk unimproved by the hand of the modern adulterators-as shown in the arrest of bullets by silken cravats and silken under-vests, was the subject of many mar-vellous but well-authenticated tories. To accomplish a large amount of work in naying with comparative ease, and also to secure the hay in the best average condition, the following method is recommended:—Run the mowing machine from four until eight in the afternoon. As soon as the dew is off in the morning spread the swathes and open the tumbles, if you have any. Then draw in the hay, if there is any ready, and rake up that which was mown the afternoon efore. The early morning hours may be devoted to grinding scythes and machine knives, and unloading the hay in the barn. If the grass lays in the swathe one night, in the tumble the next night, and is drawn into the barn in the heat of the day and left to stand and sweat another night, it will not need many hours' sun either day. If sweet, bright hay, free from dust, is wanted, the farmer should neither mow it, spread it, rake it, nor load it while it is wet with the dew. In order to follow this plan a supply shower is seen coming up, the farmer will find it less work to put it in heaps and cover it up than to get it into the barn. - American

House of Commons on Tuesday that the body of the Dublin hotel-keeper Jury, who was al leged to have been poisoned by the Invinci-bles, had been exhumed and examined but that no traces of poison had been found. A man named John Grant Mackay, accused of having a quantity of explosives in his possession, has been arrested in London. His case has been remanded for a week. The arrest is important, because the district police have recently received numerous menaces. An extremely sensational report comes by way of Washington to the effect that the condition of the Queen's health is so serious that her Majesty's abdication is hinted at. Lord Rosebery has resigned the Under-Secretaryship for the Home Department, and has been succeeded by Mr. John Tomlinson Hibbert, M.P. for Oldham and Parliamentary Secretary to the Local Government Board. In the House of Commons on Thursday Sir William Harcourt, Home Secretary, read letter from Lord Rosebery, in which the latter stated that he had not resigned the office of Under-Secretary for the Home Department because of the Home Secretary's tatement in the House touching his duties. Sir William Harcourt explained that Lord Rosebery's acceptance of office, in the first place, was only temporary.

Mr. O'Donnell, M.P. for Dungarvan, takes somewhat too much upon himself. In the mperial House of Commons on Thursday he gave notice of a motion, protesting against the appointment of the Marquis of Lans-downe as Governor-General of Canada, on the ground that it is calculated to excite grave discontent among the Irish people and among the free Canadians. Mr. O'Donnell is perfectly welcome to express the views of is constituents, but we have yet to learn hat he was returned to Parliament to repreple of Canada. The free Canadians are perfectly competent to look after themselves without Mr.

O'Donnell's unsolicited interference A heated debate occurred in the House of Commons on Friday relative to the execution f Suleiman Daoud. The members opposed o the execution, led by Sir Geo. bell and Mr. Malloy, member for King's county, urged the Government to telegraph denry Drummond Wolff asserted the death f Suleiman Daoud was hurried to silence the charge against the Khedive. Lord Fitzmaurice, Under Foreign Secretary, replied that Sir E. Malet, British Consul-General in Egypt, had been ordered to inquire whether here was anything in the case calling for the ntervention of the British Government, and Mr. Gladstone finally declared as Sir E. Malet ad not informed the Government that there nad been any injustice done to Suleiman Daond, they distinctly declined to interfere Lord Dufferin had informed him that the charges against the Khedive were absurd. John S. Main discusses in the British Medical Journal what he calls cerebral dyspepsia. A sudden piece of bad news, as is well known, will take away all desire to eat even when the stomach is empty, and the man perfectly healthy, and it is often the case that physicians treat dyspepsia, which is really the expression or indication of an overworried brain, as though the stomach was diseased. The true course is to use medicines that act directly upon the cerebrum. I have found, he says, the most useful to be the bromide of ammonium, or bromide of potassium-preferably the former-given in night's sleep; and, combined with this, to be taken three or four times during the day. such medicines as are known to have a building up effect on the nervous system, among these, the most useful being phosphorus, or the hypoposphites and cod-liver oil. Arsenic and uinine are often also useful, and a generous diet is always indicated.

The Papal Manifesto. LONDON, June 7.-In the House of Comnons this evening Lord Randolph Churchill called the attention of the mission of Mr. Errington to Rome, and argued that there could e no doubt that the Government had recommended him to the Vatican, the recent Papal manifesto in regard to Irish affairs being the result. Mr. Gladstone replied that Mr. Errington had gone to Rome at his own suggestion. Mr. Errington informed Earl Granville he was going to Rome, and as he was a Papist greatly interested in Irish affairs, it was only natural that his intercourse with the Pope would be interesting to her Majesty's Government. Mr. Errington received no pay, and no instructions were given him by the Government; but, said Mr. Gladstone, as Mr. Errington's visit to Rome would tend to alter his position in future, a record would be made of his proceedings, and kept for transmission to the successor of Earl Granville as Foreign Secretary. Mr. Gladstone said the Government real state of Ireland in the interest of peace and order.

A stormy debate arose in the House of Commons recently on a motion to recommend the Lord Wolseley and Baron Alcester annuity bills for the purpose of commuting the proposed pensions for lump sums of money. Sir Wilfrid Lawson (Radical) and Lord Randolph Churchill (Conservative) op-posed the motion. The latter alleged that an enquiry into the Egyptian war was first necessary. The origin of the war, he said, was disgraceful, not glorious, as the Government's puppet, the Khedive, was the real author of the massacres at Alexandria. Sir Stafford Northcote (Conservative) supported the Government. The opposition to the grants he characterized as shabby. The present occasion, he said, was not suitable for raising a question as to the policy of the war. He declined to be led by Lord Randolph Churchill, and he hoped the House would not be induced by the noble lord to accept a position degrading to its honour. Mr. Gladstone declared that Lord Randolph Churchill's allegation in regard to the Khedive was entirely at variance with all the evidence in the hands of the Government. Lord Randolph Churchill promised to give proofs of his statement if the Government would grant a proper enquiry.

The Skye Crofters. A royal commission is at last investigating the grievances of the "crofters," or tenants, in the Isle of Skye. Most abject, dstressing, irremediable poverty has been brought to light. To be sure, it has been known for years that life on the island must be burden. But the statement of facts in official form before a Government Board In the House of Lords recently the bill legalizing marriage with a deceased wife's is calculated to impress the country with the real condition of things. There is some difference of opinion with reference to the fortunes of people now as compared with fifty years ago. One man of 73 testified pathetically: "The people have no estified pathetically: "The people have no iving now compared with when I was young. here is not a man or womann now who be out in the spring working on the croft. Vhen they are done with the spade they ave to do harrowing themselves. They had horses when I was young. They were better fed then, too. They had meat then. The people don't cat flesh at all now. We have not got it of our own, and we have not the wherewithal to buy it. There are not many people who can get mills. It is more than fifty years since the people were pros-perous." But, on the other hand, the parish inister of Strath, who has lived all his life in the neighbourhood, says that the people on the whole are better fed and better clothed than they were half a century ago.

IRISH AFFAIRS

Doyle, one of the Invincibles, has been iberated from prison on bail. His health is in such a condition that it is thought he ill not live long. The British Government has awarded De-informer, as it has no evidence that a vacancy James Carey, the informer, writes to the executive daily at Dublin protesting against being kept in confinement. He still declines to leave Ireland, and says if he is compelled to go he will return. A memorial has been presented to Lord pencer asking him to reprieve Timothy Kelly, one of the Phœnix park murderers. The petition is based on the prisoner's youth and the fact that he is suffering from epilepsy.

Great discontent is said to exist in the farming districts of Limerick and large forces of police are kept busy protecting boycotted persons and watching promass from which the tonants have been evieted. Large tracts of land are reported to be running for want of care and cultivation.

Poisoning by Invincibles It is rumoured that the Invincibles have been extensively using poison in removing obnoxious persons. The police are investigating a number of cases of suspicious deaths which have occurred during the past few years, especially the case of a hotelkeeper named Jury, of Dublin, who died a fortnight after the Phenix park mur-ders. From disclosures by informers the authorities do not doubt that Jury was poisoned. The reason alleged for the poisoning is that he inadvertently opened a letter addressed to Tynan, who was staying at Jury's hotel. Jury discovered that the letter contained directions in regard to a secret society. Fearing the vengeance of the members of the society, Jury destroyed the letter. A waiter, however, informed Tynan that Jury had received a letter for him is thought Jury's removal was then decided

Execution of Kelly. Timothy Kelly, who was convicted of parcipation in the Phœnix park murders, was hanged at Kilmainham gaol at eight o'clock on the 9th. He was the fifth man executed or that crime and the last one convicted. There was a large crowd outside the prison. died without making a statement. A number of women in the crowd fervently read the prayers for the dying. When the black flag was noisted some persons in the crowd shrieked, sufficient dose at bed time to secure a good | and a young woman fell on her knees and called the curse of God upon James Carey, the informer. The crowd soon dispersed. Kelly received the sacrament at 6.30 that morning, and knelt with the priest in prayer. To the last he maintained a calm demeanour, but was very pale. The parting interview with his mother and friends on Friday was very painful. On Saturday he gave a lock of his hair and flowers to Canon Kennedy, re-Before death he repeated the promise made ment or letter regarding the murders.

A Dublin despatch says the Government has dealt liberally with the informers through whom the Phœnix park murder convictions were secured. The only penalty inflicted was the obligation to quit the country for ever, an obligation which most of them considered an advantage, The first to go were Joseph Hanlon, Michael Kavanagh, and Joseph Smith, who undoubtedly received some money consideration, although whether it amounted to much, or only passage money, has not been amounced. Mottley, the hatter, who positively identified Timothy Kelly, has received $2,000 and his With him went Neale, Jas. assage money. Murray, Emma Jones, and the park gardener, ames Huxley. It is now known that Neale and Huxley received $1,000 each. The others were paid something, probably not much less. It is thought the Government has tried to keep secret, as far as possible, the details; and the destinations of the informers have been kept secret also. It is said that some of the emigrants did not know to what point they were bound until after putting to sea.

Notes by a large number of observers upon the colour of horses in different parts of the globe have been brought together by Dr. Langkavel in a very interesting manner, White and grey horses are, perhaps, the most general favourites, but a great variety of colours are held in esteem. It is notice able that black horses are little sought for, except by Europeans. *For years Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham has been contending with the terrible hydra known as Disease, with what surprising success many who were in the serpent's coils will testify. Often has the powerless victim been natched from the open jaws of the destroyer. Wong-Chin-Foo, editor of the Chinese-American, of New York, on Saturday had Chin-Pon-Tip arrested on a charge of attempting to assassinate him. The affair is said to arise out of publications in Foo's paper regarding gambling houses, and it is charged that Tip is the instrument of the gamblers. Foo says he entered a store where ip was, and the latter asked the proprietor to hand him a revolver. Foo also says Tip and two companions tried to murder him in Chicago, and were to receive $10,000 if they succeeded, and $5,000 if they seriously in-

A gentleman named Sheridan, of New York, has invented a painless instrument of death. He has constructed a chair to which victim takes a comfortable seat, a spring is touched, and death ensues painlessly and in stantaneously. He proposes the substitution of this for the bungling gallows. But before any Government adopts this easy mode of execution, the question must be carefully considered whether there is not something in the nature of death by hanging, its paintul associations, the fear of failure to produce instant results, which has a deterrent power that would not be possessed by this scientific

The Bell Telephone Company had a gang of men recently in Camden, N.J., putting up a line, and they proceeded to dig a hole in which to place a pole in front of a property which to place a pole in front of a property at Third and Birch streets, owned by a Mr. Beckett. Mrs. Beckett, in the absence of her husband, protested against the digging of the hole, but without effect upon the minious of the corporation. Finally she sent for her husband. When the latter saw how things stood he went for a lawyer. As soon as he went away Mrs. Beckett put on her shawl and, going out, jumped into the hole and dared the workmen to dig it any deeper. The workmen stopped until the husband returned, when he made a compromise, pulled his wife out of the hole wherein she had

An Eighty-Year-Old Millionaire Goes West to Save $20,000 in Taxes. WARSAW, N. Y., June 9 .- Cyrus Jefferon, an octogenarian of this place who is worth between one and two millions, is obligto emigrate from his home to avoid the ffect of the new state tax law, which rewherever situated shall be taxed where the money is loaned in the Western States, where t is taxable also, and he has no alternative out to leave the State or to pay $20,000 extra taxation annually. He goes to Minnesota.

Panic at a Circus. CHICAGO, June 7.—There was nearly a panic at the afternoon performance at Barnum's circus. The place was completely packed, over 15,000 people being present. The grand entry was being made when one f the elephants attached to a chariot be came frightened, and went bellowing around the ring, dashing into the procession and smashing one or two of the lighter chariots. To add to the confusion one of the lady charioteers abandoned her horses, and they went dashing around the ring. The wild beasts, frightened at the uproar, began bel-lowing and beating the bars of their cages, while the rest of the elephants be-came frightened and unmanageable. The audience, largely composed of women and children, were greatly terrified; they rose upon the seats, and those near the exit made a rush and a jam. For a tew moments there was a general panic, and fearful loss of playing by the band reassured the frightened multitude somewhat, and the employés suc ceeded in getting the unruly animals out and especially as the American press have but just commenced to review the availcandidates for the Presidential race. On the Democratic side the candidates are legion in number, and representatives of all sections. Butler, of Massachusetts, Cleveland, of New York; McDonald, of Indiane, and others, have already been named, and a best of others would, doubtless, be ready to accept a nomination. Among the names more particularly mentioned of late, s that of ex-Governor Tilden, of New York, vigorously rolling in his behalf. A letter from Henry Watterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, appears in the issue of the thing by order of the police, A French marguis and se at the request of the sage of Gramercy, paid a visit to him at his suburban residence, and reports Tilden hale and hearty, and evidently enjoying excellent health. As Watterson is one of the most prominent Democratic leaders imaginary lands at Port Breton. n the Union, his visit is entitled to some sigin the Union, his visit is entitled to some significance, although he avers that politics were little too soon over the return of the golden not introduced during his stay at Gramercy park. Be this as it may, it now appears quite evident that unless something which cannot now be foreseen turns, up within the year Tilden will be the Democratic choice for head of the National ticket next fall. Watterson's letter will turn public attention again to the man who was defrauded out of the Presidency in 1876, and public sympathy is likely to follow. The second place on the ticket headed by Tilden would naturally go to some Western man, probably McDonald, one of the leading aspirants for first place. There does hot seem to be so many candidates on the Republican side as is usual. The result of last fall's elections rather cornered the grand old party. The only names prominently mentioned are those of Senator Edmunds and the present incumbent of the Presidential chair. That Mr. Arthur to-day would prove the strongest candidate for the Presidency is conceded by all. That he is likely to maintain his strength, if not materially increase it before the time for testing his party's vote in a national election, is not denied. The New York Times, which persistently vilified him from the day of his election up to a recent date. has shown heart of grace, and now very generally approves of his administration. Even the unregenerated Tribune, which lashed him with scorpions, can find little or nothing in his public administration as President to condemn, and the Buffalo Express, which published "an open letter" to Mr. Arthur during the days of the Garfield excitement, and alluded to him (Arthur) in a most disgraceful manner, shows unmistakable signs of going over to his support. Arthur may not be the nominee nor even a candidate, but Republicans are pretty generally of opinion he has given the country the clearest and best administration of public affairs since Lincoln occupied the executive chair. As between him and Tilden the fight would be on purely party lines, and what those lines will be the action of next Congress will determine. At present the indications unmistakably point to Tilden and Arthur as the respective standard bearers of the Democratic and Republican parties in dacious, although he is described as a "grave French abbe"—proposes to verify the Bibli-cal account of the miraculous destruction of cal account of the infractions destruction of Pharoah and his host in the Red Sea by an entirely novel course of reasoning. He in-tends to furnish optical proof, so to speak, of the authenticity of Moses' narrative. What can be easier? Here is a record which tells of the drowning of a certain army while in full pursuit of a retreating horde. Tradition. noreover, points out the place where th catastrophe occurred. Hence what could be more in accordance with modern notions than to form a joint stock company to dredge the Red Sea ter Lakes for the purpose of finding the "chariots, horses, arms, treasurer and archives of the Egyptians," if not the body of Pharaoh himself? Our explorer supposes that "the beds of salt at the bottom of the Bitter lakes must have kept all the me-merials of the famous miracle in a remarkable state of preservation," and he expects to realize enough from the products of the excavation to pay all the cost of it and leave a handsome profit. But supposing the grave able fails, what will be the effect on faith? Believers in the miracle may of course say that he did not dig in the right place. But Believers in the miracle may of course say that he did not dig in the right place. But will not disbelievers take his ill-success to be conclusive proof that the miracle never was performed? We fear so.

in restoring quiet. The Next President. BUFFALO, June 13 .- To make political fore
