In Every Home.

A good family medicine should be kept on hand. Even under the most favorable circumstances there will be frequent derangements of the stomach, the blood may become impure, catarrh, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, salt rheum or some other disease may suddenly make its appearance. Prompt attention to these ailments usually prevents serious results. Thousands of people who write that Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured some painful affliction,—has built up and strengthened some nervous, tired woman, or saved the life of some darling child,—add that Hood's Sarsaparilla is now their family medicine. Because of its wonderful power to enrich and purify the blood, tone the stomach and create an appetite, Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best "family medicine" it is possible to obtain. A bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla should be found in every household, and upon the slightest indication of impure blood this medicine should be taken according to directions. If it is done, a vast amount of sickness and suffering, as well as much unnecessary expense, will be avoided.

Throughout his long life of four score years, Mr. Curran was noted for his honesty, industry and integrity. He was a devoted and pious man, a true friend and a devout Catholic. Two of his sons are devoted priests in the diocese, frequently visited and consoled him in his last moments. He was buried in the cemetery at Baldwin's Road. His funeral took place at St. Teresa's on Sunday the 10th inst. and was largely attended by people of all creeds from the surrounding country. A High Requiem Mass was sung by Rev.
