Cable News. 1,000 Guineas When You Marry.

This was the Foolish Bargain made by a Squire to a Yokel who seemed a Bit Soft. The Yokel Married, Claimed the Money, and got it. Other Great "Leading Cases" that are constantly quoted in the Law Courts have had Stranger Origins.

Two hundred years ago rustics were just as full of guile as they are nowadays, and Tom Thornborow was about as cute as any of them were his own interests were concerned, and one fine day he put himself in the way of his neighbour, farm-er Whitacre.

That's a nice crop of rye you've got, and here's a five pound note. Supposing I hand it over now, will you undertake to give me two rye coins next Monday, four on Monday week, eight on Monday fort-night, and so on—doubling it every Monday—for a year?"

Farmer Whitacre was also cute: as a boy at school he had learnt the he knew that what his friend was property, was resumed. She was carried out by the jailer and wardens.

The Court was filled to everything Unfortunately for himself, however, he also knew a little law. So he pretended to jump at the offer and pocketed the fiver with a chuckle.

> intending to teach the rascal Thornborow a lesson later on Thornborow came for his two rye corns at the appointed time.
> Farmer Whitacre laughed in his

"I'm giving you no rye corns, Tom, he said, proceeding to air his law; "the bargain's off; it's an impossible contract. Do you think I didn't know what your game was? You're too sharp; try it next time with somebody not quite so simple and come to me later on for your five pounds back."

Tom Thornborow refused to treat the transaction as a joke, and went off in high dudgeon to see his lawyer. The attonrey-solicitors were called attorneys in those days-saw possibilities in the case, and a suitat-law was the result, the action eventually finding its way into the Court of Common Pleas.

All His Worldly Possessions Went. Honest Farmer Whitacre's rye was swallowed up; all his worldly possessions went; the lawyer's harvest of fees took all in. For, much to his surprise, the case went against him. What the Court said was, though the bargain was a foolish one, it held good in law; there was a 'consideration,' and as for the farmer's contention that it was an impossible contract, it was only impossible in respect of his own inability."
