

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her system, soon loses her personal magnetism. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her amiability and womanly charm. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed and cured many thousands of women. He has devised a successful remedy for woman's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to woman. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG. SICK WOMEN WELL. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

SCORES OF DEATHS FROM EATING POISONOUS FUNGI

People of France Eat What They Think Are Mushrooms; Thirty Die in a Day

Paris, Sept. 3.—Poisonous fungi of the mushroom species are proving almost as fatal in France this summer, as an epidemic of the plague. No fewer than 15 deaths of persons who had eaten what they believed to be mushrooms were registered today in various parts of the country. Near Bethune a man named Bosselle and three of his children died and the lives of Mme. Bosselle and a friend are despaired of. In the vicinity of Saint Die, Chief of Customs Clesment and his wife and five children all were poisoned by a feast on the fungi. Two of the children died today and the remaining members of the family are in a grave condition. This is the heaviest death toll of a single day, but for the past fortnight, several deaths daily have been recorded of persons who had eaten the poisonous plants.

LOCKING SUSPENDED AT SAULT STE MARIE CANAL

Steamer Clifford Moll, Jammed in Locks, Inflicts Considerable Damage

Sault Ste Marie, Sept. 3.—Letting no her lines before orders were given by the canal officials to do so, the steamer Clifford Moll, up bound in the Fox lock this afternoon, was jammed between the lock walls and the steamer Venezia, which was locking up with her. After ineffectual efforts to release herself, she was forced to back out, and after an hour's pulling she was got out, but not until about twenty feet, the top facing of the lock wall on the north side of the lock, was torn up. The cement work was broken up two layers down. Locking was suspended for two hours until the damaged portion was repaired sufficiently to avoid further damage.

KISS PROVES WIFE DEAD

Husband Had Cooked Own Breakfast and Had Cooked Her Sleep

Tacoma, Sept. 3.—Bending over his wife to kiss her good-bye before going to work, I. Iveson, an employee of the North End Fuel Company, was horrified to find her dead upon the bed. This morning when he awoke, Iveson seeing his wife lying apparently as asleep, cooked his own breakfast and did not attempt to awaken her until leaving.

An English gentleman writes that he read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," and at a meeting of the Victoria Psychological Society of London (of which he is president) he urged the members to read it carefully, for, as he writes: "I think it the finest little book of Psychological Knowledge I have ever seen."

He is Mr. T. A. Wilson, 22 Hamburg St., Richmond, Eng. The relation of body, food and mind are explained in a simple way in "The Road to Wellville," and a miniature copy is placed in small envelope, and attached to every third package of Grape-Nuts, in order to extend its circulation, in such cases, free.

If interested, you can instruct your grocer to send up a package with the little envelope attached.

The little book is certainly interesting and well worth reading.

TWO MEN KILLED BY CONDUCTOR WHO SAYS THEY THREATENED HIM

J. T. Trebett Shoots Roy W. Sanford and Otis Sanford Following Argument on Ballard Beach Line

SEATTLE, Sept. 3.—Roy W. Sanford, 43 years old, and Otis Sanford, his son, 22 years old, were shot and almost instantly killed at 9:45 o'clock last evening at the end of the Ballard Beach car line by J. T. Trebett, conductor on the line, who claims that the men had threatened to "beat him up," that he had had shot in self-defense. No weapons were found on the dead men. The shooting took place after Ballard Beach car #16, on which the men had ridden from town, and which Trebett was in charge, had reached the end of the line and had backed up to the station, returning to the city. Trebett claims that Otis Sanford, closely followed by his father, had started toward him, one of them making a move towards his hip pocket as if to draw a revolver, which he opened. Otis, who was in the lead, was shot in the abdomen just below the heart, and fell down. His father, who was in practically the same spot, but managed to scramble down the steps of the car before he fell dead. Trebett was arrested by Patrolmen A. F. Evans and S. Stinson on his way to the police station, where he is being held.

According to the story told by Trebett to Deputy Coroner Andy Hill and police officers, Otis Sanford was considerably under the influence of liquor. After the car had passed through Ballard station, both he and his father began making remarks to the conductor relative to his management of the car, particularly after it had passed a woman who was waiting to get on the car, but who was not noticed in time. To these remarks, Trebett claims he made reply, and later he heard Otis tell his father to wait until the car reached the end of the line, when they would "beat up" the conductor after everyone had gotten off. The car, according to Trebett, saw the father pass Otis something which appeared to be a revolver. He immediately made preparations to take care of himself, he says, and noticed that they still remained in the car after it was in motion to return to the city. When Otis and his father got up from their seats and started towards him, the son had a dark object in his hand, which Trebett claims he saw in a quart bottle of coal oil. Trebett claims he waited until they seemed ready to attack him before he fired. Owing to the fact that there were no witnesses to the shooting, considerable difficulty was experienced by Deputy Coroner Hill in obtaining information concerning the two men killed. It was learned, however, that they lived at 1233 Twenty-fifth Avenue, Northwest, and were both laborers. Trebett lives at 525 Fifth Avenue North, is married, and has two children. He has been in Seattle for about a year, coming here from San Francisco, where he was formerly employed as a conductor. The bodies of the two men were taken to Butterworth's morgue. Trebett declared that so many beat-up cases have been reported at the Ballard Beach line that he had armed himself, and had frequently observed Otis Sanford and his father, although he did not recall seeing the father before last night.

A DASH THROUGH ALASKA IN SEARCH OF COAL

Expedition Being Fitted Out in Seattle for the Purpose of Proving Property

Seattle, Sept. 3.—With sufficient equipment to make a dash for the pole or explore hidden Thibet, a party of 28 experts, engineers, superintendents and miners will have to Alaska next month for the unromantic purpose of mining coal back of Katalia. The expedition is sent by the Bureau of Mines, and its movements are shrouded in governmental red tape mystery. For the last few weeks, experts, members of the expedition have been collecting an $18,000 outfit in Seattle. The party will be aboard the liner Mariposa when she clears from Seattle for Prince William Sound, Sept. 10. The party will be landed at Kayak Island, near Katalia. Its destination is Trout creek, on the Cunningham group of coal claims that have aroused so much excitement in the last two or three years. The Cunningham group has reverted to the United States. The real purpose of the expedition is to prove the coal of Alaska can be mined, how much it will cost to mine it and how it can be most easily be handled. The expedition is one of the results of the sudden interest the government has taken in the Alaska situation and its efforts to learn the truth about the country. The Bureau of Mines has an appropriation of $75,000 to pay for the experiment. The party itself will include Dr. Holmes, a manager, a superintendent, a construction manager, two geologists, a foreman and assistant foreman, a doctor, a commissary superintendent and 25 miners. When the Mariposa lands the expedition off Kayak Island will proceed inland to Stillwater creek. Here camp will be established. A shaft sunk on Trout creek, and Alaska coal will be shipped and passed upon. When the expedition comes back it will be prepared to tell just how easily the coal can be extracted and what it will cost to work.

HACKS BRIDE, HER LAWYER AND INFLECTS FATAL WOUND ON SELF

Centray City, Ky., Sept. 2.—When C. O. Dutinger, a tailor, today learned that his bride of two months was at a lawyer's office here making preparations to file suit for a divorce, he seized a hatchet and running to the office attacked both his wife and the lawyer, James Stroud.

After hacking them with the hatchet, inflicting mortal wounds on his wife, he ran back to his apartment through a plate glass window, wrecking a gasoline stove inside and setting fire to the building. He then tried to hang himself with a wire rope, but failed. He was hacking himself with the hatchet when firemen dragged him from the burning building. His wounds also are mortal. The lawyer will recover.

DECLARES JAPAN IS CHINA'S ENEMY

Dr. Sun Thinks Nothing Can Keep Her Out of Manchuria

Necessary for Government's Sake to Move Capital of the Republic

Pekin, Sept. 3.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, in the course of an interview openly expressed fears that Japan would take aggressive action in Manchuria, and showed himself pessimistic concerning China's ability to save the eastern provinces. He said it was necessary for the government's sake to remove the Chinese capital, owing to the probability of Japan's taking Manchuria and thus coming within striking distance of Peking. Should hostilities break out, Peking's capture would be certain, he said, and such an event would demoralize the people and practically end the war. Nanking or Wuchang, he thought, could be more easily defended. China's Greatest Enemy In reply to a question the first provisional president of the republic said that Japan was China's greatest enemy. When asked if the powers would permit the occupation of Manchuria, he replied that no individual power was strong enough to object effectively. Japan's power in Oriental waters, he declared, was similar to that of Great Britain in the North Sea. When asked if the United States would allow the occupation of Manchuria, he replied that the United States would be unable to maintain the "open door." The Thibetian Question The contention caused by the British Government's demand that China abandon her advance into Thibet is increasing rather than subsiding. It is contended that the British location of the demands are in absolute accord with treaty rights and while this is doubtless a true representation, it is

PHONOGRAPH OUSTS THE "HELLO" GIRL

Telephone Authorities of Berlin Adopt Novel Scheme in Exchanges

By Use of Instrument it is Hoped to Save Voices and Temper of "Central"

Berlin, Sept. 2.—Several of those inhabitants of fashionable Charlottenburg, whose duties or pleasures caused them to use the telephone, the other morning had a strange surprise awaiting them. Instead of the vague, half-hearted interjection "engaged," always more easily divined than heard, there came a thrice repeated cry, clear and unmistakable—clear, that, under other circumstances it might have been a pleasure to hear. Some sharp listeners thought they caught another sound accompanying this business message—the rasp of a phonograph disk. And so it was, for the telephone girl had been ousted by the phonograph, though only in this particular exchange. It seems probable that things will go further in this direction. The telephone authorities of Berlin are nothing if not ambitious, and they hope to see the phonograph save the voices, and, to some extent the nerves, of the telephone girls in a far greater measure than this. But for such schemes caution is necessary. When westerners of Berlin had divided themselves between the sands of the Baltic and the hills of Tyrol, then was the time to make an essay. The telephone engineers had phonograph plates ready for several standard replies. "Engaged," "will be free if you ring again in a minutes," "Your number is here; you can speak now," and so forth, but modestly they began with one only. Yet there seems no doubt that the rest will follow. The telephone girl uses her keen ears, grasps the situation and presses a button; she saves her voice for other occasions.
