Peculiar Arithmetical Faculty-Where Is Nansen's God?-How a Preacher Rebuked a Runaway Couple-Women Voters in New Zealand.

"WHERE IS NANSEN'S GOD?"

This is the query which heads as an editorial in The Christian Com-monwealth (London). The editorial is prompted by an article in The Free-man, written by Rev. Philip Reynolds, "the most eloquent of the London strict Baptists," who "frankly but fairly criticises the Godless character gain, we give a bargain; trade of Dr. Nansen's book." Commenting on this article, in which The Commonwealth says there is "nothing canting or sanctimonious," the editor expresses the same view as that held by Mr. Reynolds. We quote from the editorial:
"In all the hundreds of pages of 'Farthest North' God is shut out! Dr. Nansen is full of admiration of nature, and some of his descriptions of the scenery of the Polar realm are majestic in their digition and westig in their stenery of the Polar realm are majestic in their diction and poetic in their style. Only once is God alluded to, That is something, of course; better than absolute atheism, but no Christian can read the book without a consciousness that the writer seems to be uttarly regardless of a Creator as well utterly regardless of a Creator as well as of a creation. Indeed, there are evidences that he does not really believe in a personal Deity, or in any spiritual immortality, for he calls eternity the great Nirvana! This is just how a Theosophist or a Buddhist would write. On critical occasions—and how thrilling were some of the junctures recorded in this book!—it might have been expected that this heroic and noble soul would give some recognition of a Divine Providence. But never is there any intimation of any trust or hope in a higher Power—not even in parting from the Fram for that appalling pilgrimage on the ice! Neither does Dr. Nansen seem to have felt of a career otherwise admirable, 'One thing thou lackest.'"
