Decision by Court of Southern Ilinois Invalidates Many Marriages.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The prop of legalty has been knocked from beneath thousands of marriages in Illinois through a sweeping decision of the ppellate court of Southern Illinois. The remarriage of divorced persons within one year, even though the ceremony is performed in another state, is declared illegal. The principals in such marriages are declared guilty of a serious offence and liable to criminal rosecution should they return to Illi-ois to live following their second feared that the vessel foundered in a storm and that all hands were lost.

The Marama also had the news of a massacre by New Guinea cannibals, who, early in October, took advantage of the absence of warriors and wiped out the viliage of Muruital, killing men, women and children. A Government punitive expedition was sent after the raiding blacks, who had eaten a number of their victims. Many of the Karuama tribesmen were arrested and brought to Faus to be tried for murder.

Must Keep Pace.

The religion of the world must keep pace with this great advance. Canadians are just beginning to enter into the problems that the United States had been dealing with for years, and if we would prevent ourselves developing the same conditions that existed there, we must make an effort to unite in this great work of religion. The existing conditions in the United States were such that all Americans should be ashamed ef. They were fast getting ashamed and were waking up to the fact that something must be done to remedy them. Mon all over the United States were becoming interested in church work, and helping to Let All Unite.

"What is the use of holding out for any special kind of method?" said Prof. Fiske. "Let us unite." he continued, "and together battle for Christ. Let us insist that child labor be stopped; that if woman has to work, we will make it just as decent for her to work as the law allows. The day is coming when the church will be compelled to do this, the day of the social gospel when the Sermon on the Mount is coming into its own. The gospel of clean streets, clean houses and clean hearts is what the world needs." Near the conclusion of his address, the profressor stated that while passing through Niagara Falls, N. Y., on his way to this city, he noticed people living in houses that the state laws of New York would not permit to be used for cow wheels. The laws of the state gave hetter.

WORLD NOT THE DEVIL'S

"The church of today must serv nore broadly, more faithfully, the fraternalism of men, especially the laboring men, if it would reach the high standard of efficiency that the world of today demands of it," said Prof. Walter G. Fiske, dean of Oberlin College Oberlin, Ohio, in an after-dinner ad dress to the members of the London Ministerial Alliance in the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday night. He strongly favored church union.

Saturday evening Prof. Fiske was the guest of the Ministerial Alliance at a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. There was a large attendance of the local clergy, and following the address a short discussion on some of the problems mention by Dean Fiske was held.

Defeat of Reciprocity.
In opening his address, Dean Fiske made a slight reference to the late reciprocity pact.

"Although an American," he said, "I take a great interest in English and take a great interest in English and Canadian politics. I flatter myself in knowing Engish politics pretty well, but Canadian politics are beyond me. I was reasonably sure when I spent three weeks in this country last summer that weeks in this country last summer that the reciprocity agreement would be passed, and I am sorry that you people over here could not see your way clear to pass it. There were just as many peope on the other side opposed to it as there were here, and I think President Taft has certainly hurt himself with the great farming population of the United States. by favoring a trade agreement with Canada."

Problems in Canada.

Continuing, Prof. Fiske stated that Business methods in the church were needed, according to Prof. Fiske.

"The practical, hard-headed businessman," he continued, "when he hears that a church is bettering social conditions in the city, says, "That is the religion for me." When he sees the possibility of taking hold and really doing something, and as soon as it comes around to a man's job in the church, he takes a hold of it."

The speaker then talked along the line of moral conditions among ourselves and our neighbors. He stated that our physical health depends on the sanitary life our neighbors lead. Another demand was that the church assume more definitely the moral leadership in its city. The church that does not stand erect before all the winds that blow is worse than no church at all. By this it was not meant to dilute are evantiles by coming in contact.

In conclusion the professor dealt with the high standard of efficiency that the church must maintain.

Efficiency Demanded.

"This is a wonderfully efficient age," he concluded. "The world of today is demanding efficiency. Think what men like Edison and Burbank have done. Our industrial system is cruelly efficient. It is one big system for the manufacture of dividends, and everything that modern efficiency has brought about is developed by these keen-thinking businessmen. If a machine that perhaps has only been in use for a short time is replaced by one that lessens the friction of the first one, and brings more harmony, out goes the old machine and in comes the new. Businessmen of today demand efficiency in everything. Efficiency in the church will attract the businessmen. Then there is the problem of the boy that should echo in the heart of every man. Make the boy efficient.
