REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.

Is it Cheaper to Pay Rent Than Own?

This is a question that is frequently answered in the affirmative, but those who will give the matter a second thought must see that the instances are rare where it is as cheap to pay rent as to own one's own home. If this were not so, ask yourself the question: How would it pay people to own property and then rent it?

The fact is that not only is it cheaper for every workingman to own his own home than to pay rent, but also in the purchasing of his home he is saving money that might otherwise be spent to no purpose. At the present time property values in London are steady, with the tendency towards a gradual increase. They are better than they were a year ago, and there is every prospect that within the next year they will be better still, so that the man who buys now has the additional advantage of making an investment upon which he may, if he desires, take his profits in the future. Many are buying homes on easy terms, and if you would like to secure a place for yourself and family by paying monthly installments in place of the rent you are paying now, come in and ask for particulars of our plan. Below are given some of the numerous houses that we have for sale in London. For further list see the Free Press.

LORNE AVENUE. Story and three-quarter solid brick house, comparatively new, with conveniences. Must be sold as owner is leaving for the west.
