HUTCHISON LEADS IN MODERN DRAMA

Grand Presents "Bull-Dog Drummond" With Distinguished English Company.

Percy Hutchison and his English company carried "Bull-Dog Drummond," a sensational, thrilling and exciting play by "Sapper," through four rapid-fire and gripping acts before a Grand Opera House audience last night.

"Bull-Dog Drummond" employs all "Bull-Dog Drummond employs and the devices that have fixed melodrama in the hearts of theatregoers. As a mystery play it belongs with the "Bat," "The Cat and the Canary" and the Grand Guignol plays of France, and in the title role of Bull-Dog Drummond Mr. Hutchisch hear part that gives him scope son has a part that gives him scope for forcible acting.

The play is based on the move-

The play is based on the move-ments of an ex-army officer, Capt. Hugh Drummond, in search of ad-venture following his return from the war. As a result of an advertisement in one of the London papers for a war. As a result of an advertisement in one of the London papers for a little exciting pastime, association with crime not objected to, Drummond, whose war experiences have quickened his liking for taking desperate risks finds himself up against a gang of clever criminals playing for high stakes, and whose methods make a most effective cloak of their real purpose. The elements of good modern melodrama are all there and are used to best advantage. There are straight jackets, mysterious opening and closing doors, drugs, revolvers, screams in the dark and a Chinese servant. All combined to make a series of seething sensations that tensely held last night's audience. In "Bull-Dog Drummond." Percy Hutchison appears in a play that adimirably suits his clear cut style and characteristical breeziness of manner. As a book, "Bull-Dog manner. MAJESTIC SHOWS

'Married To a Mormon' Was Filmed in England-Simplicity Throughout.

Contrasting with the made-in-America films, a British photodrama, is on view at the Majestic theatre for the last three days of this week. It bears the title, "Married to a Mormon," the romance of America's harems. Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent play the title roles.

The production should be of interest to Canadians from more than one standpoint. First, it treats of an American subject in England, Secondly, erican subject in England. Secondly, it shows the influence of the hectic titles of the United States releases. It demonstrates, too, that California has no monopoly on sensation, even if it has the start on the other countries. Lastly, it shows as so many fine photoplays do, that virtue is bound to triumph in the end.

Briefly, the plot concerns a young and characteristical breeziness of manner. As a book, "Bull-Dog Drummond" had a wide range of popularity and as a play it has been even more greatly received by the public. Last night's presentation justified glowing advance reports of the four-act melodrama.

Mr. Hutchison is ably supported by a cast of experienced and talented English actors and actresses, in which is included Lord Lyveden.

VALENTINO BEST

Crowds See Screen Star in Film at Capitol Theatre.

"Monsieur Beaucaire," Booth Tarkington's romantic play of the days shortly preceding the French revolution, with Rudolph Valentino in the title role continues to draw the crowds to the Capitol theatre.

Not for nothing has this picture been described as "the best of all the Valentino pictures so far." Rudolph. after his absence from screen work shows the same aptitude for lovemaking in the fashion of gallant romance which endears him to the "shelkesses" and other fans of the movie, and he has added a strength to his acting which is undoubtedly an improvement

Supported by Bebe Daniels, Lowell Sherman and Lois Wilson, all outstanding figures in moviedom, Mr. Valentino appears in a picture of more than ordinary attraction. The arrangement of the play is very well done and the mountings and scenic effects are what one is accustomed to in the so-called "million dollar"
