

two weeks, can you give me any good receipt to cure her, she seems to be in good health and eats well and often sits on nest for hours at a time and doesn't seem to pass the egg from her. I have given her three or four doses of castor oil and also of sweet oil, but it doesn't seem to do her good, she is two years old this spring and she gets all the bones she wants also oyster shells and sand and cabbage. If you could advise me in any way on the matter I would be much obliged.

I remain,
Yours, etc.,

ANS.—It is not very clear that your hen is actually egg bound. You might try passing an oiled feather up the vent or holding this part over the steam from hot water. Feed a little meat now and then and give half a teaspoonful of cod liver oil daily for a week or so.

I used the oil as ordered on blue Andalusian hen and it worked like a charm. Thanking you for receipt.

QUE. Could you tell me of anything that would cure the rattling in a roosters throat as I have a R. C. brown Leghorn that has had it all winter, and oblige,
Yours truly,
J. B.

ANS.—We would advise you to give the cock a teaspoonful of cod liver oil daily and at night to paint a little glycerine over the opening to the wind-pipe. If not better in a week give the bird 2 drops of balsam of copaiba in a little milk at night.
