

NEWS FROM ROME.

On Sunday three weeks, his Eminence Cardinal Howard took possession of his church—that of St. John and St. Paul—and was received by a densely crowded congregation. He took advantage of the occasion to deliver an able discourse, in the course of which he alluded to the fact that the eminence on which the building was placed had become largely identified with England. It contained the church from which the illustrious Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster took his title of the cardinal; and it was from St. Gregory an archbishop came who first sent missionaries to England. His eminence paid a warm tribute to Great Britain for the liberty and happiness she accorded to her Catholic population, and commented with satisfaction on the daily disappearing prejudices of the majority. England, he said, had progressed wonderfully since the days of Adrian the Fourth. Then her entire population did not equal that of Portugal, while at this moment she had more Catholic subjects alone than Spain and Portugal combined. A large number of those present during the service were non-Catholics, who had been attracted by the high reputation of the new Prince of the Church for every quality that can adorn a great ecclesiastic.

The church, in preparation for the coronation, had been magnificently draped and decorated. Hangings of silk, velvet, and gold embroidered cloth depended on all sides. The high altar was almost buried in flowers, which Baron von Hoffman had contributed for the occasion. On each side of the altar hung gorgeous screens bearing the arms of the Cardinal, and the motto Sola virtus vincit, and portraits of his Holiness the Pope. A brilliant light blazed over all. The Cardinal was received on entering the basilica by the Passionist Fathers, who conducted him to the throne, and then read the bull conferring upon him his dignity and title. The general of the order, spoke a congratulatory address in Latin, to which his Eminence responded briefly. Taking the scene as a whole, it was one to keep a long and vivid hold on the memory.

The exposition of offerings to the Pope already at their destination, is a fine foretaste of what the full display will be when all the gifts have arrived. At this moment there are considerably over a thousand works of art of all kinds, amongst which must be specially noticed three hundred altars contributed by the people of Belgium. The significance of this magnificent and thoughtful generosity will be best appreciated when it is remembered that, after the jubilee celebration, his Holiness will be enabled to benefit so many poor missions by bestowing the altars upon their churches. It will not be out of place to state here, though the fact is already known, that the Holy Father has paid 200,000 francs to the Italian Government to cover the customs duties on the articles that have been and may be sent to him. The act was consistent with his policy from the beginning. There were two simple ways of escaping any tax of the kind. In the first place the Law of Guarantee frees him from all such imposts, and under this law he is entitled to unrestricted receipt of goods consigned to him. In the next place—supposing he merely declined to exercise his own privilege—the Ambassadors of the various Powers, who enjoy it as well, could have received the parcels from their countrymen and delivered them at the Vatican. But the Pope would not avail himself, directly or indirectly, of any distinction from the Quirinal, and so he paid his charges in advance into the custom house.

Cardinal Ledochowski lodged in the apartments of the canons adjoining the sacristy of St. Peter's. It was here he found refuge and rest from the persecution that was his lot in Germany. But Bismarck was not content. He wanted to try conclusions once more with the intrepid prelate; and Italy is not made of the stuff that affords sanctuary to the distressed if a powerful bully is likely to be offended thereby. Reports floated about pretty to the effect that the extradition of the Cardinal was under demand, and we know that a citation was served on him from Berlin, but up to the present there is no certainty of its authenticity. However, in order that no surprise may be possible, and no coup de main be successful, his Holiness has provided Cardinal Ledochowski with lodgings under the roof of the Vatican. There he will be safe from molestation. The Italian Government cannot accommodate the persecutors in Germany by touching him on ground made sacred by itself, and the prelate is likely to enjoy the immunity he has earned. The agitation provoked in France by the complaints embodied in the Allocation is causing much uneasiness in Italy. The Diritto looks upon the movement as by no means of secondary importance, and accuses the ecclesiastical authorities of fomenting it for their own ends and in the hope of compelling the Italian Government to withdraw the obnoxious bill. But the paper goes on to say, no such feat shall be accomplished. The Ministry of the King have acted from a consciousness of duty and necessity, and intend that his Law of supposed Clerical Abuses shall be the first of a series rendered obligatory by the course of ecclesiastical policy, Nous verrons.

The outbreaks of Socialists, though by no means formidable in themselves, have caused a great deal of anxiety in responsible quarters. Their performances were neither as audacious nor as serious as we have been accustomed to observe in the brigades, and it was found more easy to rout or capture them. Nevertheless, there is perturbation for the simple reason that their very existence and impudence testify to a wide discontent in the ranks of the people. Political unity has not secured domestic strength, nor has the concentration of administration brought prosperity. Despite the logermain of Finance Ministers, and the rosy hopes professed by paid officials, emigration is carrying away the industrious and seditious spreading amongst the lazy is easily inflamed. It appears from the numerous complaints made to the chief bureau that the military and police, in executing their orders to suppress the outbreak, have been utterly reckless as to persons or evidence, and large numbers of innocent people, many of them strangers, suffered arrest, interruption of their business or voyages and in many instances detention in prison. It may be taken as a fact that we have only seen the beginning of popular disorder, and that critical times are in store.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from active practice having had placed in his hands by an East Indian missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of consumption, bronchitis, catarrh, asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all nervous complaints, after having thoroughly tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, feels it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive, and a conscientious desire to relieve human suffering, he will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, with full directions for preparing and successfully using. Sent by return mail by addressing with stamp naming this paper, Dr. J. C. Stone, 32 North Fifth Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

CURE OF EPILEPSY OR FALLING FITS

BY HANCO'S EPILEPTIC PILLS.

Persons suffering from this distressing malady will find Hanco's Epileptic Pills to be the only remedy ever discovered for curing it. The following certificate should be read by all the afflicted: It is in every respect true.

A MOST REMARKABLE CURE.

Tongue, Laver, & Co., 4th, April 2, 1876.

SETH S. HANCE.—Dear Sir:—The Epileptic Pills that I received from you last September have accomplished all that you recommended them to do. My son is stout and robust; he is as hearty as any child in Kansas—indeed he is in the manner a new boy, being red and rosy. Before he commenced taking your Pills he was a very pale and delicate looking child, and had Epileptic Fits for about four years, and seeing your Pills advertised in the Christian Instructor, I sent to you and got two boxes of them, and he has not had a fit since he commenced taking them; he has been expected to change his weather, going to school and on the farm, and he has not had a fit nor a symptom of one since he commenced taking your Pills. He learns well at school, and his mind is clear and quick. I feel that you are not sufficiently paid for the service and benefit you have been to us in restoring our child to health. I will cheerfully recommend your Pills to every one I hear of that is afflicted with Epilepsy. Please send me some of your circulars, so that I can send them to any that I hear of that is afflicted in that way.

Respectfully, etc., LEWIS THORNBROUGH.

Sent to any part of the country by mail, free of postage, on receipt of a remittance. Price, one box, $3; two, $5; twelve, $27. Address SETH S. HANCE, 108 Baltimore St., Baltimore, Md.
