CHINA.

Accounts have been received at St. Petersburg from Rekin to the 29th of April, which state that the insurgents are making constant progress. The famous San-Wan, Commander-in-Chief of the Tartar srmy, has been repeatedly beaten by the rebels. In the last battle the Imperialist army was completely. routed, and San-Wan narrowly escaped falling into the hands of the enemy. The insurgents then marched rapidly against Pekin, and were menacing that capital. The English and French envoys were living quietly at, Pekin... After their installation the Russian Mission had paid them a visit of ceremony. The English and French representatives were living in the Palace of the Princes, near the Russian mission. The French Plenipotentiary had employed 700 operatives to rebuild the Palace of the Embassy.— The Palace thus restored will bear the stamp of the European style of building combined with the Chinese. The Emperor of China is still residing at Geoke, where he proposes to remain until next autumn: The state of the country, caused by the progress of the insurrection, renders his return uncertain. The Russian priests and monks sent into the Chinese provinces to convert the idolators have had immense success. Colonel Baluzek, an Aide-de-Camp of the Emperor Alexander, is shortly expected at Pekin, where he is to establish his residence with his family. His arrival will coincide with that of the first caravan' of Russian merchants from Kiachta, which is composed of 100 camels. The Russian establishment at Kiachta is shortly to be transferred to Irkutsk, the chief town of the government of that name.

THE CROPS .- The New England farmers are reaching a time when they can make safe calculations upon their crops. Corn is said to be two weeks earlier than last year. The late hot weather has brought it forward rapidly, and it promises well. Potatoes look much better than usual. Some of the earliest varieties begin to come to market. The apple prospect is very poor. The enormous crop of last year is likely to be fully offset by the deficiency this senson. Pears are no better. Some varieties are entirely gone. Of the Bartlett there will he scarcely enough to bless our eyes, leave alone the satisfying of the appetite. Of peaches, cherries and quinces there are none. Most of the peach and quince trees were destroyed by the cold of last winter. The cherry trees are not much better. They have slowly commenced the making of new wood, and partially leaved out; but the leaves are unhealthy-curied up and covered with vermin. Currents and other small fruits yield scantily. The farmer has his grass, corn and potatoes, and these must be the chief dependence for the year .- Newburyport Herald.

WHAT THEY ARE FIGHTING FOR. - The New York Times says:—" Most people have found out what we are fighting for—those who have not may settle down in the belief that it is to enable lawyer's clerks to draw the pay of Brigadier-Generals."

The distress of the families of the United States volunteers living in New York has been so urgent of late that the Common Council found it necessary, after private subscriptions had been exhausted, to resort to a loan as the readiest means of providing the required relief.

A GRADUATE AT WEST POINT .- The first graduate in the first examining class at West Point, last week, was a poor Irish hoy, named Peter O'Rourke, who, at the age of 16 years, did not know his letters. This lad had saved the lives of several persons on Lake Erie, who, out of of gratitude, offered him a considerable sum of money, which he declined, on condition that they would secure him an education. They complied with his request, sent him to school, and afterwords secured him a situation at West Point, where he has just graduated with the highest honors. It is out of such stuff that the great men of this country are made.— Christian Inquirer.

MR. ROBERT CHAMBERS ON SPIRITUALISM.—W. Howitt, in the Spiritual Magazine for March, says :-"Mr. Robert Chambers has been making an extensive tour in the United States. I saw him the other day, and asked him-What of Spiritualism in the States? He replied, 'I have studied that question wherever I have gone, and the result was most satisfactory. There the great fight is over; you bear little comparatively said of it, but you find it in all the Churches. It has given new evidence, new life, a new leaven to Christianity there. It has destroyed feeling: it has wonder sectarin spread a sounder, nobler tone of faith, a more palpable sentiment of" peace on earth and good will towards men."

THE POWER OF THE SCOTCH CLERGY IN THE SEVEN

TERNTH CENTURY.—The following is an extract from the second volume of Mr. Buckle's "History of Civilization in England," just published in London:—
"The Scotch during the seventeenth century instead of cultivating the arts of life, improving their minds, or adding to their wealth, passed the greater part of their time in what were called religious exercises .-The sermons were so long and so frequent that they absorbed all leisure, and yet the people were never weary of hearing them. When the preacher was once in the pulpit the only limit to his loquanty was his strength. Being sure of a patient and reverential audience, he went on as long as he could. If he discoursed for two hours without intermission, he was valued as a zealous pastor, who had the good of his flock at heart; and this was about as much as an ordinary clergymen could perform, because, in attering his sentiments, he was expected to display great vehemence, and to evince his earnestness by toiling and sweating abundantly. This boundary was, however, often passed by those who was equal to the labor; and Forbes, who was vigorous as well as voluble, thought nothing of preaching for five or six hours. But, in the ordinary course of nature, such feats were rare; and as these people were in these matters extremely eager, an ingenious contrivance was hit upon whereby the desires might be satisfied. On great occasions several clorgymen were present in the same church, in order that when one was fatigued, he might leave the pulpit and be succeeded by another, who in his turn, followed by a third, the patience of the hearers being apparently inexhausti-ble. Indeed the Scotch, by the middle of the seventeenth century had grown accustomed to look up to their minister as if he was a god, and to dwell with rapture upon every word that dropt from his lips. The clergy interfered with every man's private concerns, ordered how he should govern his family, and often took upon themselves the personal control of his household. Their minions, the elders, were everywhere; for each parish was divided into several quarters, and to each quarter one of these officials was allotted, in order that he might take special notice of what was done in his own district. Besides this spies were appointed, so that nothing could escape their supervision. Not only the streets, but shop, and his family was likely to famish. His mono-even private houses were searched and ransacked to mania was well known to Dean Swift, who benevosee if any one was absent from church while the minister was preaching. To him all must listen, and him all must obey. Without the consent of his tribunal, no person might engage himself, either as a domestic servant, or as a field labourer. If any one incurred the displeasure of the clergy they did not scruple to summon his servants and force them to state whatever they knew respecting him, and whatever they had seen done in his house. To speak disrespectfully of a preacher was a grievous offence; to differ from him was a heresy; even to pass him in the streets without saluting him was punished as a crime. His very name was regarded as sacred and not to be taken in vain. The clergy believed that they alone were privy to the counsels of the Al-it; and they did not scruple to affirm that, by their consures, they could open and shut the Kingdom of ding the tenth chapter of Revelations, and greatly Heaven. As if this were not enough, they also gave distressed at a difficulty I have met with ; and you could bring him at once before the judgment seat of God. Besides being ambassadors and angels they were watchmen, who spied out every danger, and whose sleepless vigilance protected the faithful. They were the joy and delight of the earth. They were musicians, singing the songs of sweetness; pay, they were sirens who sought to allure men from the evil path, and save them from perishing. They were chosen arrows stored up in the quiver of God. They were burning lights and shining torches. Without them darkness would prevail; but their presence illumined the world, and made things clear. Hence they were called stars, which title also expressed the eminence of their office, and its superiority over all others. To make this still more apparent, prodigies were vouchsafed, and strange lights might occasionaily be seen which, hovering around the form of the minister, confirmed his supernatural mission. The profune wished to jest at these things, but they were too notorious to be denied; and there was a wellknown case in which, at the death of a clergyman, a star was miraculously exhibited in the firmament and it was seen by many persons, although it was then mid-day."

PROTESTANT, EMIGRATION. - On Monday, morning a party of Mormonites, comprising several families (in all 82 men, women, and children), under the charge of "Elder" Lingwood left London by the North Western Railway for Liverpool, there to embark with a number of the " brethren " collected from different districts, for Boston, U.S., whence they will proceed by the northern route to Utah. The females in this party outnumbered the males in the proportion of three to two.—Standard

Mr. Spurgeon has published the following characteristic note: " Mr. Spurgeon begs to inform the public that he is knocked up with hard work, and is compelled to go into the country to rest. This will upset all arrangements, and he begs his friends to remit his promises, and the Christian public not to inundate him with invitations." When we reflect that this great preacher but recently added two lots of souls, one of 100, the other of 140, to his communion (being, as an English religious journal observes 'pretty well as times go") we think he is fairly entitled to some relaxation.

A Swell Pagrou.-Duvernoy was the pink of clerical fashion. His tie was exquisite. The brushing of his halr a study. The art of tailoring had reached its acme in his clothes; but of all things, that which distinguished Duvernoy, par excellence, was the manipulation of his handkerchief. I can't find language to express my admiration of this. It was thrilling, when describing the horrors of day of judgment, and after he had separated the goats from the sheep, and had grilled the sheep, but one did not know what he was exactly going to do with the goats--it was thrilling when he said," there they stand apart awaiting their fate, as you, my brethren will stand and await yours," and then took out his handkerchief and gently soothed his face, flushed with the excitement of reading his eloquence and fervour-a week stale, but let that pass. Next the handkerchief was roiled delicately round by the beautiful black kid gloves, and held to the mouth a short, interesting, would-be consumptive cough was improvised—and then, rallying his faded strength, he saved the goats. The great crime of Duvernoy was that he turned the heads of the young clergymen of the day. They all thought that by dressing as swells, and appearing to be exhausted with the immense amount of feeling thrown luto their sermons, and putting on a little consumption, they could draw full houses-fah! I mean congregations--and get some of those slippers which were sent to Duvernoy in such numbers that, as his enemies said, he kept a shop for the sale of them in Liverpool, and realized handsomely. It was really very aunoying, and ! never forgave Duvernoy for it, that one could not go into a church at the West End without finding the curate an ecclesiastical puppy, and very often the rector another .- The Twickenham Tales. A "VICTIM" OF THE TELEGRAPH. - Some print out fully quickened the pulse of the religious heart, and gentleman bearing the highly honorable and respectable name of John Erskine, was recently arrested by a police marshal in St. Louis, and taken before a magistrate. When captured, Mr. Erskine, who is a severe looking personage, with sickly whiskers, was apparently endeavoring to carry away the stone steps of a banking bouse, and occasionally calling some invisible individual a "darned mean abilitian-ish-ish-onist."

Upon being arraigned before the court, Mr. Brakine balanced himself majestically on one leg, shut one eye indignantly, and said, severely:
"G'on with the (hic) show!"

"What is the matter with this man?" thundered the magistrate, who felt somewhat ruffled by Erskine's profound remark. "Drunk, your honor!" roated the marshal.

"Itzall a mistake, Mr. Chairman-I mean your honor!" responded the injured Mr. Erskine "I was not drunk, sir- no, sir ! Drunk, sir-no, sir-no, sir - drunk, sir, no sir - hose !" Here the court observed that the prisoner was rambling. "No, sir!" ejaculated Mr. Erskine, falling suddealy into the arms of the marshal, and then righting himself again with a heavy lurch. "I'm not rambling, sir; but it's the cussed telegraph. That's what's the matter. I take a paper and read all the telegraph. That's what's the matter. First, the telegraph says that Abe Lincoln has taken Virginia, and then it says that he's marching on Canada. That's what's the matter. Six telegraphs an hour, and all diff-fiferent-hicl I want to know about the war, and I read the telegraphs. What do I learn by the telegraphs? Why, I learn that what Oak, Chessnut, and enamelled Chamber Sets, vary-took place yesterday, ling in price from $20 to $225. Also to his Mahogbut will take place to-morrow; and that the stirring events reported to have taken place to-morrow won't oc-kee-kee-cur till some time last week-hie!-That's what's the matter. I'm so confused that I don't know what I'm about, and it's all the telegraphs. I hope your honor will not think I'm at all intex-ex-exes-intexes-exes-isticated — hic! That's

THE TAILOR AND DEAN SWIFT .- A tailor in Dublin, near the residence of the Dean, took it into his bead that he was specially and divinely inspired to interpret the prophecies, and especially the book of Revelation. Quitting the shop board he turned preacher or rather prophet, until his customers had left his shop, and his family was likely to famish. His monolently watched for some convenient opportunity to turn the current of his thoughts. One night, the tailor, as he fancied, got sential revelation to go and convert Dean Swift; and next morning, took up the line of march to the deanery. The Dean, whose study was furnished with a glass door, saw the tailor ap proach, and instantly the Dean surmised his errand-Throwing himself into an attitude of solemnity and. thoughtfulness, with the Bible open before him, and his eyes fixed on the tenth chapter of Revelation awaited his approach. The door opened, and the mighty, and that by virtue of this knowledge they Lord hath sent you to belp me out of my difficulty." could determine what any man's future state would This unexpected welcome inspired the failor, and be. Going still further they claimed the power, not strengthened his assurance in his own prophetic only of foretelling his future state, but of controlling | character, and disposed him to listen to the discourse. "My friend,' said the Dean," I have just been reading the tenth chapter of Revelations, and greatly out that a word of theirs could hasten the moment are the very man sent to help me out. Here is an of death, and by cutting off, the sinner in his prime, account of an angel that came down from heaven, who was so large that he placed one foot on the see and the other on the earth, and lifted up his bands to heaven.-" Now my knowledge of mathematics," continued the Dean, has enabled me calculate exactly the size and form of the angel; but I am in a great difficulty to ascertain how much cloth it will take to make him a pair of breeches, and that is axactly in your line of business. I have no doubt the Lord has sent you to show me." This exposition came like an electric shock to the poor tailor; he rushed from the bouse, ran to his shop, and a sudden revulsion of thought and feeling came over him. Making breeches was exactly in his line of business. He returned to his occupation thoroughly cured of his prophetical revelations, by the wit of the Dean.

DIPTHEBIA.

We are informed that a sure specific for that DREAD-ED DISHASE, DIPTHERIA and sore throat, now prevailing to such an alarming extent, is Perry Davis' Pain Killer. It is used as a gargle to the throat, mixed with water - two parts water and one Pain Killer. It will quickly cure the disease, and never fail, if applied in time. As soon as the throat shows any signs of soreness, gargle with Pain Killer as above prescribed, and in had cases, use it freely to bathe the neck. This should be made known to the world, and we advise every one afflicted to give it one will. It is sold by medicine dealers generally. Read

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. W. Carteright, of New Orleans.
"Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and offectual in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

FOR JAUNDICE AND ALL LIVER COMPLAINTS.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

"Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of billous complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people."

DYSPERSIA - INDIGESTION.

PREPERSIA — INDICESTION.

From Dr. Heavy J. Knox, of St. Louis.

"The Pills you were kind enough to send me have been all used in my practice, and have satisfied me that they are truly an extraordinary medicine. So peculiarly are they adapted to the disenses of the human system, that they seem to work upon them alone. I have cured some cases of dyspersic and indigestion with thom, which had resisted the other remedies we commonly use. Indeed I have experimentally found them to be effectual in almost all the complaints for which you recommend them."

DYSENTERY - DIARRHOZA - RELAX.

DYSENTERY — DIARRHEA — RELAX.

From Dr. J. G. Green, of Chicago.

"Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best sperients I have over found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses, for bilious dysentery and diarrhea. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children." INTERNAL OBSTRUCTION-WORMS-SUPPRESSION.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, who practises as a Physician and Midwife in Boston.

"I find one or two large doses of your Pills, taken at the proper time, are excellent promotives of the natural same from when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very of-fectual to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients."

CONSTIPATION - COSTIVENESS.

GONSTIPATION — UOSTIVENESS.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

"Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. If others of our fratornity have found thom as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the progenitor of others that are worse. I believe costiveness to originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease."

Impurities of the Blood — Scropula — Erysifelas — Salt Rheum — Tetter — Tumors — Rheumatism — Gout — Neuralgia.

— HHEUMATISM — GOUT — NEURALGIA.

From Dr. Excitet Hall, Philadelphia.

"You were right, Doctor, in saying that your PILLS purify the blood. They do that. I have used them of late years in my practice, and agree with your statements of their efficacy. They stimulate the excrutories, and carry off the impurities that stagnate in the blood, engendering disease. They stimulate the organs of digestion, and infuse vitality and vigor into the system.

"Such remedies as you prepare are a national benefit, and you deserve great credit for them."

From Dr. Edward Boyd, Baltimore.

"DEAR Dr. Aven: I cannot answer you what complaints I have cured with your Pills better than to say all that we ever treat with a purpative medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathertic in my daily contest with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly."

Most of the Pills in market contain Morcury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the droadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Has long been manufactured by a practical chemist, and every ounce of it under his own eye, with invariable accuracy and care. It is sealed and protected by law from counterfeits, and consequently can be relied on as genuine, without adulteration. It supplies the surest remedy the world has ever known for the cure of all pulmonary complaints; for COUGES, COLDS, HOARSENESS, ASTHIM, CROUP, WHOOPING COUGES, BRONGHITIS, INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease. As time makes these facts wider and better known, this medicine has gradually become the best reliance of the afflicted, from the log cabin of the American peasant to the palaces of European kings. Throughout this entire country, in every state and city, and indeed almost every hamlet it contains, Cherry Protoral is known as the best of all renedies for diseases of the threat and lungs. In many foreign countries it is extensively used by their most intelligent physicians. If there is any dependence on what men of every station certify it has done for them; if we can trust our own senses when we see the dangerous affections of the lungs yield to it; if we can depend on the assurance of intelligent physicians, whose business is to know; in about, if there is any reliance upon any thing, then is it irrofunbly proven that this medicine does cure the class of diseases it is designed for, beyond any and all other remedies known to mankind. Nothing but its intrinsic virtues, and the unmistakable benefit conferred on thousands of sufferers, could originate and maintain the reputation it enjoys. While many inferior remedies have been thrust upon the community, have failed, and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cure too numerous and remarkable to be forgotten.
