

2) Decreased surveillance and enhanced personal control

3) The promotion of freedom of expression and other essential human rights

Canada should co-ordinate the new technology and human rights strategies of its various departments and agencies.