service is manifest. When is the Grand Trunk to build its short line from Kingston to Ottawa and give this city a six hours' service from capital to capital in connection with its several main line express trains? The way Toronto railway service problems appear to be handled by the two companies is to summon the local chiefs to Montreal twice a year for a talk on the needs of the road, and, after a palaver, after the manner of a Hudson Bay factor with minor traders, to send them home with the promise of an early visit from the Montreal magnate. He comes in his special car, he hands out his wise stand-offs, or is so busy quieting other more disturbing elements that he speeds away again in his car with a promise to summon every one down to Montreal in a lit-

PICAYUNE AFTER REGINA. A city publicity movement is going ahead in Regina, the population of which is only a little over 5000. Regina business men are setting a fine example

The Regina board of trade has decided to employ a publicity commissioner, to raise $5000 from the citizens for the current year's expenditure, and to ask the city council, which is understood to be quite willing, to raise another $5000. Regina, therefore, commits itself to spending $10,000 in the next year for the establishment of a publicity department, in order to attract capital to the city. Toronto city council has established a department of industries and publicity, and has voted $5000 for the expenses of the

There is no reason to doubt that Mr. Dunlop's summing up of the economic situation in Britain is substantially accurate.
