Yonge St. Canada's Greatest Store.

YONGE AND QUEEN STREETS, January 12, 1897.

From Halifax to Vancouver.

This store holds a unique relation to thousands of families all over Canada by reason of shopping by mail. Our trade with out-of-town customers has grown to the proportions of a business in itself. Orders come avalanching in regardless of weather, and goods go from us in never ending procession. Reaching out beyond a local influence has made the store what it is. Considering goodwill more than profit has given us a country-wide constituency.

This is pre-eminently the selling time for White Goods. The papers have emphasized that fact for ten days past, and illustrated catalogues have distributed full information from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The statement isn't overdrawn. We're filling orders from towns and villages all over Canada. The same thing Is true of all the stocks. It isn't necessary to tell of such values as these more than once:
