REBEL WHO LED ATTACK IN CORK TO BE EXECUTED

Court Will Take No Action in Appeal of Joseph Murphy.

DUBLIN, Jan. 31 .- On the appeal of oseph Murphy, who was found guilty by court-martial of having led an attack in Cork, October 8, against the military, and sentenced to death, the court today handed down a decision that it was powerless to stay execution of the sentence, but that it thought the prisoner should be given time to make further representations before the court

Murphy kad asked the court of ap Murphy had asked the court of appeals to upset the former proceedings on the ground of the refusal of the courtmartial to permit of a certain cross-examination on behalf of the prisoner. It was also contended that the proceedings were held prior to the proclamation of martial law. On this contention the court held that the courtmartial had been established according to statute, and was competent to impose sentence, and that therefore interference with it would be unprecedented.

A communication from the Sarnia Automobile Club, pointing out the evils of the present method of paying rural constables and magistrates, and advocating the abolition of the fee system, was one of the last items under discussion, and after several councillors also cases that had been brought to their attention, in view of pending legislation it was decided to withhold any action until the June session.

Under the child was a guilt containing pockets. Twelve quarts of liquor were in the quilt pockets. Hammond's excuse for smuggling the liquor over from Sarnia was that he was buying a house on a contract and intended to sell the liquor to meet the house payments.

And for not a few ethics is not what counts. Instead of the expected depopulation of the Austrian capital, it is overpopulated, and this has added greatly to the difficulty of provisioning the city.

As the line between honest and illegal trade has become hard to determine in the present abnormal conditions, with the innumerable and often impossible restrictive rules and regulations, many thousands are supporting themselves by ing a house on a contract and intended to sell the liquor to meet the house payments.

MUSKRATS NEARLY EXTINCT. Amherstburg, Feb. 1.—Old residents here are puzzled at the almost total ab-sence of the muskrats from their usual sence of the muskrats from their usual haunts this season. Hunters now count themselves fortunate to gather a bag of 100 where formerly 1,000 was not uncommon. A close season, with severe penalties for those found guilty of infractions of the law, is the only remedy, say the experts, for the shortage.
