it is easily packed and easily transported from one place to another. Moreover, it plays the same records as the larger machines. The case is of golden oak, and all the metal parts are nickel-plated. The price is $21.00.

"Garden Girl."—Thrilling days, these, aren't they, when the cauliflowers are up and beets grow so thick they need thinning? As for overalls, one of the best models for Summer use is a bloomer with an apron bib, with which can be worn the coolest, sheerest sort of blouse. The leg of the bloomer, which is pleated, may be fastened around the ankle, or turned up to the knee. It is made of cotton drill, in cream, khaki, brown and blue, also in blue and white check; the sizes featured are 32 to 44 bust measure, and the price is $2.25. Another popular design is in two-piece style—bloomers and shirt-blouse, well tailored, in the same material and colors as the other except that the check is black and white instead of blue and white. The sizes are the same, and the price is $3.50.

"Fidele."—No, those regal-looking bedroom sets of polished management of the once-respected washstand as one of their members. But what country folk members. But what country folk often do when their houses do not rejoice in two and three bathrooms is to cover the top of a semnoe or a long, narrow table with bevelled glass and use this as a stand for water jug and basin. The semnoe does not allow much elbow room, but if the bedroom is small this is often an advantage. One charming mahogany dresser in one charming mahogany dresser in Sheraton style which you would be sure to like is 46 inches across the top, has a mirror 30 by 28 inches, 2 long, deep drawers, and 2 small drawers, all dustproof. The price of it is $41.00, and the somnoe to match with a 16 by 15 inches. match, with a 16 by 16 inch top, $10.00.

Maria.—It is no narrow life of outings and athletics that the sweater coat leads this year, Maria. It goes to teas, downtown shopping—even to garden parties. You need have no fear that such a garment will be limited in its usefulness. Considering your several white, and black and white skirts, one would suggest your choosing a purple sweater—one of the most fashionable of all this season. Canadians Advance on Four Mile Front to Crown Winter Offensive.

TRAINED FOR ATTACK

Careful Preparations Precede Great Battle for Dominating Ground.

Ottawa, July 10. — The following report on the operations of the Canadian Army Corps, containing a detailed description of the capture of Vimy Ridge has been received by the government from general headquarters in France: The attack of the Canadian corps upon the Vimy Ridge was launched at 5.30 a.m. on April 9, 1917, as part of the general British offensive delivered at that hour east of Arras. Possession of the ridge would deprive the enemy of observation into the valleys running southwest from it, and would secure for the British a commanding view of the plains to the

In view, however, of the recent German withdrawal south of Arras, the right of which rested upon this powance of the Vimy Ridge, already great prior to the enemy's withdrawal, had been considerably increased. The capture of the ridge would imperil rman hold upon the French in-

Along the whole front lay a chain of great craters, the product of constant mining activity.

Accordingly, prior to the Canadian corps' attack the most careful preparations had been made, both with respect to the training of the personnel and the accumulation of guns, ammunition and material. The attack itself was only the culminating attack itself was only the culminating phase of a long and insistent offensive maintained thrucut the winter which included a large number of successful raids and destructive artillary bomberdments.

successful raids and destructive artillery bombardments.

The front entrusted to the Canadian corps extended from the Arras-Lens road about three-quarters of a mile north of the College of Roclincourt to a point in our old support line about 1000 yards east of the southern portion of Souchez, a distance of about 7000 yards. The attacking forces consisted of four Canadian divisions, with one British brigade attached to the right-centre

Situation at Midday. By midday the right and right centre divisions had captured their third objectives. The left centre division, who had already reached their final objectives, were busily consolidating and sushing out patrols in accordance with their plans. At this time over demman prisoners had already been reported taken.

The advance of the two right divisions and of the attached British brigade to their final objectives also took place in accordance with program. Fassing thru the wide belts of Ger-nian wire which had fringed the plateau, thru which our heavy artillery had broken lanes, the advancing battalions came to the steep eastern slopes of the Vimy Ridge and were the first of the alked troops since the German occupation in 1915 to look down upon the level plains of Douai. At their foot lay the Villages of Farbus, Vimy and Petit Vimy and beyond they could see Bailleul, Wilterval and Oppy, Ar-leux and Mericourt. Here in the woods that fringed the eastern edge of the ridge we captured several patteries of German guns, hastily abandoned, with their ammunition.

In the early afternoon, except for the temporay check on the front of the left division, the complete succers of the Canadian corps' attack was assured, and patrols were pushing down towards the plain. Mean-while, whenever bodies of the enemy endeavored to assemble for counter-pone a further attack till the after-noon of the following day. This attack took place at 4 p.m. on April 10, and was entirely successful. The remainder of Hill 145 was carried, and the capture of the Canadian corps' bjectives was completed. To sum up the achievements of the Canadian corps: The whole of the Vimy Ridge, on a length of 7000 yards yards, had been successfully captured. Many Germans had been killed.

been taken, together with 63 guns of all calibres, 124 machines guns and 104 trench mortars. Our own losses were light in proportion to the results During the succeeding days the process of pushing forward patrols across the level ground at the foot of the ridge was continued, while our artillery prepared the way for this advance and broke up parties of the enemy whenever seen. At 5 a.m. on the morning of April 12, the two battalions which had so gallantly completed the capture of Hill 145 on April 10 advanced to the assault, of the Pimple. In spite of a blinding snow storm and the muddy slopes by which it was surrounded our attacking troops reached the German trenches and after fierce hand-to-hand fighting with the German Guards Regiment that formed the gar-rison, captured the hill and its surrounding defences. The enemy's losses in hilled were very heavy

The British division north of the Souchez River also captured their objectives and the loss of these two positions destroyed whatever hope the enemy may have entertained of recapturing Vimy Ridge. Closely followed by our troops, he hurriedly withdrew and in the principal attack and sub-sequent operations, a total of 4081 from the ground dominated by the ridge. This retreat, which was the prisoners, including 87 officers, had direct and immediate result of the capture of Vimy Ridge, continued until a wide belt of country from south of Bailleul to south of Loos, and includ-ing the villages of Bailleul, Willerval, Vimy, Petit Vimy, Givenchy and Angres and the town of Lievin, had passed into the possession of the British troops. In the course of this with-drawal the enemy abandoned powerful defensive positions, together with a number of guns and great quantities of war material of every kind.

His retreat did not stop until he had reached positions beyond the range of immediate observation from the ridge.

Sir Stanley Gives Account of Mesopotamian Expedition's Success.

London, July 10, via Reuter's Otatawa Agency.—A despatch issued by Sir Stanley Maude, commander inchief of the Mesopotaminan expedition ary forces for seven months, until the 31st day of March last, shows that that period was equally divided in preparations and in the operations which led to the fall of Bagdad. He describes how the advance was sucessfully carried out in the face of most difficult conditions, thru the tenacious spirit and gallantry of the British and the navy.

The Mesopotamian commission's recent disclosures attact attention to and create special interest in General Maude's references to the present water transport and hospital arrange-He states that the newlyformed inland water transport directorate is so well organized that "an eight day endless chain of river craft passed up and down the river, thereby assuring the maintenance of troops at Sir Stanley Maude further says: "Our well equipped hospitals were more than adequate to meet all calls, and thruout the evacuation of wounded was carried out on model lines.
